NEW REVOLT AGAINST PÉRON SPREADS, REBELS SEIZE PORT

GRAVOIS CHOSEN AS TEST ROUTE FOR REVERSIBLE TRAFFIC FLOW

4 of 6 Lanes to Be Used for Inbound Autos in Morning and for Those Outbound in Afternoon.

The city will try out a system of reversible lanes in the center of Gravois avenue to provide an extra lane for heavy traffic during morning and afternoon rush hours, the Post-Dispatch was told today.

The experiment, to be conducted on the section of Gravois between Chippewa street and the intersection of Twelfth street and Geyer avenue, will divide the six-lane thoroughfare into four lanes for inbound traffic and two for outbound vehicles during the morning rush. During the afternoon rush the setup will be reversed, with four lanes allotted for outbound and two for inbound traffic.

City officials are worried about the volume of traffic that will use Gravois when the $13,500,000 Third Street Interregional Highway goes into operation next month. The experiment is designed to speed traffic flow on Gravois; if it proves successful, the reversible system will be made permanent.

Signs Being Posted.

In preparation for the experiment, the traffic division is posting signs barring parking on both sides of Gravois from 7 to 9 a.m. and from 4 to 6 p.m. Heretofore, parking during rush hours has been forbidden only on the side of the street used by heaviest traffic.

To divide Gravois into four-lane and two-lane sections, the city will use rubber cones of the type utilized by workmen painting lines on streets.

Traffic Commissioner Charles Gonter has ordered 800 additional cones, and will employ two extra truck drivers and four extra laborers for placing and switching the cones each day.

A major difficulty is presented by 47 concrete pylons now stationed as traffic dividers in the center of Gravois. Some of these are equipped with electric traffic signals, others with blinking lights. Traffic policemen will be assigned to the task of routing automobiles to the left of these barriers and instructing motorists in the use of the fourth traffic lane.

May Start in Two Weeks.

It will be perhaps two weeks before the reversible plan can be put into effect. Traffic officials hope there will be sufficient time before the opening of the Third Street Highway to try out the new system.

A much more drastic change in traffic control was proposed 12 days ago by Public Service Co. The utility suggested that the reversible flow system be put into effect on Gravois, Market street and Natural Bridge avenue, with the curb lane on the heaviest-traffic-flow side of these thoroughfares being reserved for exclusive use of busses and with many cross streets being closed during rush hours.

The city has given Public Service Co. no formal answer on its proposal, but it is understood that traffic officials are reluctant to undertake such sweeping changes. The experiment on Gravois was mapped by city officials some time ago.

SPY AND MAN SHE SAVED FROM NAZIS TO BE DIVORCED

LONDON, Sept. 16 (UP)—A wartime heroine who endured Nazi tortures to save the life of the man who later became her husband is being sued for divorce, it was disclosed today.

Capt. Peter Churchill, World War II head of a section of the British counter-espionage network, has filed a divorce petition against his French-born wife, Odette, alleging misconduct with a man identified only as Harlowe. The suit was not defended.

A divorcee, with three children, Mrs. Churchill volunteered for counter-espionage in 1942. For two years she traveled between Britain and occupied France until the Gestapo captured her and her immediate superior—a man known to her only as "Raoul."

Raoul was the alias of Capt. Churchill.

They agreed to pretend they were husband and wife, and Odette maintained to the Nazis that "Raoul" (Churchill) had come to France only at her insistence. He was freed, but she was sent to the Ravensbruck concentration camp. She escaped near the end of the war, went to Britain and married Churchill.

STEVENSON GETS SHOES INSTEAD OF KEYS TO CITY

The Democratic presidential candidate of 1952, whose worn sole leather provided one of the feature news photographs of that campaign, got the shoes instead of the customary keys to the city.

In making the presentation, Foot referred to the fact a governor of this British colony 50 years ago refused to accept aid brought by U. S. warships for earthquake victims. Stevenson replied that it had taken a long time for another governor to make amends.

Here for Jamaica's 300th anniversary celebration, Stevenson opened the island's industrial fair with an address in Queen Victoria Park. Chief Minister Norman Manley welcomed him.

PLUMBERS JOKE: 'TALK' SMOG OUT OF LOS ANGELES

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 16 (AP)—Solution of the smog problem is quite simple, said the Associated Plumbing Contractors of Los Angeles in a resolution yesterday.

"We hereby petition smog control officials and all others who have talked much on how to solve this problem to gather all of these groups together, travel to the highest mountain, face the wall of smog and start talking all at once," said the resolution.

"The resultant wind is sure to dissipate in short order the smog hovering in the air.

EAST GERMAN RED OFFICIALS REACH MOSCOW TO OPEN TALKS

Discussions Viewed as Reassurance to Grotewohl That Kremlin Has Not Sold Out His Regime.

MOSCOW, Sept. 16 (AP)—Premier Grotewohl of East Germany arrived in Moscow with a government delegation today to start negotiations with the Kremlin. Only three days ago, West German Chancellor Adenauer finished similar negotiations.

The Soviet Government paved the way for the East Germans' arrival by hailing East Germany last night as a sovereign state and by brushing aside Adenauer's claim that his government speaks for all Germans.

Grotewohl was first off the plane from Berlin, followed by Walter Ulbricht, deputy premier and Communist party boss, by Otto Nuschke, another deputy premier, and by Foreign Minister Lothar Bolz.

On hand to greet them were Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, party boss Nikita Khrushchev, Deputy Premier Mikhail Pervukhin, Labar Kaganovich and Georgi Malenkov. Premier Bulganin, who is ill, was not present.

No Parade.

The Big Three Western ambassadors did not show up for the airport reception because their countries do not recognize the East German government.

There was no parade and when Grotewohl and his group drove into town they went through practically empty streets.

Bulganin was not on hand for the opening today of another set of Soviet negotiations, with a Finnish delegation headed by President Paasakivi and Premier Urho Kekkonen. The Finns hope to get back the heavily fortified Porkkala naval base, 20 miles southwest of Helsinki, which the Russians have held on a 50-year lease since the 1947 peace treaty formally ended the Russian-Finnish hostilities of World War II.

Reason for Talks.

The meeting with Grotewohl was seen as a Soviet move to reassure the East German Communists that Russia had not sold them out by negotiating with Adenauer.

The Soviet-West German talks resulted in agreement to set up diplomatic relations between the two governments and, according to Adenauer, an oral promise from Bulganin to release German prisoners held in Russia since World War II.

The Russians set the stage for the Grotewohl talks by rejecting two claims Adenauer had made before leaving Moscow: (1) that the Bonn regime was the only legitimate German government, and (2) that a final settlement of Germany's frontiers must await the peace treaty.

Border Issue.

The Russians declared through their news agency Tass that Adenauer has no more to say about Germany's final borders than East Germany. They also pointed out that the East Germans already had signed away prewar German territory east of the Oder-Neisse line to Poland and Russia. Tass made clear that the Soviets do not consider the frontier subject to further dickering.

The Oder-Neisse line was laid down at the 1945 Potsdam conference. It was then agreed that, subject to a final peace settlement, Poland should administer those parts of prewar

RED CHINA FREES 2 U.S. CIVILIANS, ONE SAYS HE WAS GUILTY OF SPYING

Former Marine Officer and Priest, First of 22 Peiping Has Promised to Release, Reach Hong Kong.

HONG KONG, Sept. 16 (AP)—Red China today released two American civilians — the first of 22 the Communists have promised to free soon. One of the two asserted he was guilty of spying for the United States.

Released were Walter A. Rickett of Seattle, a Fulbright scholar imprisoned July 25, 1951, on espionage charges, and the Rev. Harold W. Rigney, Chicago, dean of the Roman Catholic Fu Jen University in Peiping, arrested on spying and sabotage charges in July 1951.

Rickett said, after crossing the border into this British crown colony: "I was engaged in espionage work and there was a (Korean) war. I was an agent for the United States Government. I collected military information."

Rickett's wife, Adele, when released by the Reds last February, said she was guilty of spying. She praised the Communists highly. She repeated that today in Yonkers, N. Y., after her husband was freed. The couple went to China in 1948.

American officials said last spring Mrs. Rickett appeared to have been thoroughly "brainwashed." Rickett is a former United States Marine Corps language officer who speaks Chinese and Japanese.

Priest "Looks Terrible."

Father Rigney, 54 years old, was taken to the Hong Kong Catholic center. The Rev. Charles H. Vath said "he looks terrible — you don't understand," and asked newsmen to give the liberated priest time to rest. Father Vath said a news conference would be held later.

Rickett was taken to the Gloucester hotel in downtown Hong Kong.

Three hours after Rickett and Father Rigney were released there was no official word that any other Americans had crossed the border.

German Deported.

On the same train with the two Americans but unknown to them was a 75-year-old German woman missionary. Miss Maria Wagner said she was being deported from China after working for a Presbyterian mission at Yih Sien in Shangtung province since 1913.

She crossed the border today after the two Americans arrived and was taken to the Presbyterian mission home in Hong Kong.

"We have waited four years and three months for this day," said Father Rigney.

Both he and Rickett talked briefly at the border with Richard Tomlin, American Red Cross representative, and a reporter permitted into the area as a representative for all news agencies. Rickett praised both the Chinese and American Red Cross.

"I haven't been speaking English for a long time," Rickett said.

He said he confessed to espionage 15 days after he was arrested July 25, 1951—13 months after the start of the Korean war.

'I Was Guilty.'

"I collected the information and I was guilty," he said in a low, steady voice.

"The Chinese Government was lenient with me. They could have sentenced me to 10 years but gave me only six and released me after four.

"I'm afraid 10 years is a long time in anybody's life. Considering the situation, I was treated excellently. At all times my treatment was the same as the other Chinese prisoners, but . . . as a foreigner I was given more food."

Asked whether he feels he has been indoctrinated by the Reds, Rickett replied "I have read the Chinese papers and progressive articles."

He said he passed military information to United States consular officials and to a British embassy second secretary whom he identified as Ted Youde and to a Dutch legation employe he named as Miss Helen Van Der Hofen. Presumably the latter two were in Peiping at the time.

(In London, Foreign Office spokesman denied that Rickett had passed military information to Youde. The spokesman added that Rickett obviously "had been very thoroughly brain-

EX-DIRECTOR OF SCHOOL AREA IS INDICTED

Grand Jury Charges Former Scudder Board Member With Embezzlement.

Alphonse H. James, a former director of the Scudder School District in northern St. Louis county, was charged with embezzlement in an indictment returned yesterday by the May term Circuit Court grand jury in its final report at Clayton.

The indictment charged James with embezzling an unspecified portion of $861 which he had received from the district. The money was paid him on his representation that that sum had been expended for cleaning and assembling desks, the indictment said.

However, it continued, James "intended to keep and did keep a portion of the $861 for his own use and did not disclose this fact to other members of the said school board."

A suit to recover $34,169 from James, a Negro, and the other members of the old three-man board of directors of the district was filed last June 9. The board now consists of six directors.

Released on Bond.

James was arrested at his home in Robertson last night and was released on $1500 bond early today. He is a self-employed laborer.

In its final report to Circuit Judge Franklin Ferriss, the jury sharply criticized the financial operations of both the Scudder and Kinloch districts.

Of the Scudder board, as formerly constituted, the jury said it was extremely lax and unbusinesslike in the handling of the funds of the district.

"A great deal of money had been spent by the board, apparently without any realization of the actual cost of the labor and materials furnished to the school and without check-

ATLANTIC COAST HURRICANE ALERT SOUNDED FOR IONE

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 16 (AP)—A weekend hurricane alert was sounded by the Weather Bureau today for the Atlantic coast between North Carolina and Florida as hurricane Ione, ninth tropical storm of the season, its winds built up to 90 miles an hour, pushed westnorthwestward at a forward pace of about 12 miles an hour.

The storm was expected to move west-northwestward at about the same forward speed for another 12 hours and swing around to a more northwesterly course after that.

Ione's center was about 480 miles east of Nassau and 650 miles east-southeast of Miami.

Meanwhile Hurricane Hilda lashed the ancient ruins of the Mayans on the Yucatan peninsula with thundering winds and heavy rain. Hilda thrashed across the peninsula at a forward pace of 10 miles an hour, its whirling winds slowed to about 75 miles an hour by the encounter with land. Forecasters warned that Hilda would carry a great deal of energy across Yucatan and will again become a dangerous storm when it emerges into the Gulf of Campeche, which is a part of the Gulf of Mexico.

NAVY BORROWS ESKIMO TACTIC TO LAND CARGO

BARTER ISLAND, Alaska, Sept. 16 (AP) — Unloading operations on a vast convoy of Navy ships which dot the northern rim of the continent in this area continued at full speed today, thanks to a lesson learned from the Eskimos.

Vessels hovering off Point Barrow had been prevented from landing cargo by piles of grounded ice which clung to the shoreline after the main pack moved to sea.

When the vessel North Star arrived off Barrow with the winter's supplies for the Eskimo village, the natives set to work. They blasted passages through the heavy ice with dynamite and began moving supplies to shore through the openings. The Navy observers quickly adopted the plan.

The Navy ships are here with materials for the Distant Early Warning (DEW) line project being established as a protective radar system around the northern perimeter of North America.

The icepack has receded from these shores but movement of ships still is impeded by small ice floes which dot the offshore waters.

FALLS 100 FEET IN INSTALLMENTS, INJURIES SLIGHT

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 16 (AP)—Rubin Boyance, a painter from Levittown, Pa., slipped from a 100-foot high scaffold yesterday and plunged toward ground workers constructing a Delaware river bridge at nearby Edgely.

He fell about 30 feet—reached out—and managed to grasp a dangling rope. Workers above began to haul him back up. Just as Boyance neared the catwalk, he slipped again. This time there was no dangling rope. He fell—screaming—toward earth.

He landed in a taut piece of tarpaulin ground workers had improvised as a safety net—just in case—as he started up the rope. A hospital said his injuries were minor.

FINNISH VISITOR SAYS BULGANIN IS 'QUITE SICK'

Not 'Dangerously Ill,' However — Said to Be Suffering From Overwork.

MOSCOW, Sept. 16 (UP)—Former Finnish Foreign Minister Reinhold Svento said today Soviet Premier Bulganin is "quite sick but not dangerously ill."

Svento participated today in the first meeting of the current Finnish-Soviet talks and said afterward he was told about Bulganin's state of health by the Russians.

Bulganin was absent. He excused himself yesterday, pleading illness, from receiving Finnish Premier Kekkonen when the Finns arrived from Helsinki.

(Bulganin is suffering from overwork, a Soviet foreign official told an American representative tonight at a reception celebrating Mexico's national day, the Associated Press reported.)

Chain-Smoking.

Bulganin's illness was reported yesterday by the official Soviet news agency Tass though later the Moscow radio referred to Bulganin's "indisposition."

Tass gave no further details but informed sources said the 60-year-old Marshal had been suffering from headaches for several days.

These sources said Bulganin was chain-smoking at the final reception for West German Chancellor Adenauer Monday night and that the Chancellor, who does not smoke, remonstrated with Bulganin.

"You should not smoke so much with your headache," the sources quoted Adenauer as saying. They reported Adenauer tried to stop Bulganin from lighting another cigarette and snatched a package of cigarettes away from him.

Has Seemed Healthy.

It was obvious Thursday that Bulganin was very tired when he said farewell to Adenauer.

Westerners in Moscow were surprised to hear of the illness. In recent weeks when they had seen much of the Premier at parties and diplomatic functions he appeared in the best of health.

Since he became premier last Feb. 8, Bulganin has had an unusually full schedule of international conferences and negotiations, as well as a heavy program of entertainment for visiting foreign statesmen.

He has been to Warsaw for establishment of the eastern Europe defense organization, to Belgrade for a "reconciliation" meeting with Yugoslav President Josip (Tito) Broz and to Geneva for the Big Four summit conference.

UPRISING 'REALLY DIFFICULT' IN BUENOS AIRES, REPORT INDICATES

Army, Navy Units Opposing Argentine Dictator Claim to Have Taken Cordoba Province Also.

BUENOS AIRES, Sept 16 (UP)—Army and Navy units rebelled against the government of President Peron today and claimed to have seized control of populous Cordoba province.

By SAM SUMMERLIN

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 16 (AP)—Army and navy units rebelled at key points in Argentina today. The entire country was placed under a state of siege—virtual martial law.

Rebel forces captured control of Bahia Blanca, Argentina's big wheat port in Buenos Aires provine. This adjoins the Puerto Belgrano naval base, which revolted this morning.

The rebels seized a radio station and a newspaper in Bahia Blanca and apparently took over other facilities in the city of 100,000, about 275 miles south of the capital.

The fate of Cordoba, a city of 350,000, lying 300 miles northwest of the capital, was still in doubt as fighting went on there.

There were unofficial reports that some elements in the army had called on President Juan D. Peron to resign, but there was no confirmation.

The government acknowledged the revolt had spread to the large Rio Santiago naval base, site of Argentina's naval academy.

An official statement announced that regular army units were converging on rebel centers to put down the revolt. The government warned rebel forces they would be bombed from the air if they did not surrender.

(A dispatch from Santiago, Chile, said Conradio Rios, Chile's Ambassador in Buenos Aires, telephoned a request that the Chilean government send a special plane there to remove Chilean citizens. Rios described the situation in Buenos Aires as "really difficult.")

The Argentine government radio at first claimed the revolt had been "rapidly crushed." A later report said the Fourteenth Infantry Regiment at Rio Cuarto was heading north toward Cordoba, one of the centers where the revolt had flared.

Circles close to the army spoke of an ultimatum directed to Peron remanding he step down, but hours passed without confirmation of this.

The government declared a terrorist plot had been smashed in Buenos Aires with arrest of 100 civilians.

This was the fourth reported plot aimed at Peron since the major revolt of June 16—just three months ago today.

Armed uprisings occurred at Cordoba in central Argentina, at Arroyo Seco in Entre Rios province, north of Buenos Aires, and at Curuzu-Cuatia in Corriente province, also north of the capital.

The surrender of 300 rebel troops in Entre Rios was announced.

Federal police headquarters near the Congress building in Buenos Aires were evacuated, possibly indicating fear of an attack. Peron was reported to have gone to the army ministry about 3 a.m.

The state radio said "it is understood" the chief of the rebel forces was former Gen. Dalmiro Felix Videla Balaguer, who was accused Sept. 8 of leading the Rio Cuarto garrison in a conspiracy which was crushed. Four days later, Gen. Balaguer was reported under arrest, but this never was confirmed officially.

(The United Press said it was reported from the city of Eva Peron, southeast of Buenos Aires, that intense cannonading was heard in the region of the Rio Santiago naval base.

(A rebel plane flew over the barracks in Eva Peron of the Seventh Infantry, which had remained loyal to the Govern-

Woodpecker, True to Its Name, Changes Sides En Route Here

A New York animal dealer, preparing a shipment of birds for the St. Louis Zoo this week, packed two great spotted woodpeckers in a crate, separated from each other by a wooden partition.

One of the woodpeckers took exception to this arrangement, the Zoo reported today. The bird pecked its way through the partition during the train journey here.

"In New York, there were two woodpeckers in two sections," William G. Conway, curator of birds, said. "In St. Louis, there were two woodpeckers in one section."

The woodpeckers were in a shipment of 11 birds which arrived Wednesday. The newcomers will be put on display in the next few days, as they become accustomed to their surroundings.

The other birds are two red-crowned roulrouls from Malaya, two shrikes, two European titmice, two blue rollers from India and a green Indian woodpecker. All except the shrikes and the roulrouls are new types for the zoo.

BRITISH PLAN FOR START ON DISARMING PUT BEFORE U.N. UNIT

4 Proposals Now Under Study — Russia Still Fails to Take Stand on Any Western Offer.

By ALVIN H. GOLDSTEIN
Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Sept. 16—Four plans aimed at making a beginning on arms reduction were before the five-nation United Nations Disarmament Commission subcommittee today.

Presentation of the differing plans by the United States, Britain, France and Russia completed the first phase of the group's assignment. The subcommittee, which also includes Canada, will meet next Monday to decide on a schedule of sessions during the U.N. General Assembly meeting which opens Tuesday.

Exchanges of opinion on the respective propositions was limited by the failure of the Soviet Union to voice approval or disapproval of any Western offer. Instead, the Russian spokesman pressed for action on revised Kremlin disarmament suggestions, including reductions of conventional armed forces and eventual abolition of nuclear weapons.

Eden Plan Presented.

At yesterday's subcommittee session, Britain presented the Eden plan as a possible "pilot scheme" leading to a comprehensive disarmament treaty. It took its place with the Eisenhower proposal for exchange of military blueprints with Russia and mutual air, land and sea inspection, and the French Faure plan for limitations on national military budgets.

Anthony Nutting explained that the Eden proposal, for establishment of a joint inspection system by West and East at a point where forces of free nations were confronting those of Communist powers, was conceived as a "curtain-raiser" for disarmament. He asserted it could be put into practice anywhere in the world, but he thought the situation in Europe made a trial there appropriate.

In Europe, Nutting pointed out, the opposing forces represented by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Soviet Union each have integrated commands which would simplify the operation of a mutual inspection system. He emphasized that the Eden plan did not contemplate any political effect which would interfere with the unification of Germany. He added, too, that it did not call for reduction of forces.

Supervising Commission.

To implement the joint inspections, which would be limited to verifying reports by both sides of military equipment and installations — excluding areas containing atomic weapons—a small supervising commission made up of representatives from both camps should be created, he said. Joint inspection teams, with like representatives from both camps should be created, he said. Joint inspection teams, with like representation, would carry out the inspections and report to the commission, which, in turn, would report to the military commands.

Nutting argued that the advantages were that it would reduce world tensions by giving operations "a degree of openness" in a sensitive area, thus perhaps providing a prelude to disarmament. The experiment also would permit discovery of ways to overcome obstacles in setting up an effective controls system, he said.

It would be a tryout of inspection, although admittedly not of controls machinery, but it was designed to pave the way to control and thence to disarmament, Nutting said. He thought it was about time somebody tried to do something and not go on talking in the Disarmament Commission about abstract principles.

Hopes for Acceptance.

He asked members of the subcommittee to recognize the value of the Eden scheme and to urge its acceptance by home governments. It was his hope that it would be received by all members of the 60-nation General Assembly as a continued effort to break down barriers, gain understanding and to bridge the chasm now dividing the world.

He said he saw no reason why the Eisenhower plan and the Faure plan could not be placed in effect simultaneously with the Eden plan, as each approached the same objective in different manners. He expressed the hope that the Soviet Union would comment on the plan as soon as diplomatic exchanges made it possible, a request made by the other Western delegates.

Noncommittal Red Reply.

Arkady A. Sobolev, Russian delegate, made the same polite but noncommittal reply to Nutting that he had given Harold E. Stassen, presidential adviser on disarmament affairs, who presented the Eisenhower plan, and Jules Moch of France, who advanced the Faure proposal. Sobolev said the suggestion was important, deserved consideration and would receive careful consideration.

Sobolev then put the same question he had asked Stassen and Moch in different words: How was the Eden proposal linked to the problem of devising a disarmament program? Nutting repeated his explanation that it was a "pilot scheme" just as Stassen and Moch had explained that their respective recommendations sought only to establish gateways to arms reduction.

As to the Eden plan, Stassen told the subcommittee it would be noted with careful attention by the United States. He added that the United States would not subscribe to any action which might jeopardize policies calling for the unifying of states, generally, and specifically the unification of Germany.

It had not been expected that Sobolev would make definite comment on Western propositions in the subcommittee until after the arrival here of Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov. Molotov is leader of the Russian delegation to the U.N. Assembly.

EAST GERMANS REACH MOSCOW FOR DISCUSSIONS

Germany lying east of a line from the Baltic sea just west of Swinemunde, along the Oder river to its juncture with the Neisse river and from there to the Czechoslovak border. In addition, East Prussia was divided between Poland and Russia.

The Communist party newspaper, Pravda, also indicated the way was being cleared to give East Germany credit for release of the German war prisoners.

Letter From Pieck.

The party organ published a letter from East German President Pieck formally asking Soviet President Voroshilov for release of all still held. The letter was dated Aug. 31, almost two weeks before Adenauer came to Moscow.

In his letter, Pieck referred to earlier Soviet-East German negotiations on the prisoner issue. He said he believed the time had come now to appeal to the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet "with an official intercession of the (East) German Democratic Republic for the premature release and return to their homeland of all former German war prisoners who must serve sentences in the Soviet Union."

All this was seen as a Russian move to counter any propaganda effect Adenauer might have on the Germans by contending his efforts had furthered the German cause.

'Sovereign State.'

In line with this, Pravda also carried an article welcoming the East German leaders and hailing East Germany as a "sovereign state which will continue to exist despite the fact that capitalistic countries do not want to recognize it."

Declaring the Grotewohl conference would touch on "questions of interest to all sides," Pravda said:

"There is complete unity of views between the governments of the Soviet Union and the German Democratic Republic on the international situations and in the field of political, economic and cultural co-operation. There can be no doubt that the visit will contribute to development of this co-operation."

Chicagoan Says Guard in Courtroom Yanked Him to Knees by His Ear, and Blood Ran Down His Face.

By H. J. YAPP

HONG KONG, Sept. 16 (INS)—The Rev. Harold W. Rigney of Chicago emerged from Chinese Red prison cells today and told his fellow Roman Catholic priest, "I know what hell is, brothers."

The 54-year-old member of the Divine Word Missionaries had suffered and lost 80 pounds in spending more than four years jailed on espionage charges which he declared "ridiculous." He had not lost his sense of humor.

There was a twinkle in his eye and excitement in his tired frame as he talked to this correspondent and two priests tonight in a Catholic rest home in Hong Kong.

Three of the four years in prison, he said, were spent in a 10-by-10-foot cell, but he did not crack and bow to Communist "brainwashing" tactics.

Cells Dirty, Smelly.

"The cells were dirty," said the Father, shaking his head and looking at the cold beer on the Hong Kong table.

"They reeked with the stench from urine smells. And all the time I was suffering from rheumatism.

"I know what hell is, brothers."

The priest, who was an Army Air Force chaplain in World War II, told how he ate tasteless maize for four years and had his first solid meal upon being released into the British crown colony of Hong Kong.

He had talked with Red Cross officials at the border, telling them it was too bad they couldn't have put a few cans of cold beer in the mercy packages they sent him.

Slowly sipping beer tonight in the company of friends, he said:

"I almost cried when I saw so many people waiting for me at the border.

"I was sorry I could not say much at the border. I just did not know what to say. I was overflowing with gratitude."

When asked if he had been tortured the priest appeared to be willing to talk, but was constantly reminded by another priest about a Rome order not to.

However, in talking directly with the other priests who were released earlier this year, he disclosed partly the treatment he received from the Reds.

Yanked to Knees.

"Once, he said, "while I was being interrogated in court a guard suddenly caught hold of my ear, jerked me downward and made me kneel.

"The blood flowed down my cheek and beard."

The priest, who was rector at Fu Jen University when arrested July 25, 1951, told how he worked in a matchbox factory when not locked in his small cell.

But he was not alone in that 10-by-10 foot cell. He said seven or eight other prisoners were in the cell.

"The only time I was allowed out," he said, "was when I wanted to go to the lavatory. Later I was allowed to eexrcise outside the cell—but only for a brief spell.

"The last six weeks I was in solitary confinement but the food was a little better.

"I don't know why they put me in solitary confinement."

The priest said he was not aware that the late British King George VI had died (Feb. 6, 1952) until he overheard his Communist guards refer sarcastically to "her Majesty's government," the term used after Queen Elizabeth II ascended the throne.

Wents Teeth Fixed.

Father Rigney said he was notified by his captors last Sunday of his scheduled release, which was announced in Geneva the day before.

When the Communists asked him what he was going to do, he said he told the Communist judge he would get his teeth fixed.

"I stall haven't had by teeth fixed. It is one of the first things I want to do—after I get some needed rest. I am very tired. Later I will go to Rome."

STASSEN THINKS RUSSIA WILL OK INSPECTION PLAN

Gives Optimistic Report to Eisenhower on Disarmament Talks in U.N.

DENVER, Sept. 16 (UP)—Harold E. Stassen, special presidential disarmament assistant, said today the "odds are that the Russians will accept" Mr. Eisenhower's proposal for mutual arms inspection.

Stassen said after a half-hour conference with the President that he is optimistic about progress at the current United Nations disarmament talks in New York. However, he said, "it takes time for the Soviet Union to study the proposal and give its answer."

Stassen would not disclose the nature of his talks with the President.

The former Minnesota Governor flew here from New York early today and met with Mr. Eisenhower at the Summer White House headquarters at Lowry Air Force Base.

Stassen said the tone of his report to Mr. Eisenhower was "optimistic" and "reflecting patience." He said the talks in New York so far have been entirely "in the spirit of Geneva," with "no name-calling, no vitriolic outbreaks."

There have been "no new significant policy advances," he added.

Stassen said he left the conference with "a basis for continuing work" but would not say whether the United States may come up with a counter proposal if the Russians reject Mr. Eisenhower's plan for Russia and the United States to disclose arms installations to each other.

Stassen also was optimistic about prospects for the U.N. General Assembly, which meets next Tuesday in New York, indorsing the President's proposal.

"I believe the odds are that the General Assembly, including the Soviet Union, will support the President's program," Stassen said.

Stassen said he is optimistic about ultimate success of some disarmament plan because "mankind has never faced such extreme alternatives."

He said the possibilities for peaceful use of atomic energy are limitless, but "if mankind slips into a nuclear war, the devastation will be far beyond anything man has ever experienced."

To See Dulles, Strauss.

Stassen planned to leave late today for Minnesota and will meet Monday in Washington with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission before returning to New York next week.

Although the Summer White House said the President was keeping in close touch with several developments on the world scene, nothing appeared to be in sight to mar Mr. Eisenhower's plans for a weekend of golf and bridge with 14 visiting business and golfing friends.

Most of the group arrived last night. Among other things, they looked forward to a golfing foursome that would find the President playing with such renowned links figures as Francis Ouimet, 1913 United States open champion, and Charley Yates, former British amateur champion.

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. John S. Dodd, dined privately with a group of Denver friends last night at the Brown Palace Hotel.

The bulk of the new vaccine was made by the Eli Lilly Co., Indianapolis. The rest—448,000 doses—was made by the Pitman-Moore Co., Zionsville, Ind.

WOMAN WHO STOLE $100,000 FROM EMPLOYER SENTENCED

LANCASTER, Pa., Sept. 16 (AP)—Mrs. Kathryn Hassel, a bookkeeper, was sentenced today to an undetermined term in the State Industrial Home for Women at Muncie for stealing from her employer.

Mrs. Hassel, 44 years old, admitted taking about $100,000 over a period of 10 years from Darmstaetter Co., operators of one of Lancaster's largest novelty stores.

Judge Joseph B. Wissler handed down the sentence in Lancaster county common pleas court. Specifically she was charged with stealing $26,000—which she said she gave to her ex-husband, John Huber—over the past two years. The statute of limitations had run out of the earlier thefts.

Huber now is serving an eight to 16 year term in Eastern Penitentiary for blackmail, conspiracy and accessory after the fact. Huber's father, Frank Huber, was convicted of being an accessory by a jury yesterday and placed on probation.

Jap-Red China Trade Talks.

LAST-MINUTE HITCH IN FAURE'S MOROCCO PLAN

French Officials and Nationalists at Odds Over Makeup of Regency Council.

PARIS, Sept. 16 (AP) — A last-minute hitch developed today to plague Premier Faure's program for settling the crisis in Morocco.

French officials and nationalist leaders who have all agreed to replace the present sultan, Mohammed Ben Moulay Arafa, with a three-man regency council, were at odds over the composition of this "council of the throne." Only 24 hours previously, this problem had been considered settled.

The premier and his minister for Tunisian and Moroccan affairs, Pierre July, scheduled meetings with Si Bekkai, independent nationalist, and with spokesmen for the Democratic Independence party and the Istiqlal, the largest nationalist group, in an effort to solve this issue.

Bekkai, by common agreement, is to be one of the three men. The nationalists have agreed that El Mokri, Morocco's centenarian grand vizier or prime minister, should be one of the regents for a three-month interim period.

The French now want the third place to go to a "traditionalist" acceptable to the followers of Moulay Arafa and the French settlers of Morocco. The nationalists want it to go to a neutral ulema, or doctor of Moslem law.

Accordingly, a French cabinet session scheduled for this afternoon, was postponed. There were unconfirmed reports that Faure will summon Resident General Pierre Boyer de Latour from Rabat to help settle the problem.

JUDGE SETS ICARDI TRIAL FOR PERJURY FOR FEB. 1

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (UP) — United States District Judge Matthew S. McGuire today set Feb. 1 as the date for the perjury trial of former OSS Lt. Aldo Icardi.

Icardi was indicted recently for denying before a House Armed Services subcommittee that he had any connection with the World War II murder of Maj. William V. Holohan in Italy.

An Italian court found Icardi, of Pittsburgh, and former Sgt. Carl Lodolce of Rochester, N.Y., guilty of Holohan's murder but the United States said they could not be extradited.

FEDERAL AGENCY PLEDGES TO AID SEWER DISTRICT ON MALINE CREEK

Housing, Home Finance Body Offers Full Co-operation, Karsten Says—Official Coming to St. Louis.

Full co-operation with the Metropolitan St. Louis Sewer District in helping solve the Maline creek pollution problem was offered by the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency in a letter received today by United States Representative Frank M. Karsten (Dem.) of St. Louis.

Waldemar H. Sindt, HHFA regional director at Fort Worth, Tex., replying to a telephone call Tuesday from Karsten, mailed the Congressman complete information on procedure by local agencies in obtaining federal aid. Karsten, in whose district the Maline watershed is situated, said he would turn the material over to the district immediately.

Aid Welcomed.

John M. Bogdanor, chairman of the sewer district board of trustees, has said the board would welcome federal aid. The St. Louis county grand jury and county officials have criticized sharply the failure to solve the pollution problem.

Sindt, in his letter to Karsten, said a representative of his office would be in St. Louis next week and would be available for conferences with sewer district officials in connection with possible availability of part of a $100,000,000 federal revolving fund set up for aid to municipalities.

Sindt wrote that his office was keenly interested in the metropolitan sewer district "because approximately $500,000 in federal funds has been advanced to local public agencies in St. Louis county to assist in financing the preparation of plans for sanitary and storm sewers, including the Maline creek sewers for which $41,000 was advanced.

"We are also concerned about the Government's interest in the loans insured by FHA where sanitary facilities are not adequate."

Sindt said he had called recently on L. E. Ordelheide, who resigned last Monday as the district's executive director, and had discussed with him "the possibility of salvaging the investment in plans prepared with federal advances, but he did not indicate any interest in a loan."

Terms of Legislation.

Terms of the legislation establishing the fund, under the Community Facilities Division of HHFA, call for priority being given to small communities for public facilities, including sewers, where there is "an urgent and vital need."

Karsten said he would do all in his power to further any application for assistance the district might make, adding that he had written Surgeon General Leonard Scheele, head of the United States Public Health Service, with a view to getting co-operation of that office.

The St. Louis county grand jury, in its final report to Circuit Judge Franklin Ferriss yesterday, said it was "pleased" to note that in the week since its partial report criticizing the sewer district, the board of trustees "has begun to attack the existing problem with some vigor."

The report recommended that the trustees direct their legal counsel "to take vigorous action to determine the legality of various fund-raising methods," particularly the possibility of getting temporary financial relief from the federal agency.

Also indorsed by the jury was County Supervisor Luman F. Matthews's action in ordering a halt in home construction when pollution of streams might be aggravated.

A temporary injunction against the St. John-Overland Sewer District barring further blocking of a sewer connection with Woodson Gardens subdivision was granted by Circuit Judge Noah Weinstein at Clayton yesterday.

The district was ordered to remove a concrete block from a manhole on Elsa avenue pending a hearing on a permanent injunction, date for which was not set.

Judge Weinstein acted on a petition filed Tuesday by the Metropolitan Sewer District charging the St. John district had blocked the subdivision's connection despite its approval by the metropolitan district.

Under the court order the metropolitan district and Frank Zykan, Inc., the subdivision developer, which had intervened in the case, must furnish a joint $5000 bond to secure the St. John district against possible damages pending a final settlement. The St. John district contends the builder should have obtained a sewer construction permit from the local district.

BOY, 2, GOES ALONG FOR RIDE, MOTHER ON PICKET LINE

Two-year-old Jimmy Gau has been getting long rides in his wagon since his mother, Mrs. Edward C. Gau Jr., began picketing the Holiday Drive-In Theater, 9900 Page avenue, Overland, three weeks ago.

Mrs. Gau has been taking Jimmy along on her two-hour daily assignments on the picket lines Monday through Thursday because she has no one to care for the boy.

While she holds a picket umbrella in one hand, she pulls a wagon, with Jimmy aboard, with the other. His rides occur between 10 a.m. and noon on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday and from 2 to 4 p.m. on Thursday.

Mrs. Gau, who lives at 9526 Miriam avenue, Overland, was ticket cashier at the theater until she and 13 other employes went on strike seeking recognition of their AFL union as bargaining representative. Her picket assignment also includes Friday adn Sunday nights—but no wagon rides for Jimmy. His father is home then.

POLICE ARREST DRIVER GOING 40 IN REVERSE

A motorist, with his head out the window of his automobile, drove backward in the 200 block of Collinsville avenue, East St. Louis, at speeds up to 40 miles an hour today.

Other motorists took evasive action and pedestrians ran for cover as the machine weaved back and forth. A group waiting in a bus zone at Collinsville and Missouri avenues took refuge in the doorway of nearby stores.

Detective Lt. Frank Kerrigan and Detective Sgt. Adolph Miller halted the driver who, after waiting for the light to change at Missouri, had begun to back across the intersection.

"Can't you make your car go forward?" Kerrigan asked, solicitously.

"I can make it go any way I want," replied the man, "forward, sideward or backward. I drive as I please."

The driver, who identified himself as Russell Pyeatt, 4300 block of College avenue, was arrested and charged with reckless driving and disorderly conduct.

BANK PROFITS OFF 20 PCT. IN 8TH RESERVE DISTRICT

A 20 per cent drop in net profits after taxes of member banks of the Eighth Federal Reserve District for the first half of this year, compared with the first six months of last year, was reported by the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis today. The decrease amounted to $4,000,000.

The banks had net losses and charge-offs totaling $2,000,000. In contrast, net profits and recoveries in the first half of 1954 were $5,000,000.

Net operating earnings of the banks were reported to have reached a new high of $37,000,000—which is $1,400,000 above the previous first-half peak made in 1953.

GODFREY (ILL.) MAN HEADS MISSISSIPPI HIGHWAY GROUP

Dr. H. W. Trovillion of Godfrey, in Madison county, Ill., was elected pilot of the Mississippi River Parkway Planning Commission yesterday at the annual meeting of the commission at Kenora, Ont. He succeeds the late A. P. Greensfelder of St. Louis, who died last April.

M. W. Torkelson, Madison, Wis., and J. Lester White, New Orleans, were elected co-pilots, respectively, for the north and south. John H. Acuff, Jefferson City, was named secretary.

The commission is an interstate agency to promote a highway along the Mississippi river to the gulf.

TESTIFIES BEARE BOUGHT MURDER SUSPECT DRINKS

Owner of Entre Nous Bar Is Heard at Inquest — Homicide Verdict Returned.

Nelson H. Beare bought several drinks in a tavern for Charles William White last Tuesday shortly before Beare was stabbed to death in the Oriole Hotel, 706 Pine street, the tavern owner testified at a coroner's inquest today.

The jury returned a verdict of homicide and recommended that White, who has been charged in a warrant with murdering Beare, be held for the grand jury.

George Riester, owner of the Entre Nous tavern, 617 Pine street, said White was there alone when Beare came in. They soon started a conversation and Beare bought "two or three" drinks of scotch whisky for White and beer for himself, he testified.

Beare, a Kirkwood salesman and church leader, had been a customer at the Entre Nous for seven years, Riester said.

Detective Ernest Alexander testified that White told of joining Beare in a tavern across the street for several more drinks before going to the hotel. They got into a dispute and he "lost his head," he was quoted as saying.

They registered at the Oriole about 3:30 p.m., with only White signing in—under the name Fred Davis—and he was seen leaving about half an hour later. Beare's body was found by a maid the next afternoon.

White was under arrest when the murder was discovered. He went to the office of The Queen's Work, 3115 South Grand boulevard, Tuesday afternoon and asked to see a priest. He was intoxicated and waved a knife at the telephone switchboard operator there, and police were called.

He told officers at the time that he had killed a man, but was not taken seriously because of his condition. When Beare's body was found and his companion was described to police, White was questioned and immediately told of the stabbing.

FORMOSA POLICE OFFICIAL PRAISES CIVIL DEFENSE HERE

Gen. Tehyang Lee, deputy commissioner of police for Formosa, said yesterday he was impressed with civil defense facilities here, after a four-day tour of the installations.

He is on a six-month inspection trip to study the national civil defense organization. After studying evacuation programs here for schools, business and industry, Gen. Lee said he observed many similar problems in this heavily populated urban area as on overcrowded Formosa. He expressed admiration for the mechanical devices, including the network of air raid sirens and communication setup, that are an integral part of facilities in St. Louis.

Gen Lee also inspected the St. Louis Police Academy and was escorted by Lt. Thomas Moran and Sgt. Nicholas Klotz of the academy. Lee will leave tomorrow for Milwaukee.

WABASH PROPOSES MEETING ON COLUMBIA-CENTRALIA LINK

The Wabash railroad, following a suggestion of the Missouri Public Service Commission, has proposed a meeting to discuss means of improving service on the railroad's branch line between Columbia and Centralia, Mo.

Arthur K. Atkinson of St. Louis, Wabash president, wrote the city manager of Columbia suggesting such a meeting be held in Columbia at 1 p.m. Sept. 23. Atkinson suggested that representatives of other interested communities be present.

The Missouri Public Service Commission a week ago rejected the railroad's application for authority to replace its passenger trains on the 26-mile "cannonball" branch line with busses. The commission urged instead that Wabash improve equipment and service on the branch line and suggested the railroad confer with representatives of the cities involved to explore the problem of bettering service.

MATTHEWS SIGNS ACCORD ON BOONE HIGHWAY ROUTE

Negotiations for Richmond Heights Right-of-Way Due to Start Soon.

An agreement between St. Louis county and the Missouri State Highway Commission for acquisition of the portion of the right-of-way for the proposed Daniel Boone Expressway that passes through Richmond Heights was signed yesterday by County Supervisor Luman F. Matthews.

Authorized by the County Council Wednesday after a long series of rejections, the agreement was forwarded by Matthews to Myer Ableman, urban area engineer for the Highway Commission. Ableman was to send it to the commission at Jefferson City for acceptance.

Ableman has said that as soon as the agreement, under which the county agrees to reimburse the commission for one-half the cost of obtaining the right-of-way, is signed by the commission, a start in negotiating for property in Richmond Heights will be made.

No construction will be started, however, until the county has actually met its share of the right-of-way costs, he said. Funds for this purpose will be proposed in the forthcoming bond issue election in November.

If the $8,500,000 bond issue item for expressways passes, Ableman said, a contract for construction of the section from Brentwood and Eager road east of Hanley road probably could be let this spring.

Acquisition agreements for this section and for all county portions of the Mark Twain and Ozark expressways already have been signed and purchase negotiations are in progress.

BIG-STORE SALES IN DOLLARS RISE 5 PCT. FOR WEEK

Department store sales in the St. Louis area last week were 5 per cent greater in dollar volume than in the comparable four-week period ended Sept. 10, the Federal Reserve Bank reported today.

Gains in St. Louis for the four-week period were 2 per cent better than the average for the Eighth District. The 5 per cent week's gain corresponded to the district average. Gains were recorded in all major areas of the district except in Little Rock, Ark., where sales showed a 14 per cent decrease.

Nationally, the Federal Reserve Board reported department store sales were an average 11 per cent higher last week than compared with 1954. Dollar volume has run about 7 per cent above sales.

Woman's Alertness Saves Boy With Finger Caught on Auto

Driver Couldn't Hear Screams of Child Running Behind Machine Unable to Free Hand.

Thanks to an alert woman motorist, 8-year-old Dennis Cox was back in his third grade room at Columbia School today with only a slight cut on a finger to remind him of what could have been a serious accident.

Dennis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Cox, 2601 North Jefferson avenue, was playing with other children just dismissed from the school at 3120 St. Louis avenue Wednesday afternoon. Someone apparently pushed or tripped him. He fell against a slowly moving automobile, catching the ring finger of his left hand in the rear bumper guard.

The driver of the automobile, John Hoffman, 8531 Jennings road, Jennings, continued on, unaware of the incident. Dennis, running as fast as he could to keep up with the machine, was screaming but Hoffman could not hear. Hoffman drove west on St. Louis from Baldwin street.

Miss Harriett M. Londoff, driving behind, saw the boy's predicament. Swerving to the left side of the street and speeding up, she managed to catch Hoffman as he began to gather speed at Glasgow avenue. Hoffman heard her frantic shouts and halted his vehicle.

Police were called and Dennis was taken to City Hospital where his finger was treated.

Miss Londoff, who lives at 8 Bellerive Acres, Bellerive Village, and is secretary-treasurer of the Londoff Motor Co., did not remain at the scene to identify herself to police.

"I recently got two tickets for speeding," she told the Post-Dispatch. "It suddenly dawned on me that in flagging down the driver of that other car I had been guilty of speeding and going through a boulevard stop."

DEADLINE JAN. 1 ON SIGNATURES FOR MERGER PLAN

A tentative deadline of Jan. 1, 1956, has been set for the collection of 100,000 signatures on petitions calling for appointment of a board of freeholders to draft a plan for some form of merger or co-ordination of St. Louis and St. Louis county, it was announced last night.

A. J. Cervantes and H. Jackson Daniel, co-chairmen of the Citizens Committee for City-County Co-ordination, in announcing the deadline, said only 11,300 signatures of city voters are required and slightly more than 6000 are needed from the county. However, they said, it is hoped to obtain many times this number to show overwhelming support for the movement.

Committees are being organized to gather signatures in every county community and in each of the 28 city wards, it was reported.

William J. Costello, chairman of the Citizens' Committee's speakers' bureau, said there was a far different attitude prevailing among residents of the area now than in 1926, when a similar movement failed.

MOLONEY PLANT EXPANSION

A two-story addition to the Moloney Electric Co. plant, 5390 Bircher boulevard, is under construction to expand the present assembly line for production of distribution transformers, it was announced today.

The new building, to contain about 37,000 square feet of floor space, is expected to be finished by next Feb. 1. Cost of the project is $500,000.

2 WHO ABANDONED CAR AFTER CHASE HUNTED IN COUNTY

Roads and highways in a 10-square-mile area adjoining the Meramec river in St. Louis county were patrolled by the Highway Patrol and county police today in a continuing search for two men who sped away when a trooper tried to stop their automobile on Lindbergh boulevard yesterday.

After a chase of about four miles they plunged the car into a dry creek and disappeared in underbrush near Gravois road. Officers searched about 30 acres yesterday and watched roads in the vicinity all night, but did not see the fugitives.

The car was stolen from a resident of Thorntown, Ind., Tuesday, but no fingerprints were found on it. The men wore clothes of a brown color used in some prison uniforms.

Residents of the vicinity were warned to be on the alert for them and keep cars locked.

Discovery of a $20 Greenlease ransom bill at Norris City, Ill., 130 miles southeast of St. Louis, was announced yesterday by J. Earl Milnes, agent in charge of the Federal Bureau of Investigation office here.

He also disclosed the finding of another ransom bill at the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank, bringing to 33 the total number of missing bills announced as recovered since early last month.

Charles E. Weirauch, a retired farmer of Norris City, told the Post-Dispatch the ransom bill was one of three $20s he obtained by cashing checks at Marlin's Department Store there in the latter part of May, June and July.

Wife Finds Bill.

His wife discovered the bill was one of the ransom notes Tuesday night while checking a list of serial numbers of the $303,720.

Because other ransom bills did not start appearing until early last month, Weirauch believes the one found by his wife was a $20 note he got from the departmnt store in July, rather than in the previous two months.

Weirauch informed the FBI office at Springfield, Ill., Wednesday about the discovery of the bill. He said an agent picked up the ransom note and gave him $20 in exchange. The bill had serial number H-05221210A.

County fairs, with numerous carnival attractions, were held in July in the nearby towns of McLeansboro and Harrisburg, Weirauch said.

One theory being explored by the FBI is that the ransom money is being circulated through carnival workers who move from city to city.

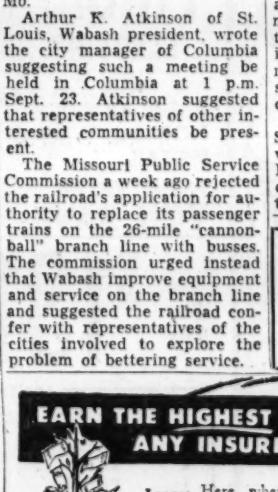

Where Others Were Found.

The bill found in Norris City, which has a population of 1875, is the earliest known to have been in circulation. The first of the ransom notes to appear was discovered Aug. 3 at Minot, N.D.

Twenty-two have shown up at the Federal Reserve Bank in Chicago; three in St. Louis, one each in East St. Louis and Quincy, Ill.; Salt Lake City, Utah; Jacksonville, Fla.; Philadelphia and Denver.

RED CHINA FREES 2 U.S. CIVILIANS, ONE SAYS HE SPIED

washed." Youde now is on leave in Britain.)

Rickett said he stayed behind when the Reds overran the mainland, because "the political situation was such that I felt I could learn more about the Chinese."

Reds 'Represent the People.'

"The Chinese government fully represents the people and like any other government does not like United States agents."

He said "new prisoners were coming and going at all times," but he had no real contact with any of them.

Rickett wore gray slacks and a gray-brown shirt, his hair was untidy but he was clean shaven. He carried a small shaving kit. Father Rigney wore an open nightshirt and his hair was crew cut.

About 70 correspondents and newsreel cameramen waited for the two at the border village 32 miles from Hong Kong.

Later, at a news conference at the Gloucester hotel, Rickett commented:

"What I did mostly was to collect information about democratic elements in Peiping and to what extent they supported the Chinese Communists."

He said he gave this information to an American vice consul whom he identified as John Ferrior who was in Peiping before the Communists overran the mainland.

The red-haired student grasped his trembling right hand to steady it as he spoke. He said at the time of his arrest the Reds told him "in spite of the money being spent by the Americans Government for espionage work, American spies could never collect any valuable information."

Father Rigney said before reaching the Catholic center he was notified Sunday of his release and had been riding trains since Monday. He appeared very tired. One of the Catholic center priests who met him said Father Rigney has lost 80 pounds in prison, but appeared mentally all right.

During his news conference one reporter asked Rickett, "Are you convinced we (the United States) used bacteriological warfare?"

"I am convinced," Rickett replied. "I know that Chinese interrogation is very fair and I am convinced the United States used bacteria warfare, and the United States has never denied it. From the American military point of view whatever weapons you need to win a war you use."

'I Have My Opinion.'

He added that the Chinese Communists had no bacteria warfare.

Rickett's statement that the United States has never denied use of bacteriological warfare is not correct. The United States repeatedly denied the charges and sought an airing in the United Nations, where a majority of the powers agreed there was no evidence to substantiate the Communist accusations.

Rickett told reporters, "Probably in the stories you write tomorrow you will use the term 'brainwashed' referring to me."

Rickett gave vague answers when asked if he had any criticism of the Chinese Reds and finally said, "That is the business of the Chinese."

Asked why he so freely criticized American policy, he replied, "Because I am an American and I have my very definite opinion—if Dulles and McCarthy disagree, they can jolly well disagree."

The Chinees Communists promised Sept. 10 they would release 10 American civilians who had been jailed or put under house arrest. Both Rickett and Father Rigney were in this group. Red China said the 10 had been convicted of crimes ranging from spreading reactionary propaganda to spying.

On Sept. 6 Red China announced that 12 other Americans previously denied exit permits were free to leave China when they chose. No charges had been made against them. So far none in this group has left the Communist mainland. Nineteen other American civilians in Red China also are to be released "expeditiously" under an agreement reached in Geneva by representatives of Peiping and Washington.

NEW REVOLT AGAINST PERON IS SPREADING

(It quoted a communique as saying the Army's Second Division had been reinforced and had begun an attack against Rio Santiago. The fall of the base was expected soon, it added.)

State of Siege Extended.

Twice before, since the June revolt was put down, there had been reports of abortive attempts to start a rebellion. Buenos Aires had remained under a state of siege and this was extended today to the whole of Argentina.

The state radio broadcast said the rebels were being "suffocated" and repeated that the government "fully dominates" the situation.

"All other commanders have affirmed their loyalty to the government," it said.

Peron proclaimed the nationwide state of siege and the House of Deputies, controlled by pro-Peron deputies, approved it in just five minutes.

There was no official account of casualities from the revolt but it appeared that some bloodshed must have resulted.

A policemen was reported shot to death in the Belgrano district of the capital. Identity of his attackers was unknown but they may have been linked with the plotter in the capital city.

Peron had been scheduled to speak this morning to leaders of the General Confederation of Labor, the workers' organization which is the backbone of the Peron regime. An hour after the speech was scheduled for radio broadcast it had not been made.

Capital Tense, Quiet.

An air of quiet tension prevailed in the capital, where anti-aircraft guns were mounted at strategic points, including Casa Rosada, the pink-colored building where Peron has his presidential headquarters.

A government broadcast assured the nation that all was calm and "the situation has been totally dominated."

In Entre Rios province, elements of the Third Cavalry Regiment rebelled. The government said this revolt was crushed by loyal troops and 300 of the rebels surrendered.

On the outskirts of Cordoba, a provincial capital, elements in an air force technical school tried to seize control. Fighting raged there, with loyal troops of the Third Infantry Regiment launching a dawn attack against the entrenched rebels.

The government said it was also in control of the situation at Curuzu-Cuatia.

Unrest was reported also in Rosario, Argentina's second largest city, 170 miles northwest of Buenos Aires; at Santa Fe, 100 miles north of Rosario, and at Parana, 235 miles northwest of Buenos Aires.

Planes were reported over Cordoba but there was no indication of whether they were piloted by loyalists or rebels.

The planes were Gloster Meteor jets—the same type that bombed Government House in Buenos Aires in the abortive revolt of last June 16.

All commercial activity in Buenos Aires was told to close down as a safety precaution. Armed trucks mounted with anti-aircraft guns patrolled the streets.

Civilians Moved Out.

Civilian employes were moved out of Government House, leaving only troops of the presidential guard.

Army troops swept into Plaza de Mayo. Three anti-aircraft guns were stationed at the corner and another in the center of the plaza. Full crews manned the guns. Trucks loaded with ammunition stood alongside.

Troops carrying machine guns were posted outside the Communications Ministry and other strategic spots in the capital. Second Army Commander Maj. Gen. Jose Sosa Molina held an emergency conference with Police Chief Miguel Gamboa.

The policeman killed in Belgrano district was shot by gunmen who fled in a jeep. There has been a rash of such hit-and-run attacks on police since the June 16 revolt.

The June 16 revolt by dissident naval air officers was crushed after hundreds died in rebel bomb attacks centered on Government House. It was the outgrowth of a feud between Peron and the Catholic Church.

A week after the June 16 revolt, Peron called on the opposition for a "political truce" but widespread unrest continued.

On Aug. 31, Peron offered to resign as President in the interests of "political peace." Leaders of the powerful Peronista General Confederation of labor and the Peronista party promptly called for a general strike and mass demonstrations as a manifestation of their support.

Peron withdrew his offer the same day and called on his supporters to crush his political enemies.

EX-DIRECTOR OF SCHOOL AREA IS INDICTED

ing vouchers or time books of employes of the school board," the report said.

Noting its investigation had been hampered by a lack of records, the jury expressed the belief the "shortcomings of the past" would be remedied by diligent application to their jobs on the part of the new members of the board.

Similar evidence of laxity and inadequate bookkeeping and "complete failure to preserve records" was found in connection with the inquiry into the Kinloch District, the report said. The jury was unable to complete its investigation into this district, however, and it recommended the succeeding jury continue the inquiry.

A recommendation that the St. Louis County Housing Authority discincorporate and turn its assets back to the county was accompanied by the statement there was no present need for public housing in the county.

In its investigation of the Authority's Jefferson Barracks housing project, the jury found economies had been effected in the supply of butane gas and garbage disposal, two matters criticized by the previous grand jury.

As for a complaint that the Housing Authority had failed to make contributions to the school district from its receipts, the jury said the authority was under no legal obligation to do so. As a matter of fact, it said, the Authority is now making contributions that are apparently satisfactory to all concerned.

County Supervisor Luman F. Matthews said the recommendation for discontinuance of the housing project would be studied by county officials, but he disagreed with the jury's statement that low-cost public housing was no longer needed in the county.

"If we find, however, after a study of current applications for quarters in the project, that the need no longer exists, I would have no hesitancy in recommending that the Authority discontinue rentals as present tenants move out," he said. This would permit a gradual and orderly liquidation of the project, he added.

Jail Operation OK'd.

The County Jail at Clayton, where an attempted jail break occurred last July, is operated "as efficiently as manpower and equipment permit," the report said.

It recommended additional assistance to the jailer, the purchase of an electronic device to detect any articles that might be smuggled to prisoners and the obtaining of fingerprinting and photographing equipment.

Other recommendations included serious consideration of a uniform curfew law, of county-operated homes for the aged and infirm and of the provision of additional funds for maintenance of the new portion of the County Courthouse at Clayton. It found the old portion "still in a sorrowful and dilapidated condition."

In a review of its work, the jury reported it had heard more than 140 witnesses, held 30 regular meetings and returned 40 true bills and eight no-true bills. Three partial reports had been made earlier.

WOMAN IS FINED $500 FOR FALSE AFFIDAVIT

Miss Eleanor L. Banks, living in the 1100 block of Aubert avenue, was fined $500 by Circuit Judge James E. McLaughlin today on her plea to a charge of making a false affidavit, reduced from a perjury indictment growing out of her testimony in a damage suit against the Public Service Co. The court allowed her a 90-day stay of execution to raise money for the fine.

The indictment charged Miss Banks, a Negro, testifying Feb. 15,1954 in her $7500 damage suit alleging she was injured on a Kingshighway bus, swore falsely that she had not been able to work after the alleged accident in May 1953. In fact she worked at both Barnes Hospital and the St. Louis Ordnance Plant, it was charged.

Kraut Eating Champion.

FORRESTON, Ill., Sept. 16 (AP)—Dale Markel crammed down three pounds, four ounces of kraut in six minutes yesterday to win his second successive kraut eating championship at Forreston's annual kraut festival. His prize was 250 pounds of kraut.

FINED $100 FOR DRUNKEN DRIVING, LICENSE SUSPENDED

Johnnie Smith, of the 2600 block of Glasgow avenue, was fined $100 by Jolice Judge Morris Rosenthal today after he was found guilty of driving when intoxicated. Smith's driver's license was suspended for 90 days.

Police said Smith, 35-year-old laborer, was arrested last July 25 after the automobile he was driving struck a car parked in the 2800 block of Benton street. At the time he was arrested he was drunk, police said.

Smith denied he was intoxicated. He said the accident occurred after a door of his car came open, and that he lost control of the machine while trying to close the door.

Expensive Sample.

NEWPORT, Ind. (UP)—Joseph Jackson, a magazine salesman, had a habit of tossing a sample magazine to prospective customers. But one day he tossed into a front yard a magazine in which he had placed government bonds worth $400. Earl Burke, kept the magazine, returned the bonds.

ANOTHER OF SOLOMON'S MINES FOUND IN THE NEGEB

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector, Sept. 16 (AP)—The discovery of another one of King Solomon's copper mines in the Negeb desert in southern Israel was announced today.

Prof. Nelson Glueck, director of the American-financed Lewis M. Rabinowitz archeological expedition, said the discovery was made 11 miles north of Israel's Red Sea port of Elon-Geber (Elath).

Glueck said the site was one of the largest of King Solomon's copper mines and refineries located so far. About 25 acres are "dotted with the remains of dozens of small stone structures, mostly small furnaces in which copper ore, obviously mined in the immediate vicinity, was crushed and smelted."

ADENAUER SAYS RUSSIANS WANT PERIOD OF PEACE

Convinced They Need Long Time to Overcome 'Vast Quantity' of Internal Problems.

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG

BONN, Sept. 16 (UP)—Chancellor Adenauer said today his Moscow talks convinced him the Soviets urgently desire a long period of peace to enable them to overcome internal problems.

The chancellor appealed to the free world to accept this Soviet need as a "reality."

"It may lead the world on two possible paths," he told a press conference. "It may lead the world to realize that it is better for it to develop peacefully, or it may lead to a return to the old methods.

"But the free world, with all watchfulness and caution, must accept this Soviet need as a reality in world politics," Adenauer said.

A Tass News Agency statement Thursday night that the Soviets considered that German boundaries were fixed at the Potsdam conference in 1945 and that Bonn could speak for only part of Germany was "no surprice," the Chancellor said.

Bonn's contrary views, he pointed out, were stated in a letter to Soviet Premier Bulganin. The Tass declaration was merely a repetition of the Soviet standpoint, he declared.

Moscow, he explained, could not leave one satellite in the lurch without arousing fear in the others that the same thing could happen to them. Soviet statements yesterday said East Germany is a sovereign state and the West eventually would have to recognize it.

Adenauer, still showing signs of the strain of five days of bitter negotiations with the Kremlin leaders, appeared before more than 300 German and foreign newsmen.

Release of Captives.

He told them he was convinced the Soviets would carry out their promise to release tens of thousands of Germans still held prisoner in the Soviet Union.

He refused to comment on the trip to Moscow today of the East German Communist leaders only 48 hours after he himself left there.

Adenauer made these other points:

1. The Soviets genuinely desire a security system.

2. The Soviets considered acceptance of diplomatic relations a "prestige question." If he had walked out of the Moscow talks without agreeing to diplomatic relations it would have meant abandoning all possibility of getting the prisoners released.

'Word of Honor.'

3. Soviet Premier Bulganin and Communist party leader Nikita Khrushchev gave their "word of honor" before the whole assembled Moscow conference that the prisoners would be released.

4. Establishment of diplomatic relations will enable Bonn to negotiate directly with Moscow on German reunification in addition to negotiations by the Big Four.

5. The Soviets will not abandon their East German satellite.

Adenauer defended his acceptance of diplomatic relations with the statement, "the existence of the Soviet Union cannot be wiped off the face of the earth merely by refusing diplomatic relations."

Speaking of the Soviets' desire for peace, he continued:

"From all our negotiations and private talks in Moscow I was fully convinced that Soviet Russia really wants a security system.

Soviet Problems.

"She has such a vast quantity of internal tasks to fulfill that she wants to devote her whole strength to this. This is not merely a short term proposition, though it is impossible to predict for how long it will be.

"But I think it would be false judgment not to accept this as a reality.

"The Soviets feel a real need for a relaxation of world tension and I think we have helped this by accepting direct diplomatic relations with the Soviets which will enable us also to work with them for a period of peace in the world."

GAMING CHARGE DISMISSED, OFFICERS LACKED WARRANT

A charge of operating a handbook against John T. Cuneo, operator of a tavern at 2132 Lucas-Hunt road, Velda Village, was dismissed yesterday by Magistrate Leslie T. Lewis at Clayton because evidence against Cuneo had been obtained without a search warrant.

Cuneo was arrested at his tavern last June 13 by two deputy sheriffs, who reported that Cuneo was answering telephone calls and writing the names of horses on a piece of paper. Magistrate Lewis sustained a motion of Cuneo's attorney to quash the evidence seized by the deputies on the ground they had failed to obtain a search warrant.

BOHLEN ARRIVES IN U.S. FROM RUSSIA FOR VACATION

NEW YORK, Sept. 16 (AP)—Charles E. Bohlen, United States ambassador to Russia, came home by plane today for a few week's vacation.

He brushed aside questions about the recent talks between Russian and West German officials.

Bohlen was en route to Fishers island, off New London, Conn., to join his wife and friends. He said he probably would get to Washington sometime during his four to six-week vacation.

U.S. AND JAPAN AGREE ON SALE OF SURPLUS GRAIN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP) The United States and Japan yesterday reached agreement in principle on a second sale of United States surplus commodities, somewhat smaller than the $85,000,000 program concluded earlier this year. United States officials said they expected a final draft agreement to be ready for signature next week. They withheld details in the meantime.

The agreement came after a final meeting of more than two hours between Ichiro Kono, Japanese Minister of Agriculture and Forestry, and Thorsten V. Kalijarvi, United States Deputy Assistant Secretary of State for Economic Affairs. Negotiations have been underway for three days.

Japan, which bought $35,000,000 of United States surplus cotton in the first agreement, did not seek any more cotton this time. The Japanese also were reluctant to take surplus rice, which figured in the first sale. Wheat, barley, corn and tobacco were other commodities under discussion.

Prince Albert Sails for U. S.

BRUSSELS, Sept. 16 (AP)—Prince Albert of Liege, 21-year-old brother of Belgium's King Baudouin, sails today for a six-week tour of the United States and to pick up some pointers about the United States Navy. He will go in the French liner Ile de France. He will be received by President Eisenhower Sept. 27.

ISRAEL VICTIM IN FIGHT WITH ARABS, BEN-ZVI SAYS

JERUSALEM, Israel Sector, Sept. 16 (AP)—President Izhak Ben-Zvi said last night the western world should recognize that Israel is "the victim" in its disputes with its Arab neighbors.

He said: "Our close neighbors have yet to learn their lesson. Nor have they reconciled themselves to the re-establishment of the state of Israel, while our distant friends yet have to resolve firmly to act effectively, to recognize the pursuer from the pursued, the aggressor from his victim."

He made the declaration in a message marking the Jewish New Year (Rosh Hashanah), which begins tonight.

2 LARGE COUNTY GROUPS PROTEST VALUATION HIKES

Clayton and Pasadena Hills Residents Ask State for Assessment Cuts.

Two groups of St. Louis county residents, one living in Clayton and the other in Pasadena Hills, today protested to the State Tax Commission at Clayton against what they said were excessive increases in assessed valuations of their property.

The Clayton group, consisting of 24 families living the southern part of the city, said through an attorney that assessments of their houses had been raised at least 700 per cent. In one case, an assessment was raised from $700 to $70,000, the attorney, Gideon Schiller, said.

Schiller said the families felt the large increases were made because the area is zoned for commercial use adn is bordered by commercial establishments.

He said the residents expect that eventually the area will be completely commercial in fact, but argued that they should not be taxed for what the land will probably be worth in the future.

171 Residents in Group.

A total of 171 residents of Pasadena Hills were represented before the commission, which has been hearing taxpayers' appeals all week in the St. Louis county courthouse and has several hundred more to hear.

Of the 171 homes, the residents' attorney said, 24 have been assessed at more than 50 per cent of true value, instead of the 30 per cent considered to be standard. The other homes have been assessed at between 30 and 50 per cent of value, he said.

Commission Chairman James M. Robertson has pointed out during the course of the hearings that the 30 per cent figure represents only a "floor"—the minimum the commission would accept.

The commission yesterday heard a complaint from Wagner Electric Corp. that an increase of $2,015,740 in the assessed valuation of its Wellston and Berkeley properties was excessive.

The Wagner valuation was raised from $2,494,360 to $4,510,100 by the county board of equalization in response to a commission order that assessments should be at least 30 per cent of market value.

In a two-hour presentation, Robert S. Allen, an attorney, said "the most glaring error" in the case was that Wagner's land was classed as farm land and therefore made subject to an 85 per cent increase.

The Wellston property, which includes the main plant, was raised from $2,139,580 to $3,936,980, and the Berkeley property from $354,780 to $573,120. Present value of the former was listed as $5,583,714 and the value of the latter as $1,453,000.

Continental Development Corp. protested that its land assessment increase from $17,730 to $178,912 was excessive, although conceding that the old figure was too low.

O. Alexander Kerckhoff, a dairy executive, said the assessment on his home at 23 Carrswold drive, Clayton, should be reduced to $35,000 rather than increased from $43,430 to $69,490. He said drouth damage in 1953 reduced the market value from $90,500 to $74,000.

Infant Drowns in Bath.

Efforts Redoubled to Catch Vicki, Elephant Loose 6 Days

Animal Escaped From North Carolina Amusement Park—Hunters Nearly Trampled.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Sept. 16 (AP)—Efforts to capture Vicki, the elusive elephant, were redoubled today. The beast was enjoying its sixth day of freedom since slipping off from a nearby amusement park.

The humor of the hunt had begun to dwindle, after Vicki chased three would-be captors yesterday, nearly trampling them.

The elephant hunt, which had been a hit-or-miss affair all in Vicki's favor, got organized last night when the Mecklenburg county board of commissioners met with Vicki's owner, Jack Partlow, who also owns the amusement park.

Out of this meeting came elaborate plans for today's safari. Bulldozers last night dug deep pit traps. These were baited with hay and molasses, Vick's favorite food, and camouflaged.

Vicki was sighted today, lumbering out of the swampy woods. Hours later it was sighted near Douglas airport, six miles west of Charlotte. County police sent patrol cars into the area, with the officers instructed to call their headquarters when they sighted the 2300-pound fugitive. Just what would happen then was anybody's gues.

Vicki, a peaceful pachyderm before lumbering off, now is mean, Partlow said, and will kill anything in the way. However, Vicki it not mad, he said, but apparently is frightened by the ruckus.

At the meeting last night it was decided that if Vicki is not captured today, John Ringling North will be asked to fly his crew of bull elephant experts here. If Vicki is not captured in a few days, the beast will be destroyed.

GUILT-BY-KINSHIP INCIDENT DISCLOSED

Airman's Mother Was in Group Called Subversive When He Was 6.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP)—Henry S. Reuss (Dem.), said today the Air Force held up an honorable discharge for a Milwaukee man, apparently on the ground his mother belonged to a subversive organization when the airman was a child, but has now agreed to grant the discharge.

A spokesman for the Air Force said in response to an inquiry that a security question had been raised about Airman Second Class Robert Jones of Milwaukee but that he could not give any details, and that Jones is now eligible for honorable discharge.

Reuss said Jones, 24 years old, enlisted in the Air Force in August 1951 for a four year term, and was due for discharge last Aug. 27.

However, Reuss said, the airman's mother, Mrs. Mildred Jones of Milwaukee, told him an honorable discharge had been denied her son who is stationed at Walker Field in New Mexico.

Reuss quoted the mother as saying her son was requested to re-enlist until qustions as to his security and loyalty had been decided.

"Faced with his request, he enlisted for another three months," Reuss said.

"Mrs. Jones told me that the only possible evidence of being a security risk or of disloyalty on the part of her son was that she had briefly been a member of the Workers Alliance in 1937 when her son was 6 years old. The Workers Alliance later was listed on the Attorney General's uist as subversive."

Reuss said he wired Secretary of the Air Force Donald Quarles, asking for a report on the case, and received a telegram today from Quarles stating that the Air Force has agreed to give Jones an immediate discharge. Presumably, this means that Walker Field will give him his honorable discharge today or tomorrow, Reuss said.

Reuss said the Air Force has agreed to fly Jones home to his mother who is ill with tuberculosis, as soon as he is discharged.

U.N. CREDITED WITH AVERTING WAR WITH HAVE-NOT NATIONS

Open conflict between the world's underdeveloped and industrial countries was averted following World War II in part because of the United Nations, Mario Rossi, a correspondent for the Christian Science Monitor, said today.

In a talk before members of the League of Women Voters Rossi said the U.N. provided a forum for the non-self governing and underdeveloped nations which "helped avert a terrific explosion" in the difficult post-war period.

Today's meeting opened the 1955-56 campaign to collect $33,000 to finance the work of the seven leagues in the St. Louis area. The campaign will continue through Oct. 18. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. T. M. Sayman, 5399 Lindell boulevard.

BUYS LANDS TO PRESERVE MT. VERNON SCENIC VIEW

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (UP) —An Ohio Congresswoman has made sure that the scenic view from George Washington's home, Mount Vernon, will never be destroyed.

The office of Representative Frances P. Bolton (Rep.), Ohio, who is now traveling in Africa, said she bought 485 acres across the Potomac river from Mount Vernon "to prevent threatened commercial development." It said her will states that the land must never be used for any commercial purposes.

Mrs. Bolton is Ohio vice regent of the Mount Vernon Ladies Association.

First Commercial Pilot Dies.

BEXHILL, England, Sept. 16 (AP)—Capt. Bill Lawford, who claimed to have been the first civil airline pilot, died yesterday. He was 70 years old. In 1919 Lawford piloted a small DeHavilland plane at the inauguration of London-Paris service. He took off at Hounslow and landed at Le Bourget, outside Paris, 2¼ hours later, averaging 100 miles an hour.

KROGER STRIKE GOES INTO SECOND DAY

Food Deliveries to 55 Stores Blocked by Maintenance Men's Walkout.

Deliveries of food to the 55 Kroger Co. stores in St. Louis and St. Louis county were halted for the second day today as picket lines were maintained by striking maintenance men employed at the company's warehouse and bakery.

Efforts failed yesterday when the United States Conciliation Service stepped in to attempt to settle the strike called by Local 6, AFL Firemen, Oilers and Maintenance Men.

Commissioner M. K. Sheehan said he had no plans at this time to bring company and union representatives together. Edward J. Weber, business manager of the union, said no progress was made in the meeting. A company spokesman said, "We're still far apart."

Negotiations for higher wages for the maintenance men began last June and broke down Tuesday, when the union reaffirmed a decision to call a strike. The amount of increase sought under a new contract was not disclosed.

Kroger stores were selling all perishable foods today, Lloyd Erich, merchandise manager, said. He added that if any stores fail to sell their perishable items today, they will be open again tomorrow morning for that purpose. Management and supervisory personnel are handling the sales.

The company announced also that it would give 8900 loaves of bread to charitable organizations. About 3900 of the loaves already have been donated, Ehrich said. He added that other charities who want the remaining 5000 loaves may make arrangements for picking them up on a first-come-first-served basis by calling PRospect 1-6000.

CHANGES HER MIND AND PAYS FINE AFTER GOING TO JAIL

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 16 (AP)—Mrs. Gussie Edelman, who went to jail rather than sign a jaywalking ticket the police gave her last Tuesday, has changed her mind.

She pleaded guilty yesterday to the traffic citation. She had been accused not only of the traffic violation but of resisting officers. Municipal Judge F. Ray Bennett fined her $25 with the alternative of five days in jail, then suspended all but $2 of the fine, which she paid. She is 60 years old.

U.N. CHIEF LAYS PLANS FOR SECOND ATOMIC CONGRESS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Sept. 16 (AP)—United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold has laid the groundwork for another atoms-for-peace congress in two or three years.

He asked the General Assembly last night to approve continuing a scientific consulting committee of seven, which helped him arrange the first conference in Geneva last month.

Both President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Bulganin sent word to the conference that there should be more like it for the free exchange of data on atomic science.

In a report on the conference, Hammarskjold said it was the kind of meeting that could be held only under U.N. sponsorship. He said the first conference proved there could be scientific exchanges free of all political bias.

The United States, the Soviet Union, Britain, France, Canada, India and Brazil provided scienti for the consulting panel Hammarskjold wants continued.

PLANS OUTLINED FOR 30-NATION FINANCE GROUP

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Radio.

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Sept. 16—Plans were outlined yesterday for making a proposed International Banking Corporation "a catalytic agent to stimulate private investment at the meeting of the directors of the International Bank here.

Robert L. Garner, vice president of the bank, told the directors that the IFC, which hopes to begin operation next year, will fill a gap in the private investment field in which the World Bank cannot operate.

The bank does not provide venture capital and its loans are made only upon governmental guarantee for public works. The new agency will lend money only in association with private capital and only to private enterprise ventures.

The United States has passed legislation assuring its share in the new corporation, which is to begin operations when 30 member nations have done likewise. Its capitalization will be at $100,000,000.

GILLETTE, PAPER-MATE DEAL

BOSTON, Sept. 16 (AP)—The Gillette Co. announced today it has reached an understanding with the company that manufactures and distributes Paper-Mate pens for sale of Paper-Mate interests to Gillette for $15,500,000 cash.

TWO MOTORISTS ARE FINED, JAILED FOR DRUNKEN DRIVING

Two motorists received Workhouse sentences and heavy fines yesterday for driving when intoxicated, in Police Judge Morris Rosenthal's court. Both men's driver's licenses were suspended for 90 days.

Willie Watson, 5069 Vernon avenue, was sentenced to 90 days in the Workhouse and fined $200 on the drunk driving charge. Police testified that Watson, a Negro, was arrested June 26 after his automobile was seen weaving in the 5000 block of Vernon. Watson admitted having drunk a few beers, but denied being drunk.

Richard R. Love, 5168 Cates avenue, was sentenced to 30 days in the Workhouse and fined $100 on a similar charge. Police testified Love, a Negro, was arrested April 7 after the automobile he was driving collided with another at St. Ferdinand and Marcus avenues. Police also testified Love was drunk, but Love denied the charge.

400 WALK OUT OVER DISCIPLINING OF 3 BY UNION

DETROIT, Sept. 16 (AP)—Some 400 skilled workers walked off their jobs in two Chrysler Corp. plants in Detroit last night apparently in protest against disciplinary action by the CIO United Auto Workers against three Local 212 officials.

The insurgent tool and die workers left their jobs shortly after Local 212 executive board suspended a shop committeeman and two stewards for their alleged support of a rebel skilled trades workers union formed from UAW membership.

A Chrysler spokesman said the walkout forced the company to send home 470 other workers.

The three were accused of siding with the independent Society of Skilled Trades, formed by skilled workers dissatisfied with recent UAW contracts. The society claims a membership of 20,000 in Detroit and Flint.

MISSOURI U. WILLED $50,000 TO ESTABLISH SCHOLARSHIPS

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP)—The University of Missouri will receive $50,000 for establishment of two scholarships under terms of a will on file in Jackson County Probate Court.

The late Arthur G. Black, lawyer, who died here Monday after a short illness at the age of 75, willed that two funds be set up in memory of his wife, Adele Overall Black.

One fund of $40,000 will be used to create interest that will provide financial support for a woman student or students based on financial need and other qualifications prescribed by the school. Income from a $10,000 fund is to endow two scholarships at the university School of Law.

Rattlesnake Killer.

WILLOWS, Calif. (UP)—Denny Johnson, 11 years old, Elk Creek, Calif., set a new record this year, at least for a boy his size. So far Denny has killed 11 rattlesnakes, ranging from five feet to 15 inches in length.

FREEDOM OF EPITAPHS BECOMES ISSUE IN BRITAIN

HARROGATE, England, Sept. 16 (AP)—Freedom of epitaphs is the slogan of Britain's Master Monumental Masons. They are campaigning against what they call censorship of inscriptions on tombstones, contending a person should have just the sort of epitaph he wants. They charge some town councils have 40-word limits and one has a set of arbitrary fixed designs.

How LIFE will keep giving you

A PARTIAL PREVIEW OF FUTURE ISSUES

To see life, to see the world, to eyewitness great events—this is the primary purpose of LIFE magazine.

But week after week, LIFE gives you much more than unique picture-stories of things that are happening around the world—much more, in fact, than you bargain for.

Remember LIFE's rewarding "specials" so far this year—the revealing biography of Garbo . . . the serialization of C. S. Forester's novel, The Good Shepherd . . . the great religions series . . . Cameron Hawley's Cash McCall . . . the provocative MacArthur story?

And the future promises a continuing parade of big presentations, such as the serialization of Harry S. Truman's memoirs. A multi-chapter series—The Development of Man will present the epic story of our earliest ancestors. Sir Winston Churchill's History of the English-Speaking Peoples, will be used as the basis of a sweeping picture pageant your family will treasure for years.

The series on America's Arts and Skills will continue throughout the fall and winter, highlighted by a glowing color presentation of The American Frontier.

LIFE's increased use of color—50% more than last year—will be evident in the fabulous photographic essays ahead, as well as in color pictures of big news events.

LIFE promises you all this and more—more than you bargain for—to make the next 12 months rich in the information, fun and excitement you have come to expect from LIFE.

LIFE's Christianity issue —a book in magazine form

The December 26 issue of LIFE will represent the most ambitious project ever undertaken by any general magazine. In an effort to show the significant aspects of Christianity—from Biblical times to the present—LIFE will combine two issues in one.

Actually a book in magazine form, the entire "double issue" will be devoted to this monumental subject—more than 120 editorial pages and twice as many color pages as ordinarily appear in an average issue of LIFE.

Destined to become a collector's item, LIFE's Christianity issue will take its place beside your most cherished books.

TRUMAN MEMOIRS

The five part serialization of Harry S. Truman's memoirs, will begin with Volume I, in the September 26th issue of LIFE.

Written in the ex-President's own lively and pungent prose, this will be one of the most personal documents ever to appear in the public prints—a first-hand record of the most important seven years in the history of the United States.

CHRISTMAS LEGENDS

For centuries, sentimental legends about Christmas have grown and persisted throughout the Christian world.

Just before Christmas, LIFE will present a fanciful portfolio of warm, amusing paintings by Artist Jim Lewicki. Designed to add to your holiday gaiety, this portfolio will recreate for you some of the favorite and most famous of the Christmas fables.

DEVELOPMENT of MAN

Starting November 7, and continuing into 1956, this unique series will rival LIFE's own The World We Live In.

At least twelve chapters, illustrated by specially commissioned paintings, will show how Man discovered fire and invented the knife; how he learned to hunt animals and then to herd them; how he came at last to lay the foundations of the world's great civilizations.

WINSTON CHURCHILL

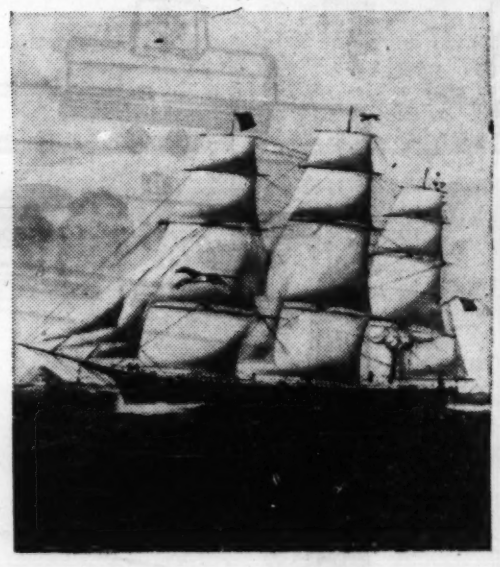

Sir Winston Churchill considers his forthcoming volumes—"History of the English-Speaking Peoples"—to be the culmination of a lifetime of writing. By exclusive agreement with Mr. Churchill, LIFE will use this work as the text for a sweeping pictorial pageant.

In the same inspiring category of LIFE's series, Western Man, this new presentation will offer a brilliant picture-history of a heritage we, as Americans, share with other nations of the world.

BEL AIR, CALIF.

Called the world's most luxurious suburb, this home of Hollywood moguls is lavish in its living. Swimming pools in the living room are only one sign of elegance you will see in this stunning photographic essay that shows you all you want to know about the Bagdad of the West.

ARTS and SKILLS

The next three chapters in this exciting adventure into America's past will show the vigorous days of our country's expansion.

In such diverse objects as clipper ships, Conestoga wagons, knives, guns and railroads, you will see how American craftsmen combined beauty with utility to produce an artistic heritage all our own.

2 SAY THEY SPIED FOR REDS TO AID U.S.

Veterans Assail CIA, Claim It Gave Them Brushoff—Agency Silent.

FRANKFURT, Germany, Sept. 16 (AP)—Officials of the United States Central Intelligence Agency had no comment today on two young American veterans' story of spying for the Russians in order to spy for the eWst.

The two, Gregory J. Lima of New York and Theo K. Hollie of Los Angeles, said they gave information to the Soviets "to serve our country by infiltrating Russian intelligence."

They charged the CIA strung them along for three months after they offered to work as double agents then turned them down. They accused the CIA of "gross malfeasance" because it did not hire them and said they have asked to testify against the intelligence organization at a congressional hearing.

The two told reporters they got $6000 from the Russians for their espionage activities.

Hollie, a Navy veteran, said they got the idea of becoming double agents last year after Lima was "fired from a civilian job with the Army Department in West Germany in 1953 as a 'security risk.'"

"Some of the charges against him were that he had tried to get an acquaintance to join the American Labor party and that a 'Dear Comrade' letter had once come to his address from the New York Daily Worker," Hollie said.

"We decided that if we could do something positive and dramatic against Communism, it would make Greg a first-class citizen again and remove "security risk' from his record. It would, of course, serve our country.

"So we schemed to hoodwink the Soviets into hiring us as spies, then have the CIA use us thereafter."

The two said their missions for the Russians ranged from a report on a United States military intelligence school at Oberammergau, Germany, to a visit to Belgium's largest arms factory.

They said they went to the CIA last May 1 and proposed that they work as double agents to learn more about the Soviet spy apparatus.

The CIA began an investigation, they said, but told them on Aug. 31 "we don't know you anymore." They charged the CIA has refused to pay about $1000 in debts they said they incurred on instructions of the agency.

"All we got from CIA was $6-per-diem during June, July and August, while we were asked to be at CIA's disposal," Hollie said.

Hollie said he went to the Soviet embassy in East Berlin last November and offered their services. They reported to Soviet intelligence in Berlin once a month, he said.

SULLIVAN COUNTY SELECTS NOMINEES FOR LEGISLATURE

MILAN, Mo., Sept. 16 (AP)—Sullivan county Republican and Democratic committes have selected their candidates for the county's seat in the state legislature. A special election will be held Oct. 4.

The Republicans chose John Todd, Osborn farmer and a member of the county G.O.P. committee as their candidate. The Democrats picked Everett Harris, Milan farmer and chairman of the county committee.

The county hasn't had a representative in the legislature since Rep. G. Baird Fisher, Republican, died in July 1953. Legal difficulties have nullified two elections since then.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Sept. 16 (AP) — A chartered Canadian Pacific airliner yesterday brought in 65 Chinese students from Formosa for advanced study in North American universities and colleges. A second contingent will arrive next week.

Hsu Ching-sheng, spokesman for the arrivals, said "it is our duty to use the knowledge we gain on this continent to help (Generalissimo) Chiang rebuild the new republic on the Chinese mainland."

CHEF WHO COOKED THAT $64,000 MENU IS OUT OF A JOB

LONDON, Sept. 16 (AP)—The chef who prepared the royal banquet an American Marine described to win $64,000 is looking for a job.

Rene Roussin is no longer the cook at Buckingham Palace but lives quietly in Wimbledon, a London residential suburb. He is keeping as a trade secret the method of preparation of the meat dish—mignonette d'agneau royale—that baffled even those who thought up the questions for the American TV quiz. "Agneau" is French for lamb.

Producers of the show did not ask Marine Capt. Richard McCutchen to describe this item on the menu when he won the jackpot this week because they weren't sure of the ingredients.

The chef says the menu he prepared for the banquet George VI gave for President Lebrun of France at Buckingham Palace in 1939 is still fresh in his mind. He suffered a stroke several years ago and was forced to give up his job as royal chef. He has done little work since then.

British Newspaper Price Hike.

LONDON, Sept. 16 (AP)—Three of Britain's nationally distributed daily newspapers yesterday raised the price of their papers from 1½ pennies to 2 pennies (1¾ to 2⅓ United States cents). The papers are the Daily Herald, the Daily Mirror and the News Chronicle. British newspapers recently granted employes a 12½ per cent pay increase.

GOV. LEADER CALLS PRESIDENT 'POLITICAL FREAK'

Says Eisenhower Enjoys a Tenderness of Approach That Is Unique in History.'

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 16 (UP)—Gov. George M. Leader of Pennsylvania, following a Democratic get-tough policy, charged last night that President Eisenhower was "a political freak . . . who has enjoyed a tenderness of approach that is unique in America's political history."

"Even George Washington enjoyed no such protection in press and politics," said Leader, who substituted for former President Truman in addresses here and San Francisco at $100-a-plate Democratic rallies.

"Skilled and seasoned politicians obviously have been in grave doubt as to how they should grapple with such a political freak," Leader continued.

The Governor said he was convinced Mr. Eisenhower would be chosen by the G.O.P. to run again for President and added that Democrats, in campaigning against him this time, would drop the "soft" approach Mr. Eisenhower previously enjoyed.

'No Constitutional Monarch.'

"Dwight Eisenhower is no constitutional monarch, a symbol of state removed from party contention," Leader said. "He is a Republican partisan President . . . and he should be so recognized and treated."

He made no reference in last night's speech to "underworld" influences in the G.O.P. as he did in San Francisco the previous night.

In the San Francisco speech Leader said: "Were he (Eisenhower) to win the office again, carrying with him a Republican Congress, the hard and ugly underworld in the Republican party would again reveal its measure of control, again make the President and the nation their captive."

Assistant White House Press Secretary Murray Snyder fired back yesterday by asserting an "underworld" had "opposed the Republican party in various elections." He did not refer to the Democrats by name.

He expanded his statement by saying the term "underworld" meant to him "criminal elements."

Asked to name specific examples, the White House spokesman replied only: "Did you ever hear of Frank Costello?" Costello, longtime New York underworld figure, has twice been sentenced for federal offenses.

Leader Replies.

Leader replied that he was referring to foreign policy and not to domestic politics when he made his "underworld" charges. He accused Snyder of "deliberate misinterpretation or total ignorance" of Leader's San Francisco speech.

"If Mr. Snyder had read my speech even he would have understood to what the word 'underworld' referred," Leader said. The speech had nothing to do with domestic policy. It referred to the isolationist wing and the prevent-atomic-war-now people in the Republican party."

He said his San Francisco speech had been devoted entirely to foreign policy.

"I said the right wing of the Republican party—the Hoovers, Nixons and Knowlands — are catering to the President now because they need him desperately," Leader explained. "But if he should win a second term, carrying with him a Republican Congress, the hard and ugly underworld in the Republican party would again reveal its measure of control and again make the President and the nation its captive."

In a telegram sent to last night's dinner former President Truman urged Democrats to beat the Republicans in 1956 "by simply telling the truth" to halt G.O.P. cuits in national defense appropriations. He said he had been "disturbed for some time by the present Administration's policy of scrimping on national defense . . . to hold down expenditures."

"Now we have alarming reports that even further cuts in our national defense are planned in a politically-inspired effort to balance the budget at all costs before the 1956 elections," he said. "I hope these reports are not true."

He said these cuts would "inevitably increase the danger to our national safety . . . and the safety of America is too great a sacrifice to lay upon the altar of a balanced budget." He added that the budget can be balanced "if we are willing to make the money sacrifice to do it."

He also accused the Republicans of wanting to turn over the "wonderful scientific developments of the current age" to special interests "lock, stock and barrel."

"That's what they've done with all our resources they could put their hands on, and that's what they're trying to do with atomic energy right now," he warned.

'Sharp Weapons' Urged.

By the Associated Press.

In his speech here Leader said it would take "sharp weapons, well laid on," to "penetrate the screen of protective armor that has been put around Eisenhower."

"Harry Truman's broad ax alone won't do it," he said. "Neither will Adlai Stevenson's rapier thrusts. Every Democrat has a part to play in this work."

The Governor swung a few hatchet blows, himself. Sample strokes:

"There is no Benson farm policy that is creating an agricultural depression. It is an Eisenhower policy.

"There is no Brownell security policy that has built up a shocking crew of Government paid informers and perjurers. It is an Eisenhower policy.

"There was no Hobby snafu on the polio vaccine. It was the Eisenhower administration's snafu.

"The Humphrey blooper that cost the Treasury a billion dollars in corporate taxes, the Humphrey hard money policy that gave a quickie recession, are misnamed. They are Eisenhower's responsibilities, Eisenhower's blooper, Eisenhower's handout to the banks."

If the President is not aware of what his aids do, Leader suggested "a 'Dwight Eisenhower slept here' sign should be ordered for the White House, for the Doud house in Denver, for the Gettysburg farm, and perhaps even the Burning Tree Country Club."

GEORGE S. COUNTS CHOSEN TO HEAD LIBERAL PARTY

NEW YORK, Sept. 16 (AP)—George S. Counts, professor emeritus of education at Columbia University, has been chosen to head the Liberal party. The party's state committee last night selected the 65-year-old Counts to succeed Adolf A. Berle Jr., who resigned last July.

Counts, who has been a vice chairman of the party, ran unsuccessfully for the United States Senate on the Liberal ticket in 1952. He was an education adviser to Gen. Douglas MacArthur in Japan in 1946. From 1948 to 1950 he was a member of the Fulbright committee on the international exchange of scholars. Counts also is a former national president of the AFL American Federation of Teachers.

The 11-year-old Liberal party, organized only in New York state, had 98,600 registered members in the last general primary in 1954. Of these members, 92,655 reside in New York City. The Liberals, in support of Democratic Gov. Averell Harriman last year, drew 264,093 votes.

CAA MUST BE NOTIFIED QUICKLY IN PLANE SALES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Administration said today that airplane owners who sell their craft must notify CAA immediately. Heretofore such notice was required only when there was a change of address.

CAA said the new rule resulted from frequent difficulties in establishing legal title to aircraft.

MATTHEWS STILL AGAINST BOARD ON MERGER PLAN

Opposes Any Move Which Would Cost County Communities Their Identity.

St. Louis County Supervisor Luman F. Matthews today repeated his opposition to a movement to establish a board of freeholders to draw up a plan for the merger of St. Louis and St. Louis county.

He told a luncheon meeting of the Optimist Club of St. Louis that he was against "any merger which will cause the communities of the county to lose their identity."

Noting that Washington and St. Louis universities are considering a detailed study of the problems involved in such a governmental consolidation, Matthews said city-county merger proposals should not be made until that study has been completed.

Cites Complex Tasks.

The value of such a study, he said, "cannot be overestimated." He added that freeholders should not be asked to make recommendations on such complicated subjects as the disposition of debts of the many municipalities involved without having a mass of information on hand.

Petitions for appointment of a board of freeholders have been circulated for several months, and a sponsoring organization for the movement, the Citizens Committee for City-County Co-ordination, has been officially incorporated.

Matthews announced his opposition last February, when the petitioning was begun by the Business Men's Council for Missouri, Inc., and St. Louis Alderman A. J. Cervantes. Mayor Raymond R. Tucker termed the movement "premature."

Getting 'Value Received.'

In his address to the Optimist Club, meeting at Hotel Statler, Matthews declared that county residents now are getting "value received" for their governmental expenses. "I don't think they would accept anything less than what they are getting," he said.

He asserted that the people of the county were not complaining about the fact that there are 96 separate municipalities. Only one city has ever asked to be disincorporated, he said.

Referring to the "district" method of consolidating governmental operations, one of the merger possibilities authorized under the state constitution, Matthews said the success of the campaign to set up the Metropolitan St. Louis Sewer District showed that residents of the city and county would act in common to meet real problems.

BABY HANGS SELF IN AUTO AS PARENTS WATCH MOVIE

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 16 (AP)—While Mr. and Mrs. Billy Graham watched a drive-in movie last night their 14-month-old daughter hanged herself in the back seat.

Karen, the couple's only child, was asleep on the back seat of the family station wagon at the start of the show. Police said she apparently climbed on a pillow and put her head out a partly opened side window. The pillow slipped, leaving her head trapped between the window glass and frame.

RAIL UNIONS SEND OUT STRIKE BALLOTS

Dispute Over Wages Expected to Reach President in 3 or 4 Weeks.

CHICAGO, Sept. 16 (AP)—Some 800,000 non-operating employes soon will vote whether to strike against the major railroads.

A union official said the strike ballots had been mailed yesterday after the railroads rejected the wage and health-welfare demands of 12 AFL unions in individual bargaining.

"The dispute will probably reach the President in three or four weeks," said George E. Leighty, president of the AFL Order of Railroad Telegraphers and chairman of the 12-union negotiating committee.

Leighty, of St. Louis, referred to the Railway Labor Act, empowering President Eisenhower to appoint an emergency board to investigate a labor dispute which threatens to disrupt railroad service. This would automatically delay a strike.

"This is not an immediate strike threat," Leighty said. "We began taking the strike ballot yesterday. It will take 30 days before we know the result."

The Association of Western Railroads said the railroads had taken no action on the unions' demands.

A meeting of union and railroad committees is scheduled in Chicago Tuesday to discuss the unions' demands on a nationwide basis.

Committees representing the unions will meet with the eastern, western and southeastern carrier conference committees.

Leighty said the unions demand a 25-cent an hour wage increase and want the railroads to pay the full cost of the employes' health-welfare program.

The present average wage of non-operating employes, he said, is $1.78 an hour, and the railroads and employes each now pay $3.40 a month for health-welfare benefits.

Because of an escalator clause in thep resent ocntract, non-operating employes now are making one cent an hour less than they did in September 1952, Leighty said, while labor in other industries has won increases averaging 7½ per cent.

Rivera in Moscow Hospital.

MOSCOW, Sept. 16 (AP)—Mexican painter Diego Rivera has entered Moscow's Botvinsky hospital for treatment of skin cancer. The 69-year-old artist told Mexican Ambassador Alfonso de Resenschweig Diaz he would undergo treatment with radioactive isotopes. He said no operation was planned. The Ambassador called on Rivera at the hospital.

10th Child in Negro Family Gets Degree, Father's Dream Realized

Maryland Man Worked Long Years to Educate Youngsters—His Top Pay Was $80 a Week.

PRINCESS ANNE, Md., Sept. 16 (AP)—When Grant Bartholomew Martin, 21 years old, receives his bachelor's degree from Maryland State Teachers College at Bowie next spring, he will be the tenth member of his family to receive a college degree.

It also will mark the realization of Louis Martin's dream of educating his entire family. Grant is the youngest of 12 children of Mr. and Mrs. Martin and his sheepskin will be the thirteenth in the Negro family. Three of them hold master's degrees.

The event will be all the more unusual in that Louis Martin, the father, has worked most of his 66 years for not more than $80 a week. Most of his working life he earned about $30 a week.

The Martins' philosophy of life? "Life is a struggle. But it is good to have a struggle. It strengthens your character."

Louis Martin had to build his strong character at an early age. His father died when he was 3. His mother died when he was 10 and he was sent to a Philadelphia orphan home.

Martin entered the Hampton Institute at Hampton, Va., when he was 10 and majored in agriculture. That was only the start.

His family kept growing, but it grew as a team and it kept working together.

When the first children went to college, the younger ones at home worked harder than ever to help pay their way. When the first students were graduated, they in turn helped send the younger boys and girls through college.

RANKS TOO THIN, NAVY TO DRAFT 10,000 A MONTH

Volunteers Used Since World War II—Many Korean War Enlistments Expiring.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP)—The navy, which has prided itself on being a strictly volunteer outfit, finally has been compelled to start drafting some of its sailors.

For the first time since World War II, when all the armed forces were ordered to get all men by draft alone, the Navy will begin in November to get some of its manpower by levy.

The draft became necessary, the Navy said, to replace men whose four-year Korean war enlistments are now expiring.

A monthly quota, starting out at 10,000 men, will be added to the present Army quota to bring the total draft call up to 20,000.

By next summer the Navy expects to have drafted a total of 56,000 men. Except for January, when none will be taken, the Navy is asking for 10,000 men a month through next April, 6000 for May and perhaps some in June. It said it hopes to drop draft calls after June.

The Navy draftees will serve for the same two-year period as their Army opposites. Enlistments will continue on a four-year basis.

Air Force Problem.

The Air Force is confronted with a problem identical to that of the Navy—a high loss of manpower because terms of men who joined during the Korean war are now expiring and men are declining—in droves—to re-enlist.

But the Air Force is hanging on to its own volunteer-only record. A spokesman said today there are "absolutely no plans" for turning to the draft and added "we are completely a volunteer service and hope and trust we can remain that way."

He said monthly enlistment quotas are being met through the volunteer method. But records show that the Air Force, with a present strength of about 955,000, is below the 975,000 level which it is authorized to attain by next June 30.

If called up by selective service, a man may ask for duty in the Navy. Whether he gets it will depend on several conditions, including whether the monthly quotas as allocated between the Army and Navy have been filled. The selections will be made at the armed forces examination stations.

Same Assignments.

Even though the tour of duty will be only half of that for regular enlistees, the draftee will get the same type of assignments. The Navy says:

"There will be no distinction made. They will be assigned to the fleet, shore establishment or schools as the needs of the service dictate."

The Army has been drafting men since the early months of the Korean war. A total of 1,857,000 men will have been called in for the Army through the end of this month.

The Marine corps turned to the draft for a time during the Korean war, from August 1951 through May 1952, inducting 81,430 men.

The Navy, like the Air Force, has adhered to its policy of no draftees since World War II.

Flashes of Life

Too Much Recruiting.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) Assistant Chief of Police W. A. Miller put out an order forbidding any more Jacksonville policemen to join the Reserves or National Guard.

Miller, a colonel commanding an Army Reserve battalion, explained he had recruited so many policemen there were hardly enough left for patrol duty on drill nights.

The Mail Goes Through.

ATLANTA, Ga. (UP)—A lot of folks will get Christmas greetings early this year—or late, depending on the point of view.

Workmen rebuilding a residence found two mail pouches under the porch. One contained more than 500 pieces of mail dated Dec. 6, 1954, much of it comprising Christmas cards. The post office sent the mail on its way.

Injured Samaritan.

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP)—Raymond Polan was driving on a boulevard when he saw three women in distress—their automobile had a flat tire. Polan offered to help. Seconds later he was jacking up the car. The jack slipped as he was preparing to remove the tire and Polan is in the hospital with a broken right ankle.

FARM PRICE DROP COMPARED TO 20S BY HOUSE LEADER

'Prosperous Agriculture' Called 'Essential' to Nation's Economy by Harold Cooley.

EAST LANSING, Mich, Sept. 16 (UP)—Chairman Harold D. Cooley of the House Agriculture Committee warned yesterday that falling farm prices present an "exact parallel" to the late 1920s when agriculture paced the nation into depression.

"There was boomtime then in the rest of the economy, much as we have today, and the farmer's cries were scarcely heard," the North Carolina Democrat said. "The country then did not realize—and today it seems to have forgotten—that a prosperous agriculture is essential to the well-being of the whole economy."

Parallel of 1920s.

Cooley said today's falling farm prices should "darkly remind us of the exact parallel of the late 1920s when agriculture slowly sank into a depression while the rest of the economy enjoyed a phantom prosperity."

The Representative, key figure in the Democrat farm bloc in Congress and vigorous opponent of the Republican administration's program of flexible farm price supports, made the remarks in a speech to the National Association of County Agricultural agents.

In what he pictured as a nonpolitical address, he said farmers are being made victims of a campaign to convince Americans that a support program which he said rescued agriculture from the last depression is one of surpluses, controls, subsidies and waste—"with evil sounding overtones."

Effort to Divide Farmers.

Also, he said, a "rather successful attempt" has been made to divide farmers themselves.

The truth is, Cooley said, that present farm surpluses stemmed from Government demands for full production during the Korean war, as a safeguard against a dangerous world situation.

"The truth is that subsidies to agriculture add up to only a very small fraction of such payments that have been going to business and industry since the first year our Government began to function," he said.

"Data prepared by a House appropriations subcommittee in 1954 indicated subsidies amounting to approximately 45 billion dollars have been paid to business since World War II, a large part of this in business reconversion payments.

"In contrast, the support of the basic crops through the Commodity Credit Corporation cost only $21,000,000 over the first 21 years the program operated. The CCC support program on the basic crops actually showed a profit of $13,000,000 at the beginning of 1953."

Off 30 Per cent Since 1947.

Cooley cited Agriculture Department figures showing a 30 per cent drop in farm income since 1947 and farmers now getting 42 cents of the consumer's food dollar compared with 52 cents in 1946.

Out of respect for the nonpartisan county agents, he said, he refrained from suggesting any particular kind of program, but he contended that without a program "agriculture today would be, not in a recession but in the depths of a depression."

"Of course," he said, "the farm program is not special treatment but is similar in principle to the minimum wage and collective bargaining laws that protect labor's income, the tariff for industry, the Government rate making that assures profits for utilities, various fair trade laws for business, and many other national, state and local laws intended to modify or soften the hazards of working or doing business."

2 MEN HUNTING URANIUM MISSING IN COLORADO MINE

GEORGETOWN, Colo., Sept. 16 (AP)—Federal Bureau of Mines experts joined more than 100 volunteer rescue workers today in desperate efforts to rescue two Kansas uranium prospectors trapped in an ancient mine shaft.

Believed dead from lack of oxygen more than 3000 feet inside the unused shaft near here were Glenn Dew, 33 years old, and Melvin LeBlow, 45, Ulysses (Kan.) farmers.

The two were last seen about 2:30 p.m. yesterday when they followed their Geiger counters under the rotted timbers supporting the old mine tunnel, about 35 miles west of Denver.

Two companions who stayed back as a precaution escaped entrapment.

Aside from an old cavein and the rotted timbers, there was no clue to what had happened to the two missing men. They merely failed to return.

Lack of oxygen in the old mine hampered operations, but a team of 10 Bureau of Mines experts arrived early today with air compressing equipment and an oxygen supply.

ALTON MAN DIES OF INJURY SUFFERED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

John Feyerabend, 318 McClure street, Alton, died at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Granite City, today of a head injury suffered Wednesday when an automobile he was driving struck the rear of a tractor-trailer truck as it was making a left turn into a side road on Illinois Route 111, five miles east of Granite City.

The truck driver, Harry F. Hestedde of St. Charles, told police he signalled for the turn. He was not injured.

Presidents of M.F.A. and Cotton Producers Joined Head of Farmers Union of Latter State in Attacks.

Concern about the status of agriculture, depressed in the midst of industrial plenty, is shifting from the national level to increased attention at the grassroots. Evidence of the trend in the Missouri-Illinois area comes from these developments:

1. Ralph S. Bradley, president of the Illinois Farmers Union, said at Springfield this week after a tour of the central and southeastern part of the state that there is a "critical agricultural depression."

2. The Missouri Cotton Producers Association calls "ill advised" a cut in price supports for cottonseed which it estimates will cost Missouri farmers $4,000,000 during the current harvest.

Protest From M.F.A.

3. Fred V. Heinkel, president of the Missouri Farmers Association, renews his opposition to the present farm program, which he calls "a mathematical formula for forcing the farmers to receive less and less for their products."

4. The Illinois Agricultural Association, generally favorable to the administration, puts national agricultural policies and expanding foreign trade at the top of its agenda for policy determination.

All of the interpretation stems from confirmation of a trend toward less income from farmers in a report of the Department of Agriculture issued Tuesday. It shows farm income declined slightly more than 4 per cent in the first half of this year, with a further decline during the year's third quarter being forecast.

The loss of income was attributed chiefly to a drop in farm prices, averaging about 5 per cent.

Cost of Congress's Failure.

Bradley said that the "failure of the last Congress to legislate a satisfactory farm program will cost Illinois farmers more than one billion dollars this year on its three major crops of corn, soybeans and wheat."

"Wayne county alone," he added, "will have a loss of more than $4,500,000 in the three commodities and this is now being felt by retail merchants who serve farm people's needs."

Bradley decried one line of explanation that the problem stems from farmer inefficiency. He said it basically is a matter of price and cited an example.

A small farmer with 85 acres of crop land, Bradley said, who put it in corn, soybeans and wheat with a normal yield with full parity should get more than $6000.

Not Traceable to Inefficiency.

"Instead, if he has to sell on today's free market, he would get less than $3000. Therefore, our problem is not that the farmer is inefficient, but rather that he just isn't getting his fair price for the products he raises.

"Unless his Government gives him some legal device to help him in this paradoxical situation, then you can call him inefficient or whatever you wish, but you will also have to call him a broke farmer, and certainly through no fault of his own."

Complaint of Cotton Planters.

At Portageville, Mo., Jim Dick Killion, president of the M.C.P.A. reviewed the cottonseed situation.

"The USDA purchase price to farmers this year is 60 per cent of parity or $42 a ton for basis grade (100) seed," he said. This is a drop of $8 per ton from 1954 and $20 under 1952. While the USDA has been cutting prices to farmers, products made from cottonseed such as salad oil, shortening, and spreads have actually increased in price to consumers.

"The industry has long realized that support prices on cottonseed constitute a ceiling as well as a floor. For this reason we have urged that support prices on cottonseed be maintained at a minimum of 75 per cent of parity, or else be abandoned altogether.

Less Than Ginning Cost.

"Now we find ourselves in a situation where the producer realizes less for his seed than the usual cost per bale of his ginning while the ginner handles the resale of the seed without profit and often at a loss."

Heinkel said that the flexible or sliding scale law combined with the new transitional parity which becomes effective in 1956 "can only result in even lower prices for farmers."

In its current policy development series, the I.A.A. is following an annual program in determining what rank and file membership think on current issues, of which farm income is as important as any other. The same thing is true for Missouri's Farm Bureau.

Russell McKee, Washburn, chairman of the I.A.A. resolutions committee, appeared at the Twenty-fifth district meeting at Carbondale. Sentiment expressed in the various sessions will be considered when resolutions are prepared for the I.A.A. annual convention in Chicago.

WOMAN ACCUSED OF TRIMMING FIRM TO TRIM FIGURE

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 16 (AP)—A divorcee, who paid nearly $25,000 for dancing lessons while trying to get her figure in trim, was being sought by Virginia police today on a check forgery charge.

Mrs. Myrtle Corbitt Hays was missing when officers went to question her about checks forged in the name of the contracting firm which she served as bookkeeper. The checks totaled $14,217.

Police said investigation disclosed Mrs. Hays had been dancing since last February when a physician told her it would be a good way to reduce and might also help her arthritis.

At the outset Mrs. Hays signed up for $800 in lessons. Later she wrote checks to a local dancing studio for two lifetime courses costing $7900 each, and for junior lifetime courses for her son and daughter-in-law at $4200 each.

Police said Mrs. Hays signed for the courses so she could win an $800 trip to Mexico. She won the trip but has not taken it.

She also had lost 50 pounds—down to 140 from 190.

MAJOR SOUGHT DATA FOR REDS, G.I.S SAY

Ronald E. Alley Accused of Misconduct While P.O.W.

FORT MEADE, Md., Sept. 16 (AP)—After two weeks of legal maneuvering the first witnesses called by the Army testified yesterday that Maj. Ronald E. Alley asked fellow prisoners of war in Korea to give the enemy information about their military units.

Additional Army witnesses are expected to be called as testimony continues at the court-martial of the 34-year-oid Bar Harbor, Me., artilleryman charged with misconduct while a prisoner.

Yesterday's witnesses testified Alley admitted in a prison camp that he had given the Chinese Communists information on United States artillery and that "they (the Communists) had the infantry down pretty pat."

Defense counsel Lt. Col. William T. Logan sought t o show that the witnesses had discussed among themselves the testimony they wtre going to give in order to refresh their memories. The courtroom was cleaned out so that Logan could attempt to refute testimony of the Army's witnesses with what he called "security."

Gerald E. Francois of Jersey City, N.J., sai dAlley asked him and other prisoners to co-operate with the Chinese.

The witness and two others, William H. Dangro, Lancaster, Pa., and Pasquale H. Dangro, Staten Island, N.Y., said Alley and a Chinese officer came to a hut near Chosen reservoir dam where about 37 prisoners were held, seeking information about United States anti-aircraft, artillery, infantry and medical units.

M. Sgt. James A. Alt of Petersburg, W.Va., who is stationed here onw, and Willis E. Avery, from Delavan, Ill., both said Alley left a room, where they lived with him, at will without a guard. Anyone else, they sad, had to be escorted by a Communist guard.

Avery said Alley wanted information for the Communists about any prisoner with a specification number of 1745, identified as that of a light weapons infantryman.

3 NEGRO STUDENTS READY FOR N. CAROLINA U. CLASSES

CHAPEL HILL, N.C., Sept. 16 (AP)—Three Negro students were ready for classes today at the University of North Carolina, the first of their race to be enrolled in the undergraduate school at the 166-year-old institution.

Leroy Frasier, 17 years old, his brother Ralph, 16, and John L. Brandon, 18, were admitted yesterday after federal judges refused to stay an order issued Saturday directing the school to admit the youths. University officials said all three were "academically qualified." All are graduates of Durham's Hillside High School and will commute daily from Durham, 12 miles away.

Meanwhile, Louisiana State University turned down one Negro undergraduate application but said another, A. P. Tureaud Jr., was eligible for under arts and law.

The 19-year-old Tureaud, son of the chief counsel in Louisiana for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, did not enroll, however. The father explained that as long as L.S.U. apparently intends to ask a rehearing in the court case, his son might lose a semester of study in any ne wlegal dispute. The youth sought to transfer from Xavier University, at New Orleans, to L.S.U.

FINIS J. GARRETT RETIRES; IN PUBLIC LIFE 55 YEARS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP)—Finis J. Garrett, 80 years old, retired yesterday after 55 years of public life.

Lawyers, associate justices, relatives and friends who showed up for the ceremony recalled Garrett's 24 years of service as a noted orator in the Hous eof Representatives. For six years, 1923-28, he was the minority leader, and spokesman of the Democrats. Only a few of the old-timers remember how the House chamber would fill with members when word got around that Garrett, noted for his legal knowledge, would talk.

He served in the United States Court of Customs and Patent Appeals for 26 years, being its chief judge since 1937.

Judge Garrett said he felt surprise and regret that the public knows so little of the court's functions and the sweeping effect of its decision on tariffs and on the general operations of industry. He was told that the opinions he wrote constitute a "judicial monument to his memory" just as legislation he helped steer through Congress, including three basic changes in tariff law, make up a "legislative monument."

RHEE REPLACES 3 CABINET MEMBERS WITH ARMY MEN

SEOUL, Sept. 16 (AP)—Three South Korean cabinet ministers, fearing a possible non-confidence vote on domestic issues in the National Assembly, resigned today and were promptly replaced with three military men.

TOTAL DEFENSE CUTS NOW SET AT HALF BILLION

Reductions too Small to Balance Budget, Department Officials Report.

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16—Defense Department officials reported yesterday that current cost-cutting efforts would reduce military expenditures this year by something like $500,000,000.

However, they said, they saw no possibility of a cut of budget balancing proportions.

Exhaustive studies were undertaken several weeks ago after Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey had called on all departments and agencies to pare unnecessary costs.

Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson then laid it down that nothing would be allowed to interfere with personnel or unit force goals of the over-all defense program.

It has now been reported to him that any more drastic reductions than those currently contemplated would affect the program.

As a consequence, present estimates of military spending for this fiscal year run close to or are a few hundred million dollars under the 34 billion dollar goal set by the Administration last January.

Humphrey had in mind a new goal on the order of 33 billions.

Wilson went over the Army picture Wednesday during a conference at his home near Detroit with Secretary of the Army Wilber M. Brucker, Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Army Chief of Staff, Assistant Secretary of Defense W. J. McNeil and others.

Earlier he had conferred with Air Force officials, many of whom feared that budget-balancing efforts would interfere with plane procurement and other essential parts of the defense program.

Some time within the next week or two, it will be the Navy's turn to justify planned expenses.

Already, however, there is general agreement that total savings for all three service departments will fall short of the targets urged by Secretary Humphrey.

Evanston Mayor Dies.

EVANSTON, Ill., Sept. 16 (UP)—Samuel Gilbert Ingraham, mayor of this northern suburb of Chicago for 12 years, died yesterday at the age of 72. Mr. Ingraham, who was mayor from 1941 to 1953, died at his home while he was being prepared to be taken in an ambulance to a hospital. He suffered a stroke four years ago.

Fights Railroad to Get Flasher Where Her Husband Was Killed

Ohio Woman Testifies at Hearing—Her 9-Year-Old Daughter Started Case With Letter to President.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 16 (AP)—A widow and her nine-year-old daughter battled one of the biggest railroads today because they want automatic flasher lights at a crossing where the girl's father was killed. Railroad witnesses said the lights are not necessary.

Pamela Sue Huff, a Girl Scout, started the case with a letter to President Eisenhower asking greater safety precautions by railroads. The President referred the case to the Interstate Commerce Commission, which sent it to the Ohio Public Utilities Commission.

The one-day hearing was held yesterday before attorney-examiner Lewis Witherspoon, who said his recommendation would be ready in about six weeks.

Appears Without Counsel.

Pamela and her mother, Mrs. Emily Huff of Belfast appeared at the hearing without counsel. Attorney Ralph Mahaffey of Columbus represented the commission. Mrs. Huff said she was unaware that she would have to testify or need an attorney.

But testify she did after Pam became shy in the ornate hearing room and cried softly just before the hearing started. The girl did not take the stand, but sat quietly through a long parade of witnesses called by the New York Central Railroad.

They claimed flasher lights are not justified at the Sellars road crossing in Moraine where James W. Huff was killed last Dec. 12 in an auto-train collision. He was en route home from work at the Frigidaire division of General Motors near Dayton.

Charles A. Hamman of Batavia, a public utilities commission railroad inspector, testified that his investigation showed flasher lights were needed.

Engineer Testifies.

Among witnesses called by the railroad was Arthur Anderson of Chicago, special assistant engineer for the New York Central line. He said to install automatic signals at the 11,404 crossings in Ohio would cost the New York Central $86,000,000 for this "special protection."

Mrs. Huff attacked the railroads for living in a "horse and buggy era" and suggested flasher lights be installed at all crossings.

"If we can have electricity in our homes, there's no reason why we're not entitled to that protection at our railroads," she said.

Following the day-long hearing, Witherspoon asked Mrs. Huff if she cared to make any final statements. She went to the front of the room and thanked all the witnesses for their time and statements and then led the group in the Lord's prayer.

Peruvian Cabinet Resigns.

LIMA, Sept. 16 (AP) — The Peruvian cabinet resigned yesterday to give President Manuel Odria a free hand in reorganization of the government. Only four of the 12 resignations will be accepted, an official said.

CHARGES FAVORITISM IN LAW ENFORCEMENT

Joseph M. Whealen, St. Louis Republican leader, today charged Gov. Phil M. Donnelly, Attorney General John M. Dalton and Circuit Attorney Edward L. Dowd with political favoritism in the enforcement of laws against members of the Democratic party.

Speaking at a luncheon of the First Congressional District Republican Women's Organization at Welliston, Whealen said Gov. Donnelly has taken no steps to bring about an investigation and prosecutions for alleged election irregularities in the St. Louis Democratic primary last August.

Whealen, former national young Republican committeeman for Missouri, declared Attorney General Dalton has failed to uncover those responsible for the shortage of state revenue funds in Perry county, and Dowd had violated his pledge not to make "deals" to permit persons under indictment to plead guilty to lesser charges, in the cases of two Democratic aldermen accused of accepting bribes.

Missouri Senator to Seek to Develop Positive Aspects of Bill of Rights in Inquiry Into Extent to Which It Is Being Eroded by Security Program.

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

(Copyright, 1955, The Pulitzer Publishing Co.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.

SELDOM has any committee of Congress drawn such blasts of criticism even before its work begins as have been directed against the Senate subcommittee on constitutional rights. With hearings still two weeks off, the attacks have come from both left and right.

There are many reasons why this should be so. First the committee will deal with the issue of the basic American freedoms versus the security measures which have been constantly expanded in recent years to meet the threat of the Communist conspiracy. This is bloody ground torn not only by current dissension but by bitter controversy going back to America's origins.

In its examination of the Bill of Rights of the Constitution and the damage that may or may not have been done in the interests of security to this fundamental charter of American freedom, the committee has proposed exploring at the outset the First Amendment and the guarantee of religious freedom with the separation of church and state. This has stirred more furious words and angry passions in the past century and a half than any of the other guarantees in the Bill of Rights.

One of the chief criticisms directed against the committee is on the score of opening up at the outset this Pandora's box of irreconcilable convictions. The fear is that such deep feelings will be stirred as to impair or destroy any further usefulness of the committee. The basic issue of church and state, it has been pointed out, should be left to the courts to be resolved within the framework of the Constitution.

Fortunately, the chairman of the Constitutional Rights subcommittee is Senator Thomas C. Hennings Jr. (Dem.), Missouri, who is one of the principal authorities in the Senate on the Constitution and constitutional law. Hennings's concept from the time that he took over the chairmanship has been to develop the positive aspects of the Bill of Rights and what it has meant over the years to the citizen in the growth and development of America to its present position of world power and unprecedented prosperity and productivity. Too often in the past, it seemed to Hennings, the stress was on the prohibitions rather than on the great affirmations contained in the American charter.

"Citizens' Petition" Drafted.

Thus the committee initiated for the observance of Constitution day tomorrow a "citizens' petition for the redress of grievances" to be presented in the old Supreme Court chamber in the Capitol. The idea was to let 10 representative citizens address committee members on various aspects of constitutional freedom with recommendations as to steps Congress might take to strengthen the basic guarantees of free speech, freedom of religion and freedom of assembly.

But even here the committee ran into trouble. The American Veterans Committee, a small left-of-center veterans' organization, attacked the committee for selecting Donald R. Wilson, past national commander of the American Legion, to speak for the veteran citizen.

In selecting a staff the committee also has come in for criticism. Henning's goal was to choose specialists for their knowledge and background in the field of constitutional freedoms. Chief counsel to the committee is Marshal MacDuffie, a former New Dealer who has also been associated with one of the most conservative of the big New York law firms. McDuffie has since the war made two trips to Soviet Russia, and when Hennings asked him what was the principal difference between the Soviet Union and the United States, MacDuffie promptly replied: "The Bill of Rights and all that it means in guaranteeing freedoms non-existent in Russia."

The chief hearings counsel is Lon Hocker, distinguished St. Louis lawyer and a Republican. The most recent addition to the staff is Miss Eleanor Bontecou, appointed consultant on loyalty and security problems. Formerly assistant director of in civil liberties, Miss Bontecou is one of the outstanding authorities in the field.

Although the hearings do not begin until early October, the subcommittee has already proved one thing, if any proof were needed. That is that the issue of civil or constitutional rights is perhaps the most burning issue in America today. On the one hand are those who fear that American freedoms are being eroded away, with the guarantees contained in the Bill of Rights nullified in the name of security. On the other hand are those who believe that the Communist conspiracy is such a grave threat to the free way of life, with proof provided once again in the official report on Red infiltration and espionage in Australia, that almost any measures are justified to defeat it.

John L. O'Brian's View.

In the Godkin lectures he delivered at Harvard in the spring, John Lord O'Brian, distinguished constitutional lawyer who has served in various capacities in six administrations and Republican candidate for the Senate from New York in 1938, sought to define the disputed area between national security and individual freedom. What he had to say about the urgent need for a far more careful and reasonable exploration of this issue might have been taken as a prescription for the Hennings Committee. The following would in particular seem to set goal:

"The gravest fault in the present system is not the attempt to provide adequate security but rather in the failure to appraise more accurately the extent of the danger and then to test proposed measures of security by the yardstick of long-established guarantees of the freedom of the individual. The answer to the problem is not necessarily the abolition of security programs but a drastic revision by men soundly educated in the history of freedom and in the history of constitutionalism."

In undertaking to examine all the guarantees in the Bill of Rights, the committee has staked out a large order and particularly since only $50,000 is available for payment of staff and the expense of witnesses. But on the part of all concerned there is a desire to examine as objectively as possible the issue that touches the lives of each and every American, present and future.

Soviet Leaders' Advice to U.S. Senators Likely to Backfire

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND
WASHINGTON.

FORTUNATELY the Kremlin has stubbed its toe again. It looked for a while as though we couldn't count on the Soviet leaders to make an occasional well-timed blooper—such as decapitating the independent government of Czechoslovakia just before Congress was to vote the Marshall plan—which in the past had the effect of galvanizing the United States into action.

Under the new tactic of diplomatic mellowness, there was fair reason to expect that Moscow might be successful in avoiding the kind of thing which alerts Americans rather than scares us. It is always harder to deal with an enemy that smiles and conceals its purposes than it is with an enemy that growls and reveals its purposes.

But now, it is encouraging to note, the Kremlin has managed to do just enough of both.

The tip came this week when Prime Minister Bulganin and Communist party secretary Nikita Khrushchev had a chatty conversation with five United States Senators who dropped in to say hello. (There were three Republicans — Dworshak, of Idaho; Young of North Dakota; Malone of Nevada—and two Democrats—Kefauver, of Tennessee and Frear of Delaware.)

Advice to Senators.

These Senators got it straight from the Kremlin that they would be doing the United States a great service if they would vote to abolish the Voice of America!

I doubt if Bulganin or Khrushchev made any converts. If they but realized it, American Senators don't like to be told how to vote by anybody, least of all by foreign governments. And while Senator Malone has long been a budget-cutting critic of the United States information program, I suspect he may now take a new look and begin to wonder why the Soviets are so confident that liquidating the Voice would be just what the doctor ordered.

There is no reason to believe that the Soviet leaders are not completely sincere in suggesting that it would be to America's benefit to fold up the Voice of America. It is basic Soviet Communist doctrine, faithfully and undeviatingly held, that what is best for the Soviet Union is best for the rest of the world.

And this is the point at which the well-planned Kremlin interview stubbed its toe. In all this new sweetness and light the Soviets apparently thought they had already accomplished more than they really had and forgot that there still remains a considerable skepticism whether Russia actually has the best interests of the United States at heart—at least all the time.

Costing Russia Money.

Khrushchev's clear implication in all he said to Kefauver and Malone and the others was that Congress is just wasting the taxpayers' money by financing the Voice of America.

It may just be possible that what he meant was that the Voice of America was costing the Soviet Union too much money. It could well be true; in fact, it is true. It's no secret that it costs the Soviet Union more than the total Voice budget just to jam the Voice trying to silence it behind the Iron Curtain.

There it is: it would save the Soviet Union more than $16,000,000 if Khrushchev could persuade the five visiting Senators—and enough others—to jam the Voice at this end by closing it up.

And they tossed in one other argument. They tried to persuade the Senators that the Voice was "ineffective." "Why," the Communist party boss remarked to Kefauver with an expansive wave of the hand, "go out in the street and ask anybody if he has been been converted by the Voice of America."

But if the Voice of America is giving the Soviets no trouble, why do they employ some 1600 persons to operate 1000 jamming units at a cost of at least $16,000,000 to try to deflect messages from the free world?

At the moment the United States has three million-watt broadcasting units rimming the Soviet world from Munich to Manila to Okinawa, and I would not be surprised to see five Senators come back from Moscow urging that we do still more.

Nixon's Tour Opening G.O.P. Campaign Now

He Will Reply to Democrats on Farm Issue Tomorrow in Indiana.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP)

A SPEAKING tour which will take Vice President Nixon into contested political territory indicated today Republicans are beginning their 1956 election campaign now.

Nixon announced yesterday he will open fire at the national plowing contest in Wabash, Ind., tomorrow on Democratic critics of the Eisenhower Administration's flexible price support farm program.

The Vice President will follow this up with a speech at a G.O.P. $100-a-plate dinner in Indianapolis tomorrow night.

Republican state chairmen agreed at a meeting here last week that declining farm prices offer the greatest political threat to the election of a G.O.P. Congress next year. Some of them are known to have suggested to National Chairman Leonard W. Hall that Nixon was the man to answer sharpened Democratic criticism in this field.

Chief Republican Reply.

Thus far, the chief Republican reply has been that the Eisenhower Administration inherited the great crop surpluses which they said were caused by rigid price supports under the Democrats.

But Secretary of Agriculture Benson has said that President Eisenhower will have something "very specific" to propose to Congress as an addition to the present program. He has hinted this might take the form of federally-subsidized withdrawal of some acreage from crop production.

Nixon's talk tomorrow will be watched for reaction to any trial balloons the Vice President might send up.

His schedule will give Nixon another opportunity to talk about the farm problem at the national corn picking contest in St. Joseph, Mo., on Oct. 15.

Missouri Doubtful.

Missouri, which Mr. Eisenhower carried by slightly less than 30,000 votes in 1952, is classed as a doubtful state next year. Republican chances there have been complicated by a split in the party's state organization.

Reds Serve Notice They Won't Permit Free, Unified Germany

Khrushchev's Blunt Words Came as Shock to Adenauer—Russians Think Time Is on Their Side.

By MARGUERITE HIGGINS
The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Radio.
MOSCOW, Sept. 16.

THE STORY behind Soviet-West German negotiations this week is that they confirmed a drastic hardening of the Soviet position on the unification of Germany. It is now clear that even total neutralization would not be enough to get Soviet assent to a truly free and unified Germany.

All of this, it is authoritatively learned, has been officially reported to Washington after a study of the conference transcript revealed remarkably frank statements made by Russian leaders, particularly Communist party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev, who sometimes speaks with more precision than his diplomatic advisers would like.

It was Khrushchev who served notice that Russia would under no condition abandon its support for the Communist German puppet regime in East Germany.

If Khrushchev meant what he officially said over the conference table—and he is not a devious man—the only kind of reunited Germany to which Russia's present leadership would agree is a Germany definitely oriented toward the East.

Talks With East Germans.

It is as part of this demonstration of confidence that the Russians greeted the official visit of an East German government delegation today.

The arrival of East German Premier Grotewohl comes only three days after the departure of West Germany's delegation and its vital decision to establish diplomatic relations between Bohn and Moscow.

It is expected that among the important decisions that will be concluded with Grotewohl will be Soviet agreement for the establishment of a Communist East German Army—an event that would give additional stature to Communist Germany's claims of being a permanent and sovereign state.

East Germany was specifically exempted from the military provisions of the Warsaw pact—the Iron Curtain's "NATO"—because at the time the pact was signed the Paris agreements had not yet been ratified by Bonn. The Paris agreements provided for the creation of a West German army.

Shock to Adenauer.

During negotiations with West Germany, the hardness of the Soviet position came as a definite shock to the West Germans, including Chancellor Adenauer. They had hoped Russia might be persuaded to exchange German reunification for a guarantee of Soviet security by France, Britain and the United States.

This view, which Washington seems to be supporting, is out of the question, according to observers in Moscow, because it does not take into account the fundamental realities guiding Soviet policy. These are that the present collective leadership—which clearly does not have the power of Stalin's—cannot suddenly withdraw support from a regime it had set up. Such an act would threaten the Soviet position in all its eastern European satellites.

There has been a tendency in the west to draw a parallel between the German situation and that of Austria, when in fact conditions are precisely the opposite.

Austria remained unified during the four-power occupation with the central government having control throughout the country. In Austria it was simply a question of withdrawing occupation troops.

In Germany reunification would not only mean withdrawal of occupation troops but the destruction of the Communist regime and the economic and political systems operating there.

Khrushchev's View.

As Khrushchev told Adenauer, "Why should we be against the (east) German Democratic Republic? Because her people have taken power into their own hands and the national economy of the German Democratic Republic is developing in the interest of the German people? In our opinion, the German Democratic Republic is the future."

The Communist party boss also gave East Germany a permanency comparable to Red China and even to Russia itself.

Khrushchev said that although the West did not recognize East Germany at this time, it would eventually have to get around to this as it had finally

U.N. HEAD HOPES INTERNATIONAL LAW WILL GROW

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16—United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold expressed the hope yesterday that the body of international law will grow "now that we have come to a new turn, when we can reasonably hope that a real relaxation of international tensions will come to pass."

Hammarskjold, speaking at a meeting of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, said international law, along with diplomacy and international organizations such as the U.N., are currently "our means for dealing peacefully with the inevitable conflicts of interests" which arise among nations.

"International law has been the least prominent of these means in recent years; its growth has been disappointingly slow, and it has been viewed too often as a conservative stabilizing element, rather than as a dynamic instrument for peaceful development," Hammarskjold said.

He added that now international law should be considered as "a means of achieving rational and orderly co-operation in the solution of vital international problems."

GEN. WILLIAMS HEADS VIET NAM MILITARY GROUP

DENVER, Sept. 16 (UP)—President Eisenhower last night designated Maj. Gen. Samuel T. Williams to head the United States military aid mission to Indochina.

Williams, now commander of the Fourth Army at Fort Sam Houston, Tex., will succeed Lt. Gen. John W. (Iron Mike) O'Daniel, who will retire in November. The President gave Williams a recess promotion to lieutenant general, subject to Senate action when Congress reconvenes.

O'Daniel has headed the United States military advisory assistance group with headquarters at Saigon, Viet Nam, since April 1954.

Williams commanded the Twenty-fifth Infantry Division in Korea and later became commanding general of the Ninth Corps in Korea.

O'Daniel, advocate of increased United States aid in the Indochina area, is credited with being principally responsible for the efforts to develop the South Viet Namese army into an effective fighting force.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The First Federal Republic

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

We Americans have had a lot of glorious birthdays, well loved and well remembered. But Sept. 17, the birthday of our Constitution, is one too many of us forget.

Yet pioneering has been our heritage. And no one reading the history of our Constitutional Convention can doubt that Washington, Madison, and the others who wrote the towering document, were as truly pioneers as those who opened up the West.

It was they—Founding Fathers indeed as they sought solution for existing anarchy—who realized that our jealous little states could find no adequate security without law on the highest national level also—federal law.

Strange to recall that our Revolutionary patriot, Patrick Henry, in June of 1788 bitterly fought his state's ratification! Oftener, and at greater length than any other delegate, he sprang to his feet, blasting the Constitution with sizzling invective that fairly scorched the old assembly hall of the Commonwealth of Virginia.

But on June 25, despite Patrick Henry's blind spot, ratification carried Virginia into the first Federal Republic of the world.

Today as we World Federalists look back in love and honor to our Founding Fathers, we labor in fresh pioneering spirit to see their mighty principle of federalism — of divided sovereignty—extended to our now anarchic and distracted world.

And for this purpose we urgently press for a review conference of the United Nations Charter. For we are convinced that in democratic World Federation alone can all men find security, freedom and lasting peace.
TRACY D. MYGATT.

Remember Rudolph?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Whatever did become of Rudolph Hess anyhow? Now that all is being revealed all over and everyhere this looks like a swell time for the justly celebrated inquiring reporters to dig in a few bones. "Who? What? Where? Why? How? When?" Or would this embarrass our "allies"?
JOHN M. FISHEL.

Our Chamber of Horrors

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I would like to commend your editorial of Aug. 20, "Missouri's Chamber of Horrors." Specifically, the editorial dealt with O Hall at the Missouri Penitentiary, which is a blot not only on Missouri but on our country as well.

It is hardly possible to believe that in a civilized state such a brutal institution called O Hall could exist.

The amazing thing is that our newspapers have been excluded from seeing at first hand the condition of such a place. We expect the newspapers to be excluded from undesirable places in slave states, but not in a democratic country.

Let me commend your last paragraph especially where you say, "There are other ways to punish prisoners." It might be well for the authorities to study these other ways which are used in other more humane institutions.
THE REV. C. DISMAS CLARK, S.J.

Shrouded in Haze

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Until about two decades ago California had been a beautiful spot on the face of the earth. It was then the mecca of the poet and the artist, the seeker of health and the lover of the outdoors.

Now California is a poisonous hell, shrouded in a sickening haze. Fresh air now means smog, a vile scourge that causes eye irritation, headaches, and respiratory ills.

And the streets and highways of this once wonderful land are covered by a blight, millions of automobiles, destroying the last vestiges of its former beauty.
RAPHAEL SHALITT.

An Offer

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Your recent correspondent signing himself "Les Organize" asks "why there is no call to vote on a merger of these numerous (St. Louis county) communities."

While we do not agree with this writer's animadversions against small community officials, we would point out that our Citizens Committee for City-County Co-ordination offers a way out of the present city-county jig-saw. We are working hard to obtain many signatures to petitions calling for appointment of freeholder who would present a co-ordination plan to the voters of both city and county.

Let the writer of the letter headed "While People Slumber" join our ranks. We will welcome his enthusiasm. Let him send in his name to the undersigned and he will be sent petitions to circulate. He may join our committee in whatever phase of its activities he chooses. Les hear from you, Les Organize.
JAMES E. DARST.

The Good News

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The grandest news
I yet have heard:
Peace is no longer
An ugly word.
SHALOM ALEICHEM.

An Improving Climate

Saturday is Constitution Day—the 168th anniversary of the signing of the nation's basic charter—and we are glad to say that it comes this year in a much more favorable climate than in 1954. A year ago McCarthyism was a front page issue. Not until December would the Senate cast its overwhelming vote of 67 to 20 to "condemn" officially the Wisconsin demagogue who had trampled the Constitution for nearly five years.

In the 12-month interval, Senator McCarthy and his cohorts were thrown out of their chairmanships by the 1954 congressional overturn. The international situation improved and tensions have lessened.

Several important court decisions, including particularly the important ruling written by Chief Justice Warren which cleared the good name of Dr. John P. Peters of the Yale Medical School of an ugly smear, helped freshen the atmosphere. The new Congress wisely provided for a commission to study the entire problem of governmental security and its impact on public employes and others.

But improved though the climate is, it would be a mistake to think that all is well. Guilt by association cases continue to come to light and only as public opinion makes itself felt on the side of fairness is the record straightened out. And just a week before Constitution Day this year, Seaborn P. Collins, commander of the American Legion, forgot so completely his own organization's commendable citizenship program in the schools, that he could make a fantastic charge against the Fund for the Republic.

What Mr. Collins said was that the fund, an independent agency, created by the Ford Foundation and dedicated to the support of the Constitution, the Declaration of Independence and the Bill of Rights, was "trying to propagandize Americans into believing that Communism never has been and is not now a threat to this country."

The chairman of the board of directors of the Fund for the Republic is Paul Hoffman, longtime president of Studebaker Corp., who as director of the Marshall Plan played a key role in saving Western Europe from Communism. To accuse an organization headed by him of Communist sympathies is ridiculous on its face.

The fund's president, Robert M. Hutchins, takes the right tack when he asks for the addresses of the Legion's 17,000 post commanders so he can send them material on what the fund is and what it is doing to protect our historic freedoms. Their national commander clearly does not know!

Soon after this Constitution day, the Hennings-O'Mahoney-Langer subcommittee on "the application of the Bill of Rights under present-day conditions" will begin its promising study. And it has plenty of work to do as it inquires into the erosion of the freedom of religion, speech and press and the protections against unreasonable searches and seizures and such modern devices for snooping into private lives as wiretapping provides.

Every community must have its men and women who care deeply about these matters for if no one cared our rights would quickly disappear. A particularly valuable educational effort along this line in the St. Louis area is that being undertaken by Freedom Forum, an agency of the Freedom Agenda Committee of the Carrie Chapman Catt Memorial Fund, with offices at 392A North Euclid avenue. An impressive list of civic, religious, educational, patriotic, service and other organizations are buckling down to serious study of constitutional liberty, its source, application and preservation. Anyone may join.

Nothing President Eisenhower has said is more important than these wise words of his: "Whenever and for whatever alleged reasons, people attempt to crush ideas, to mask their convictions, to view every neighbor as a possible enemy, to seek some kind of divining rod by which to test for conformity, a free society is in danger."

Constitution Day, this Saturday, is an excellent time for each citizen to pledge still greater recovery in the next year in the rights the Constitution guarantees for us all.

Speeding Up Criminal Justice

Warden Peter Nicholas's efforts at rehabilitating the City Jail have elicited praise from a federal prison inspector, and that is good news. For the most part the Jail houses men who are merely accused of crime, not convicted, and who must be presumed to be innocent.

Perhaps the biggest difficulty at the Jail is that it is overcrowded. This grows in turn from the fact that the Circuit Court for Criminal Causes is clearly unable to handle the case load. When the September term of court began more than 932 cases were pending. Some 424 defendants were in Jail. Many will have to sit behind bars for months while awaiting the speedy trial guaranteed them by the United States Constitution.

At their June meeting the St. Louis circuit judges ordered an unused courtroom on the first floor of the Municipal Courts Building cleared and prepared for use. This would give the judges a fourth trial division. But nothing has been done. Why?

The responsibility for curing this condition rests directly on the shoulders of the judges. Missouri law requires that the criminal docket be given preference over the civil docket. The fact of so many pending criminal cases indicates that the spirit if not the letter of the law is being ignored by men who should know better.

Backpedaling

Britain's Chancellor of the Exchequer, R. A. Butler, says the United States is showing signs of "backpedaling" with its trade-not-aid policy of helping foreign nations. Speaking before an International Monetary Fund conference in Istanbul, Mr. Butler said that pedaling backwards on our imports might lead to "agonizing reappraisals" by nations which export to us.

Mr. Butler was referring to the recent action of Secretary of Defense Wilson in rejecting a British low bid on generating equipment for the Chief Joseph dam on the Columbia river. Secretary Wilson let the contract at higher cost to two Pittsburgh companies. And Mr. Butler was indeed very polite in his reference to the matter. The bitterness with which our allies regard such actions is demonstrated in today's Mirror of Public Opinion article from the Winnipeg Free Press.

Americans should understand that the British objections do not arise solely because one of their firms lost an important contract, or because the excuse for giving the work to an American company was so flimsy, or, certainly, because the American taxpayers are going to have to foot the higher bill of "buying American." The British object because the Chief Joseph case was not the first of its kind, and hence they suspect the Eisenhower Administration does not mean what it says about helping America's allies by allowing them freer trade. Washington cannot boast that the Chief Joseph deal represents free trade, fair competition or particularly good public business.

Expressways in Sight

The bright prospect that construction might begin next year on the Daniel Boone expressway has been opened by the St. Louis county council's vote to authorize immediate acquisition of the right-of-way through Richmond Heights.

As every member of the council well recognized, this action amounted to council approval of the route already chosen by the Missouri Highway Commission. If the voters in November add their approval, by voting expressway bonds, construction contracts on the Brentwood-Hanley road portion may be let in the spring. In the meantime the state would have been acquiring right-of-way east of Hanley road.

So a long deadlock appears to have been broken—for good, we hope—and all who helped to break it deserve the metropolitan community's thanks. That gratitude goes in special measure to members of the citizens' bond issue committee who successfully urged the council to accept the state's route which it had opposed so many times before.

In addition to approving the right-of-way contract for Daniel Boone, the council voted to ask the state and the voters to approve an additional highway, branching south to Maplewood from Highway T.R. 40 at Brentwood blvd. This apparently was intended as a gesture of compromise toward the opponents of the Boone route, who have been urging the so-called southern route as a substitute.

Perhaps the compromise can be defended as an expedient way of breaking the deadlock, but some day the fact will have to be faced that this so-called southern route is a figment of the imagination, dreamed up for purposes of obstruction and not construction. The state has no plans to build a highway along this route. The city has no plans and no funds to participate in any construction along this route. Why should the county be asked to approve bonds for a mythical highway which nobody intends to build?

But the main thing is that the council has approved the Boone route which does have both reality and funds behind it. Now the voters are entitled to their chance to pass on a bond issue which would permit work on the Boone, Ozark and Mark Twain projects to get going.

If that bond issue is presented fairly and squarely, as a separate and distinct item, we have no doubt that the county will speak out for progress just as city voters have done.

New Kluxism in Alabama

The firing and boycotting of Negroes who signed petitions for desegregation of schools at Selma, Ala., is an ugly new form of Ku-Kluxism.

"White citizens' councils" were formed in Alabama last year with the avowed intention of making it "difficult, if not impossible, for any Negro who advocates desegregation to find and hold a job, get credit or renew a mortgage." Now the neo-Kluxers have gone into action and claim to have taken jobs away from 16 of the 29 Negroes who signed the Selma petition.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People now proposes to organize a counter-boycott. In these circumstances it is not the Negroes or the "white councils" alone that are likely to suffer but the entire community of Selma, in a self-crippling of its own economy. The only hopeful phase of all this folly is that from it racists may learn, even though they chose the hard way to do it, that among all the other things segregation retards is a healthy business life for the community.

A Pat for a Puppet

Having entertained West German Chancellor Adenauer in the Kremlin, it was all but inevitable that the Russian regime should undertake similar conversations with its East German puppet, Premier Grotewohl. After all, the German Communist government is one of the major pieces on the Russian side of the European chess board, and it behooves the Russians to advertise it as such rather than to treat it as of no consequence.

Also, it behooves Moscow to show a certain deference to these East Germans, to give them some motive for co-operation and, if possible, to prevent any hostility which might come into their minds. For these Germans may think they are regarded as no more than pawns and that the Kremlin is ready to abandon them whenever that is to its convenience.

To some degree, Moscow probably also has the other European satellite governments in mind. They are threatened by nothing so direct as the German unification issue, but these other second-class Communist rulers must have their eyes on their German counterparts. Withdrawal of support from the German Reds could fill them with the dread of losing Russian support themselves should that fit into a changing Kremlin policy.

Essentially, however, discussion with the East Berlin regime is largely a game. So long as Russia is a dictatorship and so long as it has the power to control the satellite areas, it need show no more respect for their titular rulers than seems expedient. No doubt, it is expedient to spread good will in these areas.

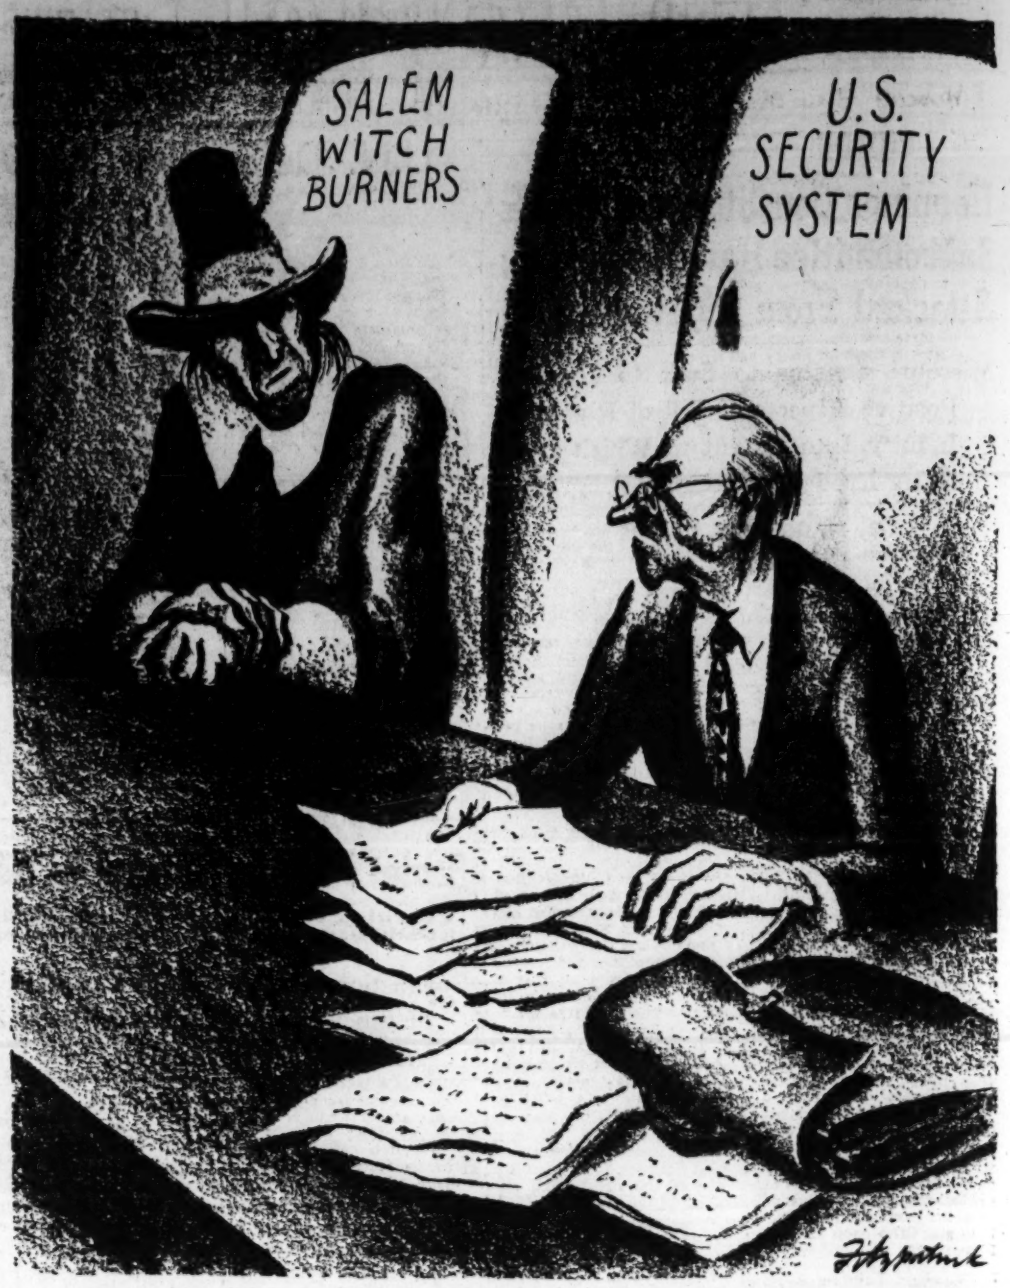

The Bulganin regime has shown a general tendency to move along more relaxed lines than those of the truculent, threatening days of Stalin. But a substantial concern for these captive peoples certainly would involve a move toward self-determination. And of such an intention, the Kremlin has given no sign.

Venus or a Friend?

Echoes of the Roman hub-bub about the Capitoline Venus, traveling at less than jet-speed, now have spread across the Atlantic. So art historians may be going through American museum files from Harvard's Fogg to the De Young in Golden Gate park to prove that the statue-lady is or is not the goddess she so long was said to be.

It all started when an Italian, Prof. Licinio Glori, took an extra look at a jar at the side of the marble nude. Noticing a carved serpent on this vessel, he asserted that the figure did not represent Venus at all, but a worldling also popular in Rome for a while, Caesar's friend Cleopatra.

The question, however, is still wide open even though a learned German presumed to settle it once and for all. "The girl is too cold," he said, "to be Cleopatra." What a slur on Venus! It is well for the German professor that the old deities no longer take such remarks to heart nor change men into beasts as they once did. Actually the thermal test settles nothing. The Roman weather turns nippy now and then; and without a stitch to shield her from it, either girl might have caught a chill.

"THE DIFFERENCE IS, OUR CASES COULDN'T BE REVERSED"

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Winnipeg newspaper accuses Republican Cabinet of using thinnest excuse to deny Chief Joseph dam equipment contract to low British bidder; says for all its brave words on 'trade not aid,' Administration will never let foreigners climb our tariff barrier.

From the Winnipeg Free Press

The United Kingdom has made an official protest against the United States Government's decision to spend some $7,000,000 buying electrical equipment from United States firms, when it could have got the same equipment almost $1,000,000 cheaper by accepting the bid of a British firm.

The protest no doubt is as bitter as the language of diplomacy allows. And it will fall on sympathetic ears in the State Department at Washington, or wherever else Americans care about their country having friends abroad.

But neither external bitterness nor internal sympathy are likely to do any good now. The decision has been made by the United States Cabinet. It is the outcome of a struggle that has been going on since the Republican Administration took office.

What has been at issue is, of course, far more than $7,000,000 of business. The placing of these contracts, for equipment required at the Chief Joseph dam which the United States Army engineers are building, has long been recognized, by both sides, as the symbolic test of Republican trade policy.

President Eisenhower came to office full of good words and vague intentions about trade. For several years before, the rigor of the Buy American Act had largely disappeared from United States policy. No one said much about it, but the Washington departments had in practice moved a long way from the make-work, depression psychology that produced "Buy American," and were buying in the cheapest market.

The Chief Joseph dam was the first big case following the change of administration. In April 1953 the foreign bid (then, as now, almost $1,000,000 less than the nearest American competitor) was turned down. It was not, however, finally rejected at that time. Instead, the United States Government announced that the specifications for the contract had been unsatisfactory, and new bids would be invited.

Cynics interpreted this as a way of telling the American firms the British price that they must get nearer to next time. Optimists, however, hoped that perhaps President Eisenhower was feeling his way and playing for time, against protectionist pressures.

Formally, such hopes were strengthened at the end of last year, when the President announced changes in the administration of the Buy American Act. The most important was that, henceforth, an American firm would be preferred to a foreign supplier, in awarding Government business, only if his price came within 6 per cent of the price (including, of course, tariff and costs after arrival) of the foreign competitor's price.

The margin of discrimination was thus reduced, theoretically, to defined and comparatively moderate proportions. At least, it seemed, the business man trying to sell the United States Government would henceforth know where he stood.

But there was, as usual, an escape clause. The 6 per cent rule could be waived in a period of "substantial" unemployment. As a gesture of appeasement to those whose minds still operate in the 1930s, this was understandable politics. The President was left free to define "substantial." But his definition must come as a shock to his friends as well as to outsiders.

The United States is currently enjoying, and the Administration is taking credit for, outstanding prosperity—already, indeed, verging on inflation. Yet a little local unemployment (not of electrical engineering workers) is put forward as the excuse for preferring an American bid not 6 per cent but 16 per cent above the British. The excuse for such discrimination could not possibly be thinner.

There is no escaping the conclusion that will be drawn abroad. For all its brave words, when it comes to the point the present Administration in the United States will never allow foreign manufacturers to climb the tariff barrier and compete on any scale in the United States; if the tariff is not enough, it will be raised (as with bicycles) or something else will be done to keep them out.

What is good for the friends of General Motors continues to be the medicine that the American public swallows.

On a Slow Train to St. Louis

From the Chicago Sunday Tribune

A letter from a Harvey reader directs our attention to a transportation oddity which is worth pondering by the three railroads offering passenger service between Chicago and St. Louis.

These roads are the Gulf, Mobile & Ohio, the Illinois Central, and the Wabash. The fastest G., M. & O. train makes the trip in 5 hours 10 minutes. The best time of the Illinois Central and Wabash is 5½ hours.

To travel to St. Louis by rail in the least possible time, our Harvey reader points out, you must avoid all these direct routes and make the trip on two railroads — the Illinois Central and the Pennsylvania. An I.C. train leaves Chicago at 5 p.m. and arrives in Effingham, Ill., at 7:51. Get off the train there and refresh yourself at the nearest bar or soda fountain. At 8:10 board a westbound Pennsylvania train which arrives in St. Louis at 10 p.m.

Thus your total elapsed time for the trip will be five hours. Without counting the layover, the journey takes only 4 hours and 41 minutes.

Returning to Chicago, you may leave St. Louis on the Pennsylvania at 6:30 p.m., arrive in Effingham at 8:10, and leave Effingham at 8:27 on a train that arrives in Chicago at 11:40 p.m. Total elapsed time, 5 hours and 10 minutes, including a 17 minute layover.

The distance to St. Louis, by way of Effingham, is 298 miles, slightly longer than the direct routes, which are 283 miles on the G., M. & O., 285 miles on the Wabash, and 294 miles on the I.C. Why can't the railroads with the shorter routes offer at least one pair of trains that makes the trip in considerably less than 5 hours?

The Illinois Central explains that it is handicapped by having to back its trains into downtown Springfield and also by an Interstate Commerce Commission rule fixing a maximum speed of 80 miles an hour on lines with the signaling system used on the route to St. Louis. There is no such limit on the main line, via Effingham.

Another reason for the slower schedule on the direct lines between Chicago and St. Louis is that the railroads feel obliged to stop their trains at small towns for a few passengers. The Illinois Central could better its speed by making only one stop, at Springfield. The G., M. & O. could limit its stops to Springfield and Bloomington. The Wabash has only one important stop, at Decatur. Smaller towns could be served with equipment like rail diesel cars.

Back in 1936, when the I.C. and the G., M. & O. acquired their first streamlined, diesel powered trains, the running time between Chicago and St. Louis was 4 hours 55 minutes. Instead of bettering this speed in the last 19 years, the trains are now slower, and business has been lost to the airlines.

Stocks, Fish and Lost Cities

DANGER MY ALLY, by F. A. Mitchell-Hedges. (Little, Brown and Co., 278 pgs., $3.75.)

If the spirit of Jim Hawkins and Alan Quartermain ever came alive, it was in the person of young Mike Hedges who grew up dreaming of adventure in its many guises. Now advanced to 72 years of age, Hedges has written a remarkably clear and exciting autobiography based on his early career.

Most adventurers are an irresponsible lot, casting about the globe for a chance thrill, an occasional dollar. In their lives and autobiographies, they strut about, displaying their trophies and triumphs prominently and adopting numerous affections of manner or personal appearance. Hedges was such a soldier of fortune in his early life but around 1924 he emerged as an established archeologist and in this role made numerous impressive discoveries.

His life falls neatly into four periods. In the first, as a youngster, he makes a chance association with several New York millionaires, has a fling at stock market speculation and high-ante poker. Eventually he concludes that these magnates are pursuing a worthless vision and that "their skeletons would be no more important than those of beachcombers . . . Clydesdale horses or dog-faced baboons."

F. A. Mitchell Hedges

Disillusioned, Herges heads for Central America. He becomes involved with Pancho Villa, a "tattered Wotan," and later enlists in several armies which may be charitably described as "irregular."

Still discouraged, but with increased assets, Hedges makes a serious effort at deep-sea fishing. As his technique and equipment improve, so do his catches. His final effort lands a monstrous sawfish of 5700 pounds!

The author now enters the most productive period of his life, one in which he uncovers lost Mayan civilizations and a profusion of ancient artifacts and figurines. Several lost cities had to be burnt clear of strangling undergrowth. The book's most exciting accounts deal with the dramatic emergence of vast aboriginal structures from the smoke and flame of these planned conflagrations.

Hedges cannot be charged with enlargement or overenhancement of his experiences, for a series of extraordinary photographs accompanies the text and confirms it graphically. The only part of his account that remains in shadow is that dealing with his service for various patchwork, tropical "generals." He claims to have served them all under duress, a rather unnatural situation.

Driven by an inborn determination "never to be trammeled," enriched with a warm sense of humor, sharpened by a fierce urge to discover, Hedges has fashioned for himself a spectacular life and an autobiography no less gratifying.

From Rags to Empress

KATRINA, by Jeramie Price. (Farrar, Straus and Cudahy, 306 pgs., $3.50.)

Reading about Russia is considered subversive in some quarters, but no one could possibly be subverted by reading "Katrina." It is 100 per cent American, the rags to riches story of a humble Swedish peasant girl who rose from obscurity to become Catherine I of Russia.

The novel opens in the early eighteenth century during the Russian-Swedish Wars. Katrina qualifies admirably as one of the spoils of victory. It ends with the death of Peter and the acclamation of Catherine (nee Katrina) as Empress in 1724. The intrigues of the Russian court are barely sketched in by Mrs. Price, who is much more interested in the personal relationships of Peter and Katrina. The characters are heavily drawn and lack subtlety.

Moscow Visit Mostly Show, Did Little

WASHINGTON.

THERE IS NO NECESSARY connection between what was agreed to in Moscow and the spectacular drama of Dr. Adenauer's visit to the Kremlin. For the project so establishing diplomatic relations betweeen Bonn and Moscow has been in the works at least since the spring, since before the Soviet government sent its public invitation to Dr. Adenauer.

There were private talks, at first through unofficial channels, some months ago. And the basic decision of policy had been reached in Bonn, presumably also in Moscow, by the time West Germany joined NATO. Neither government came to its decision in order to do the other one a favor, and almost certainly there is no ground for the notion that the one had something valuable to sell which the other needed to buy.

Adenauer.

Bonn, having recovered sovereignty, concluded quite rightly that it ought to be represented directly in Moscow and that Moscow should be represented directly in Bonn, while the fate of Germany was being negotiated.

Free of State Department.

Not to have diplomatic relations meant that the Bonn government had to depend on what was reported by the Allied ambassadors in Moscow to London, Paris and Washington, and then relayed to Bonn. This indirect and awkward way of doing the business that has to be done was bound to lead not only to misunderstanding and confusion but also to more and more secret and semi-official contact with the Soviet Union and with East Germany.

We may be sure that Moscow also had its reasons for wishing to establish direct relations with Bonn. By no means the least of these reasons must surely have been that the two embassy staffs will have unofficial talks that are unchaperoned by the Foreign Office and the State Department.

Unification Talk Impossible.

What has now been accomplished in Moscow — at least publicly and officially — is all that was planned for or expected when these negotiations began some months ago. It was probable from the beginning that there would be a concession on the prisoners, and that the real issue would be how much prestige the Kremlin would let Dr. Adenauer get out of the concession, how much prestige it would reserve for its satellite government in East Germany.

At the level of substance, not of politics and of public relations, the reunification of Germany was not an immediate and urgent subject of negotiation. That is because there is no way now of coming to an agreement on the Eastern frontier of Germany.

If Moscow were to say, which of course it will not, that Dr. Adenauer can have the entire East German state, plus rearmament, plus the alliance with NATO, Dr. Adenauer cannot agree to the loss of the territory beyond the Oder-Neisse line.

No Official Accomplishment.

Moscow for its part cannot now give up to Dr. Adenauer that territory or any part of it. To do so would wreck Soviet relations with Poland.

For this reason, a lot of water is going to have to flow under the bridge before German reunification can be taken much beyond the most tentative beginnings.

Diplomatic relations could have been established without the visit, and at the official level the visit did nothing, as was to be expected, about a German settlement. Yet almost certainly both governments thought that the visit was useful and that they had something to gain by it.

Dr. Adenauer was able to do away with the charge made by many of his German opponents that he is disqualified to negotiate with the Soviet Union. The Soviet government has now treated the Federal Republic as a European power.

Too Early for Accord.

Moscow, on the other hand, will now have an embassy in Bonn. It will be able to make contact not only with the Adenauer government but with the more or less dissident members of the government coalition, and with the Social Democratic opposition.

We need have no fear that any secret understanding was reached in Moscow. Dr. Adenauer is a man of his word. The situation is not ripe for negotiations about the big issue.

It is not ripe on the Soviet side, neither is it ripe on the German side. For neither can now settle the territorial issues.

The best they can do now is to deal with issues, like the prisoners, like cultural intercourse and travel, like trade, which are soluble within the existing territorial situation.

CHARGES REUTHER HAS 'SOCIALIST' PLAN

C. of C. Panel Speaker Says Unions Aim to Dominate Government.

Walter P. Reuther, head of the CIO United Automobile Workers, has a "socialistic" objective—to enable labor unions to dominate the Government—George Bradley, director of the social legislation department of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, charged today. He spoke before the annual meeting of the Missouri State Chamber of Commerce at Hotel Jefferson.

Speaking in a panel discussion of the effect of guaranteed annual wage plans on interpretation of unemployment compensation laws, Bradley, whose organization is fighting the CIO in Ohio, declared that Ohio was being made a "guinea pig state" to determine the national pattern of the CIO.

"We know that the objective of Walter Reuther is purely socialistic in nature," Bradley said, "in which unions can dominate the government of our country."

Assails Administration.

Bradley, who is combatting efforts of the CIO to increase unemployed benefits in Ohio subject to an election Nov. 8, asserted that the CIO is aided by "a seemingly sympathetic administration in Washington which is attempting to outdo the Democrats in broadening and increasing benefits under the Social Security law."

Others participating in the discussion were Fred M. Karches, assistant to the president of Rice-Stix, Inc., Wilbur C. Hampton, superintendent of the unemployment compensation section of the industrial relations staff of the Ford Motor Co. and Joseph S. Zeisel, research economist of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Hampton described in detail the supplemental unemployment plan agreed to between the Ford Motor Co. and the CIO United Automobile Workers, which constituted the first contract in a major mass industry which recognized the principle of the guaranteed annual wage. The union later negotiated similar agreements with General Motors, Chrysler and other automotive manufacturing concerns.

Cites Employer Interest.

Effect of the plan on state unemployment compensation legislation, Hampton said, may be determined by interest exhibited by employers in modernization of state unemployment compensation laws.

"Under policy declarations of state unemployment compensation laws," Hampton said, "programs are designed to prevent spread of involuntary unemployment and to lighten its burden, encourage employers to stabilize employment, and to set aside reserves for the benefit of persons unemployed through no fault of their own, thus maintaining purchasing power and limiting the serious social consequences or relief assistance.

"It is believed that the Ford plan has been designed to accomplish these objectives. It may very well serve as a pattern for appraising your own state unemployment compensation law in determining whether it conforms with the public economic security policy of the state."

Karches described the guaranteed annual wage provision in his company's contract with the AFL Teamsters, similar to clauses in contracts with about 43 other firms in this area.

The contracts, negotiated before the plans adopted in the automobile industry, Karches pointed out, provide for a flat guaranteed annual wage with recipients limited to a percentage of the working force in order of seniority.

"It is an obligation," Karches said, "a liability pure and simple, negotiated without consideration of the company's economic position."

In answer to questions from the floor, Karches said that his company, which guarantees wages to 420 employes, signed because the union proposed it "as a must with a capital M" at a time when the company could ill afford a strike.

At a luncheon meeting, United States Representative Thomas B. Curtis of Webster Groves declared there are organized forces actively at work today to destroy the Congress as an independent branch of government.

The Republican Congressman declared that government agencies and outside organizations carry on publicity campaigns in an effort to build up public opinion in support of their aims, and place pressure on Congress to grant their demands without adequate study and consideration.

Curtis said this situation has existed under Democratic and Republican administrations, and is not a partisan political issue. The question, he declared, is whether the people want an independent Congress or a "rubber stamp."

Directors of the Chamber indorsed the proposed 2-cent state cigarette tax last night as "the only method presented of financing the school foundation program."

Roy C. Mayes of Carthage was re-elected president of the state Chamber by the board. J. R. Peterson, general manager of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., was elected first vice president; Morris E. DeWitt of Newburg, second vice president, and Charles B. Gillespie of Jefferson City was re-elected treasurer.

'MISSIONARY-MINDED' CHURCH SESSION ENDS

Episcopal Bishops' Letter to Convention Urges 'Reorientation' of Work in Asia.

HONOLULU, Sept. 16 (AP)—More than 3000 delegates to the fifty-eighth Protestant Episcopal General Convention were leaving Hawaii today after a 12-day session described as "missionary-minded."

The convention adjourned yesterday with the reading of the House of Bishops pastoral letter which urged "a deep-going reorientation" of Episcopal mission activity in Asia.

The bishops said firmly that missionary activity must be aimed at development of strong, independent churches in Asia—"not outposts of our church."

"Only in such a way," said the letter, "can we radically undercut the Asian charge that Christian missions are a part of the imperialist aggression of the West."

The letter added:

"The motive of our missions must be cleansed of all prudential desire to make Asia safe for America, and be rooted in our concern under God for the hungers and needs of the peoples of Asia.

"Plainly a deep-going reorientation in the method and spirit of our mission is called for. Only Asians can carry the main weight in witnessing for Christ to Asians."

The letter, read to the joint session by the Rt. Rev. Angus Dun, bishop of Washington, D.C., asserted "before God and man we can make no case for contempt and assumptions of racial superiority.

"These are the deepest roots of our alienation from Asia. For these there is no answer but repentance."

The convention's House of Deputies refused to go on record opposing two of labor's traditional goals—the union shop and the closed shop.

They voted down a resolution offered by Anson T. McCook, a lay deputy from Hartford, Conn., which would have urged "employers and employes alike to consider the vital importance of preserving the right of every individual to work, without compulsion of any sort whatever."

Among those speaking against it were Michael Budzanoski, a lay deputy from Pittsburgh, who termed it "an affront to labor," and Charles P. Taft, Cincinnati, lay deputy and brother of the late Senator Robert A. Taft, who said deputies lacked sufficient information on the subject.

PRESIDENT SENDS JEWS GREETINGS ON THE NEW YEAR

DENVER, Sept. 16 (AP)—President Eisenhower has extended greetings to all Americans of Jewish faith on the occasion of the Jewish New Year. He called for a renewal of "devotion to the cause of peace."

The President made no specific mention of the trouble between Israel and rival Arab states, but he may have had it in mind in appealing for a "determination to help advance the welfare of your fellow men."

Here is the text of the President's statement, issued last night:

"On the occasion of the Jewish New Year I extend greetings to all Americans of the Jewish faith.

"I hope that your observance will renew in each of you a devotion to the cause of peace and a determination to help advance the welfare of your fellow men in accordance with the ancient spiritual and moral teachings of your religion. To people of every persuasion these teachings are a continuing guide in the search for justice and good will among nations and a better life for men, women, and children everywhere in the world."

LEOPOLD S. AMERY DIES, TORY LEADER

Long Friend of Churchill—One Son Executed as Traitor in 1945.

LONDON, Sept. 16 (AP) — Leopold Stennet Amery, Conservative party elder statesman and former colonial secretary, died today. He was 81 years old. He was colonial secretary from 1924 to 1929. He served as assistant secretary to the war cabinet in 1917 and as first lord of the admiralty from 1922 to 1924. In World War II he was secretary of state for India and Burma from 1940 to 1945.

In the last war Amery suffered a great personal tragedy. His son, John, was taken into custody after broadcasting for Germany against Britain and Russia from a station in Nazi-occupied Europe. John Amery pleaded guilty to high treason and was executed in London in December 1945.

Another son, Capt. Julian Amery, organized the first military mission to the Yugoslav resistance movement, landing from a submarine. He later parachuted into Albania to work with guerrillas against the Nazis. Julian Amery has been a Conservative member of Parliament since 1950.

The elder Amery was born in India. He went to school at Harrow and Oxford. At Harrow he was a friend of Winston Churchill. Once Amery shoved Churchill into the swimming pool—Churchill being a new boy. Both Churchill and Amery were newspaper correspondents in the Boer War.

Years later, Amery was an outspoken critic of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's conduct of the war and when Churchill formed the coalition Cabinet in May 1940 Amery joined it as secretary of state for India and Burma.

Amery stood 5 feet 4 and won the title of "pocket Hercules" from his friends. He loved mountain climbing. Three mountains were named after him.

Outside of politics, Amery was director of 14 companies. He was author of numerous books on international affairs and the empire.

COLLEGE PLANNED BY CHURCH HERE

A pro forma decree of incorporation for a proposed Covenant College, to be operated in the St. Louis area by the Bible Presbyterian Church, was sought in a petition filed in Circuit Court at Clayton yesterday.

The application said plans called for a four-year liberal arts course "with Christian emphasis, leading to various degrees," to be supervised by the national synod of the church.

The petition was signed by Presley Edwards of Glencoe, a member of the St. Louis brokerage firm of A. G. Edwards & Sons; George Storey, an insurance dealer of Washington, Ill., and president of the proposed corporation; the Rev. Max Belz of Walker, Ia., and the Rev. Robert G. Rayburn, who is acting president of a college in Pasadena, Calif., which began operations a year ago under church auspices.

Proposed articles of incorporation of the college, filed with the petition, was signed by these four and also by the Rev. Donald J. MacNair, pastor of First Bible Presbyterian Church of St. Louis, 2143 North Ballas road, Town and Country.

The Rev. Mr. MacNair told the Post-Dispatch he is a member of an eight-man interim group now engaged in seeking a campus in the area. Faculty and students of the Pasadena institution, which has 35 students and two full-time and six part-time faculty members, would be moved here.

It will be at least a year before the college actually will begin operation, the Rev. Mr. MacNair said. St. Louis was selected because of its facilities and a communications and transportation center and its library facilities and because of likely availability of part-time jobs for students.

The Bible Presbyterian Church, with several parishes in the St. Louis area, is a fundamentalist group, which split away from the original Presbyterian Church. The First Church here moved to Town and Country last year from 800 Union boulevard.

2 WHO PICKETED MOTHER'S PLANT QUIT DISPUTE

PONTIAC, Mich., Sept. 16 (AP)—Two sons who joined a union, were fired and then picketed their mother's dry cleaning plant agreed to withdraw from the dispute yesterday.

The dispute involved the plant of Mrs. Opal Berg at nearby Clarkston, Mich. Her sons, Robert and Orville, who had been working as route drivers with four other men, joined the AFL Teamsters' Union and led the other drivers in a demand for pay increases from $100 to $150 weekly.

Mrs. Berg fired all six. Then the sons headed a picket line around the plant. Mrs. Berg obtained an injunction to keep the pickets from interfering with business.

The sons' withdrawal from the dispute came voluntarily at a hearing before circuit judges George B. Hartrick and Frank L. Doty on charges of violating the injunction.

The judges ruled the other four drivers could return to work at their old salary and told them they were free to join a union but would have to seek recognition through methods provided by the state laws.

The sons said they would look for other jobs.

Indians Call on Aging 'Big Three' for One More Spurt

BETWEEN ROUNDS

by W. J. McGoogan

Who'll Be the Referee?

GROSSINGERS, N. Y., Sept. 16

SITTING around press headquarters at Archie Moore's camp, at North Adams, Mass., the other day, the talk turned on who might be the referee for the heavyweight title match between Moore and Rocky Marciano at Yankee Stadium next Tuesday night.

Two of the referees most prominently mentioned were Harry Kessler of St. Louis and Ruby Goldstein of New York.

Most of the writers had no particular favorite among the two, or, for that matter other officials including Al Berl or Mark Conn, but they did think that the New York Commission would do well to name the official long before the fight.

Immediately the cry arose, "They can't do that, think of the gamblers who might reach the referee before fight time."

Well, umpires for the world series are named well in advance. There's no question as to who they will be. There's the same danger of the gamblers reaching them as reaching the referee of a world's heavyweight championship fight.

In other words, if it is thought that a referee is the kind who can be reached, he shouldn't be named in the first place.

Kessler, all conceded, is among the tops but it is unlikely Harry will get the job, He is from St. Louis and Moore, although he is billed for this fight as from Toledo, O., or San Diego, Calif., is still regarded as a St. Louis fighter.

But, strangely, the greatest objection to Harry probably will come from Moore and his camp.

Moore Wants Fast Break.

NOT that they think Harry is not a good referee and not that they have any personal objection to him, but they feel, rightly or wrongly, that Kessler is the kind of a referee that will let two fighters go ahead.

"He doesn't break them fast enough," said one man in the Moore camp, "and we want a referee who will get in between the two fighters in a hurry because Marciano likes to get in close. That's the way he does the greatest amount of damage."

Harry refereed the light heavyweight championship bout between Moore and Joe Maxim at The Arena Dec. 17, 1952, and was criticized severely because he scored the fight only 76 to 74 for Moore, giving Archie a far smaller advantage than the other officials and most of those at ringside.

Kessler explained his decision on the ground that there was a rumor to the effect that he was supposed to be in Moore's pocket before the match. He called in Charley Johnston, manager of Moore, and Jack Kearns, manager of Maxim, and said:

"Here is the situation, gentlemen, I have been accused by rumors of being in Moore's pocket. Now is the time to get yourself another referee."

Both Johnston and Kearns assured Harry that they were more than satisfied with him as the official and neither would think of changing.

However, after the verdicts were announced, there was considerable dissatisfaction in the Moore camp. Such things die slowly in the fight business and there is still some animus toward Kessler among the followers of Moore.

Why Delay Announcement?

NOBODY questions Kessler's ability or his honesty. The commission could name Harry referee of the big bout tomorrow, and be sure he would not yield to temptation in the meantime.

That's true of other referees, of course, and this is not a plug for Kessler to referee the big match. That is up to Julius Helfand, chairman of the New York Commission and his co-workers. They will make a good choice and there is no reason to worry about the integrity of any official chosen.

But it is hard to understand why the commission, by implication, casts a reflection on its own choices of officials by appearing to be afraid to name them in advance.

The bout will, of course, be scored under New York rules under which, rounds count first, supplemented by a point system. In other words the officials count a round for Marciano by 1, 2, 3 or 4 points, or for Moore by the same scale.

If at the end of 15 rounds, neither has a margin of rounds won, the points count. So if the fight goes seven rounds for each, with one even, then the boxer scoring the greater number of points is the winner.

The system was instituted by Eddie Eagen when he was chairman of the New York Commission and was designed to minimize draws. This it has done.

Segrist to Join Orioles.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 16 (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles announced that infielder Cal Segrist of the San Antonio, Tex., farm club, would report here for duty with the Orioles today. The third baseman hit 284 with San Antonio in 144 games, clouting 25 home runs during the season.

Veterans May Be Only Ones To Start

CLEVELAND, Sept. 16 (UP)—The "Big Three" won a pennant for the Cleveland Indians last year, and today the Tribe has turned to that trio of pitchers to win it again.

"It was the pitching that won for us last year and we're going to sink or swim with the pitching this year," Manager Al Lopez said. "We have the big guns in Bob Lemon, Early Wynn and Mike Garcia and you've got to go with them—they're great."

Lopez suggested that he might start only members of the "Big Three" in all eight of the Indians' remaining games—although he allowed that rookie strikeout sensation Herb Score "might be spotted occasionally." Score has a 15-10 record and leads both majors with 235 strikeouts.

Wynn, Lemon and Garcia won a total of 65 games last season when the Indians won the American League championship with a record 111 victories. For the last five years, they've been the unquestioned strength of the Cleveland team.

It's been a bit different this year. Wynn won the 200th game of his career on Sept. 7 but his record is 16-10. Lemon's record is 18-8 but he has become a "seven-inning pitcher." Garcia's record is a mere 11-12 and he may be going through the first losing campaign in 10 years of organized baseball.

Diminishing Returns.

The deteriorating of the "Big Three" is best demonstrated by the number of innings they've pitched. In previous campaigns all three approximated 300 innings. But this year the totals are 213 for Wynn, 196 for Lemon and 206 for Garcia.

Nevertheless, Lopez said he feels the schedule in the closing days of the campaign will prove helpful in rotating the aging stars.

"The off-days between now and the end of the season may hold the key to the outcome of the race," he said. "We've got more days off and that will be in our favor. The Yankees don't have as many and that could hurt them. They don't have the pitching depth that we have and it might spread pretty thin. Especially with those seven games against Boston."

The Indians have only eight games remaining to play between tonight and Sept. 25 while the Yankees have 10, including a four-game series at Boston that winds up the campaign.

The flag chase resumes tonight with the front-running Indians meeting the league's hottest pitcher, Detroit's Billy Hoeft, and the Yankees jousting with the circuit's most dangerous hitter, Boston's Ted Williams.

Lead Could Change.

Rated 3-2 favorites to win the pennant on the basis of their current one-game margin and an easier schedule in the final week of the campaign, the Indians nevertheless could drop out of first place if they lose tonight.

Lopez selected Wynn to face the brilliant Hoeft. A 23-year-old southpaw, Hoeft has a 16-7 record and leads the majors with seven shutouts. He stands 2-2 for the season against Cleveland but both victories were shutouts. In addition, he's won his last four games, hurling two shutouts and whipping the Chicago White Sox and the Red Sox in the other games.

Manager Casey Stengel, who thinks his Yankees can win all 10 of their remaining games, chose 17-game winner Whitey Ford to face Williams & Co. Ford is 1-1 against the Red Sox this year and will be opposed by Frank Sullivan, an 18-game winner who has lost four straight to the Yankees this season.

Policy of Containment.

The Yankees' big worry as they enter the series is controlling the great Williams. It's a job they've accomplished fairly well so far—he's hitting .333 against them but has driven in only three runs and hit just one homer in six games—but Stengel himself admitted, "That fellow can tear us apart all by himself if he gets hot."

NIELSEN USES DANISH HAM IN CARVING EXHIBITION VICTORY OVER ROSEWALL

By Jack Rice

Ken Rosewall sat in a folding chair, loose at the hinges himself and slumped forward with a hand to each temple as if his head was something he had been lucky enough to catch before it fell to the hard clay court. It was a pose to discourage questions, but didn't, of course.

The Australian Davis Cup star was a rare bird, a migrant type not likely to light here soon again, and his feathers were not private. He raised his head, to face facts and questions with a weary courtesy.

A man had asked if he had any vocation other than tennis. "What?" said Rosewall. Another job, a plot for the future, the man said. Rosewall smiled and said nothing. He answered another, "I play tennis in Australia seven months a year, and the other five, overseas."

Rosewall is aged 20 and looked older. This should be a temporary condition, due to a hard season's play at Wimbledon and in the Davis Cup and National championships at Forest Hills. The play at Triple-A yesterday in an exhibition match was sufficient to tire the body, but the Australians, Rosewall and Neale Fraser, Argentine Enrique Morea and Dane Kurt Nielsen, all seemed aware the scores wouldn't matter much beyond the county line, and the spirit was relaxed.

Suntans for Spectators.

Nielsen, Fraser and Morea were among those-also-with-us-today, compared to Rosewall. It was the season's last show of shorts and suntans in any force locally, and the suntans were confined mostly to the spectators. Major league tennis stars, for some reason best explained by the chambers of commerce they have left behind them, look no closer to nature boy than do major league baseball players.

There were, estimated Triple-A Tennis Chairman Frank Thompson, 1000 spectators, in courtfront chairs and in the bleachers on each side and one back court. These last rows of summer paid from $3.50 to $1 in sufficient force to represent a break-even proposition, said Thompson.

The Australians did not break even. Morea, a large man, played like Wee Willie Keeler. He isn't wee, he isn't a Willie, and he isn't a Keeler, but he hit 'em where Fraser wasn't. It took him a set to establish where Fraser wouldn't be and then he won, 4-6, 6-2, 6-1.

Nielsen defeated Rosewall, 6-4, 6-3. This confounded many, remembering current Davis Cup fame over past international records. "I've never beaten him," said Rosewall. "He beat me twice, at Wimbledon."

Dane Uses His Head.

Nielsen made his victory popular. He has double-fault hair, well over the line at the ears and the nape, a mustache that seems to have struck out on its own, and an intriguing amount of Danish ham. He returned several balls with a flip of the foot when he lost a point, a routine he varied in the doubles by making a perfect soccer return with his head on a second-bounce placement.

"He's tired," said Nielsen, when complimented for his big-service game against Rosewall. The Australian smiled. He was autographing tennis balls, for free. At the gate, there was a glut on the market, two dozen tennis balls he had signed at the request of a local entrepreneur, for sale at $2 each.

The tennis balls signed, for free, h eand Fraser beat the Dane and the Argentine, 6-1, then lost, 5-7, in doubles and both parties surrendered to dusk and a westward-ho (Los Angeles) time schedule.

An Australian team reserve, Ashley Cooper, volleyed with Earl Buchholz Jr., local boy hopeful, between the singles and the doubles. Cooper came in from a lengthy run on the roads in Forest Park to do it. The Australian team captain, non-playing and all-seeing Harry Hopman, couldn't make it as advertised, but his spirit was present.

Trabert vs. Rosewall.

The Australians departed the clubhouse quickly. Nielsen lingered on, as his wife waited upstairs. In the shower, he said to a steam-hidden audience, presumably Morea, "Well, I always answer the reporters as well as I can, to a point. I tell them I think Trabert's best over a series extended play, but for one big match—well, Rosewall's proven . . ."

Soap, steam and distance faded the rest of it, and through the window, on the night air, a woman's voice said, "I thought it was innings, like baseball. I'll have to take up tennis—again."

Will Ryff Find The Road Rough Again? See TV

DETROIT, Sept. 16 (UP)—Frankie Ryff, the fourth-ranking lightweight title contender, isn't superstitious about tonight's 10-round bout with Joey Lopes here, although his lone ring loss as a pro came in his only previous fight away from his native New York.

The 23-year-old Ryff ran up a string of 17 consecutive victories before he visited New Orleans earlier this year to meet Ralph Dupas. He dropped a close decision which many termed "home town," since Dupas is a product of the Bayou.

But Frankie figures things will be different in the nationally televised battle with Lopes and the betting public agrees. Ryff has been installed 9-to-5 favorite. (The bout will be carried by KSD-TV at 9 o'clock, St. Louis daylight time).

Lopes won't be an easy target for Ryff, for the 25-year-old native of Portugal's Cape Verde Islands is ranked eighth among the 135-pound contenders and has beaten such top fighters as Sandy Saddler and Percy Bassett.

Ryff is bubbling over with confidence and boasts he can beat any lightweight in the world, including Champion Wallace (Bud) Smith.

Frankie's biggest problem is that he cuts easily, but so far Trainer Dan Florio has been able to patch the wounds between rounds to keep Ryff in action. Ryff was cut so badly in a victory over Orlando Zulueta that he needed 22 stitches after the bout.

Lopes, who lives with his parents on a farm near Sacramento, Calif., has had considerable more ring experience than Ryff, winner of the Boxing Writers Association's "Rookie of the Year" award in 1954.

Joey started fighting for pay in 1949 but his career was interrupted for two years by a hitch in the Army, during which he served as a boxing instructor.

Spike Briggs Fails in Bid To Buy Tigers

DETROIT, Sept. 16 (UP)—President Walter O. (Spike) Briggs of the Detroit Tigers failed yesterday in an attempt to purchase the American League club for a syndicate he headed because his sisters said "there are too many complex questions to be resolved."

Briggs, fearful that he will be forced out of the Tiger organization later this year under the provisions of the will of his father, the late Walter O. Briggs Sr., joined with four others in an attempt to buy the club.

The syndicate included former Detroit Second Baseman Charley Gehringer; Harry Sisson, head of the Briggs Commercial and Development Co.; Don R. Mitchell, of the Mitchell-Bentley Corp.; and Oscar L. Olson, head of the Swedish Crucible Steel Co.

Briggs met with his four sisters—Mrs. W. Dean Robinson, Mrs. Everell E. Fisher, Mrs. Charles T. Fisher Jr., and Mrs. Phillip A. Hart—and presented an offer estimated at $3,000,000.

It was believed that Briggs would have to bow out of the Tigers' organization if the ball club reverts to a trust fund as is planned late next month. He is a trustee and as such would likely be unable to remain in the organization when the club is sold.

Most of the Briggs property, including the Tigers, was willed to Spike and his sisters. Establishment of a trust fund was ordered and the ball club will be sold since the courts probably will not rule it is a sound investment.

Way Down in the Well, Cards' Pitchers Sound Full of Promise After Resisting Dodgers' Tugs

By Bob Broeg

The Brooklyn Dodgers, it must be remembered, were newly-crowned National League champions who, more than one source has said, hadn't quit burning the midnight oil or drinking it by way of celebration when they came to town. But even with tongue in cheek, there was encouraging Cardinal pitching in, of all things, a three-game sweep over the pennant-winners.

With or without hang-overs—and it's likely the extent of their toasting was exaggerated—the Dodgers are a fearsome club at bat. To hold them to 17 hits, four runs and not a single homer in three contests was an accomplishment.

Furthermore, impressing Manager Harry Walker, the Redbird pitching in the small slam over the babbling Brooks, though too little and too late, was more noteworthy because it came from righthanders who've been taking steps in the right direction — Willard Schmidt, Tom Poholsky, Larry Jackson and newest newcomer Ben Flowers.

Flowers, the towering 28-year-old North Carolinan for whom the Cardinals recently gave Detroit-owned Buffalo cash and Bobby Tiefenauer, teamed with Jackson, a bright bullpen prospect, in yesterday's 3-2 victory in 12 innings. The triumph was the Redbirds' sixth in their last seven starts while the Dodgers left for home with five straight setbacks, their longest losing streak of the season.

The Shy Ones.

Before he went out in the eighth, showing excellent knowledge of how to set up a hitter for a disconcerting side-armed curve with two strikes, Flowers fanned nine batters, yielded seven hits and two runs. And for posterity there were some undignified demonstrations of cowardly posteriors backing away from the plate as the rangy righthander, after jumping out in front with a humming fast ball or dancing knuckler, came by way of third base with that Sunday curve for strike three.

"Yeah," Flowers acknowledged afterward as the Cardinals hurried for a train to Milwaukee, "those righthanded hitters don't like that sidearmed hook up here any more than in the minors," adding apologetically:

"My knuckler was better than against Pittsburgh, but I still haven't shown my good one."

When Flowers finally faltered, Jackson took over, pitched out of a jam with the bases loaded and score tied in the eighth inning, then hurled a total of five one-hit frames to score his second victory in relief in four days after failing to win one as a starter in nearly two months.

While Jackson and Flowers were holding the Dodgers to eight hits, the Cardinals collected 13 and had the benefit of eight bases on balls, too, but, as Stan Musial emphasized again, there's depth to the Brooklyn pitching staff and a medley relay of six hurlers checked the Cardinals time and again in the clutches.

Musial Hits No. 31.

Until the third overtime inning, in fact, the Redbirds had scored only off talented 19-year-old bonus southpaw Sandy Koufax in the third. Musial, who had doubled his first time up, walloped his thirty-first homer to the pavilion roof, extending to 11 seasons his own National League record for the most number of years with 300 or more total bases.

Immediately thereafter Rip Repulski drilled his twenty-second drive into the left-center bleachers, enabling the National League to tie its all-time major league single-season record of 1187 homers, the total the senior circuit set two years ago.

Musial set up the winning run in the twelfth when rookie lefthander Chuck Templeton walked him, bringing in righthander Ed Roebuck. Repulski, after faking a bunt, singled to left and Joe Frazier sacrificed the runners into scoring position. Musial was out at the plate on Nelson Burbrink's grounder, but Wally Moon was passed intentionally to fill the bases for Alex Grammas, whose sharp grounder bad-hopped over little Don Zimmer's head at third for a game-winning single.

Redbird Notes.

Brooks Lawrence, just recalled from Oakland, where he won five straight in the Pacific Coast League, will pitch tonight's first of the final three road games of the season at Milwaukee.

By winning six of 11 from the Dodgers here, the Cardinals took eight of 22 on the season's series.

Duke Snider returned to duty, driving in one run with a single, but Manager Walter Alston gave Roy Campanella, Jackie Robinson and Junior Gilliam a day off.

Bill Virdon pulled a leg muscle beating out an infield hit in the third inning and was forced to retire.

The Cardinals announced there would be a ladies and children's night against Milwaukee next Friday night (Sept. 23) at Busch Stadium when autographed pictures will be distributed by Cardinal players in their third-base dugout beginning at 7 o'clock.

Yesterday's ladies day crowd of 10,012 included only 5684 cash customers, the fewest to see a Cardinal-Brooklyn game in years.

Short Waves

General Manager JOE CRONIN left it up to TED WILLIAMS whether the 37-year-old slugger would remain with the Red Sox for "several more years." . . . Ted himself is mum about his plans but Cronin said the club "wants and expects" the 17-season veteran to return for 1956.

At Baltimore, BILLY HUNTER said a broken leg can't compare with the pain of sitting out a red-hot pennant race. . . . Last time he visited with some of his teammates, he got no sympathy, only the treatment: "What some guys won't do to get a vacation!"

Quarterback TOM DUBLINSKI has rejected a $25,000 offer to quit the Toronto Argonauts and return to the Detroit Lions, according to a United Press report out of Toronto. . . . The Southwest Conference Faculty Athletic Committee will meet in Dallas Sept. 25 to discuss recruiting practices in general and to receive reports of inquiries made by the conference office into recruiting by member schools.

The U.S.G.A. announced that the National Amateur golf tournament in 1957 would be played Sept. 9-14 at Brookline, Mass., and Walker Cup matches that year would go to the Minkahda Club at Minneapolis, Aug. 30-31. . . . Norbeck, Mo., was listed as the site for the 1957 Junior Amateur, the dates to be fixed later.

His latest triumph came with Surgente at $13.80 for $2. . . . Federal Judge HARRY E. WATKINS has approved a 34-day fall race meeting at Wheeling Downs, scheduled for Oct. 12 through Nov. 19.

69 Total for Ed Furgol in Eastern Meet

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 16 (AP)—Doug Higgins, a virtually unknown pro from Midland, Tex., held a two-stroke lead over the field and a new course record today as the second round of the $20,000 Daily News Open golf tournament began.

The 28-year-old Texan shot a 30-34—64 over the newly revised 6243-yard Cobbs Creek public links course yesterday to head Californians Jerry Barber of Los Angeles, and Bud Holscher who shot identical 31-35—66s over the par 68 layout.

Ed Furgol, former National Open champion from St. Louis, had 32-37—69.

The Philadelphia course proved easy for the touring pros as one other player, Leo Biagetti, Willoughby, O., carded a 67 and nine others matched par.

The field plays 18 holes more today and tomorrow and winds up the 72-hole competition Sunday with another round.

A's Sign 17-Year-Old, Release Pitcher Trice

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 16 (INS)—The Kansas City Athletics signed a 17-year-old Kansas City shortstop yesterday.

Alex George, who was graduated from Rockhurst High School in June, batted .320 in the Ban Johnson League.

The A's also announced release to Columbus of righthand pitcher Bob Trice and that Infielder Joe DeMaestri has been sent home to San Anselmo, Calif., so as not to aggravate an arm injury.

Harvie Is 1 Up After 18 Holes

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 16 (UP)—Harvie Ward, the San Francisco automobile salesman, led Billy Booe of Bridgeport, Conn., 1 up, and Billy Hyndman, Philadelphia insurance broker, was 4 up over young Hillman Robbins of Memphis, Tenn., at the halfway mark of their 36-hole semifinal matches in the United States Amateur Golf tournament today.

Ward, with a one-over-par 71, had a 36, one over regulation figures on the first nine as he gained his 1 up edge over the former Yale football star, and came home with an even par 35, as did Booe. Booe had a 37-35—72.

Hyndman shot a one-under-par 34 on the back nine of the morning round as he picked up three holes on that nine to go with the one he had gained on the front nine when he shot a 38. That gave him a two-over-par 72 against 39-38—77 for the 23-year-old student from Memphis State Teachers College.

Ward started out strongly as his nervous, bespectacled opponent bogeyed the first two holes. Booe, a place-kicking specialist during his college days at yale, steadied after that but was able to win only one of those holes back as they reached the halfway break.

Robbins, who shot a brilliant three-under-par 67 yesterday when he eliminated Ed Hopkins of Abilene, Tex., 1 up in the quarterfinals, lost his touch during the morning 18 and carded eight bogeys. He was having trouble with both his tee and approach shots as Hyndman played a steady game.

Almost the entire gallery of close to 4000 on this hot, sunny day followed the Ward-Booe match.

Ward, Booe, Robbins and Hyndman were the only survivors of the field of 200 which teed off in this six-day gruelling grind of match play on Monday.

Booe gained the semifinals despite a 12-over-par 82 yesterday. He defeated Charley Kunkle, a 40-year-old waterworks company official from Johnstown, Pa., 1 up. Ward was an easy 6-and-4 victor over 19-year-old Jimmy McCoy, Lake Worth, Fla., and Hyndman knocked out 19-year-old Joe Campbell, Purdue University student from Anderson, Ind., 2 up.

Indians 3-2 Favorites To Win Pennant but Not the World Series

NEW YORK, Sept. 16 (UP)—Broadway bookmakers tabbed the American League pennant race as strictly a two-team affair today and made the Cleveland Indians 3-to-2 favorites to beat out the New York Yankees.

No further bets were being taken on the Chicago White Sox or the Boston Red Sox, whose mathematical hopes are exceedingly slim.

Bookies pegged the Indians-Yankees odds at "7-8". Thus, a bettor supporting Cleveland would have to give the bookmaker 8 to 5 odds, while a Yankees backer could get only 7 to 5. (The 3 to 2 odds for a friendly man-to-man bet are arrived at by splitting the bookies' 7-8 quotation, which makes the price 7½ to 5, or 3 to 2.)

Even though the Indians are favored to win the pennant, the Yankees are given a better chance against the Brooklyn Dodgers, should they meet in the World Series.

Bookies quoted the odds on a Yankee-Dodger series as "pick-'em," while Brooklyn was established a 7-to-5 favorite against the Indians.

Adios Harry Winner In $27,900 Pace Race

YONKERS, N.Y., Sept. 16 (UP)—Adios Harry, the 7-5 favorite, won a neck victory in the $27,900 Good Time pace at Yonkers Raceway last night.

The four-year-old, driven by Luther Lyons, covered the 1½ miles in 3:09.1 on a good track. He returned $4.80, $3.10 and $2.60.

In second place was Diamond Hal, handled by Joe O'Brien and 1¼ lengths farther back came Torrid with John Simpson at the reins.

Redbird Farmhands Routed but Rochester Wins Playoff Game

Cardinal farmhands hoping to make the pitching varsity at St. Petersburg next spring showed little yesterday in the minor league play-offs.

It took 10 runs over the last three innings to give Rochester a 14-10 victory over Toronto in the opener of their best-of-seven final series in the International League. Before Cot Deal came on to scatter three runs over the last four innings, Mel Heim, Jack Faszholz and Floyd Wooldridge had toiled for the Wings. Deal gained the victory, his third in the playoffs, putting him one short of Ewell Blackwell's record set with Syracuse in 1942.

Jack Crimian, another ex-Cardinal, didn't last long as the first of five Toronto hurlers, but Ray Shore, only pitcher among the nine in the game who didn't allow a hit, was the loser. He walked three successive batters in the eighth, then wild-pitched.

Pete Castiglione doubled and tripled but Toronto Manager Luke Sewell, lifted him when he was due to bat a third time—because Rochester brought in a right-handed pitcher.

Omaha's Rose Grimley was kayoed in the second inning as Minneapolis won, 8-5, to start the American Association finals. Reliever Memo Luna was no improvement. Frank Carswell hit a grandslam homer for the losing Cardinal farm club.

The Cards' Allentown took the Eastern League playoff crown by beating Schnectady, 11-7, finishing with three victories to two, but four of the 10 pitchers in the game belonged to the winners.

At Los Angeles ex-Redbird Steve Bilko defied the pre-game award jinx by doubling twice and driving in two runs to help keep the Angels alive in the best-of-five series for the city title and third place in the Pacific Coast League. Hollywood, winner of the first two games, was the 7-1 loser to Don Elston, a five-hit pitcher.

Houston, another Cardinal farm, opens a best-of-seven final series for the Texas League playoff honors tonight at Shreveport. Bill Greason, former Redbird, will start for Houston.

'Players Illinois Counted On for Season Have Not Developed'--Eliot

By Robert Morrison
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Sept. 16—Illinois, with less than a week to go before it takes off for its football opener at California, is pretty well set now on its "three-deep" list of personnel, Coach Ray Eliot says.

The notable thing about this relatively final pre-season development is that some of the sophomores expected to make one of the first two elevens have not shaped up as well as had been hoped.

"Yes we have been a little disappointed about a few of the sophomores," Eliot said yesterday after the athletes finished their workout on a humid morning.

"Some just haven't matured as fast, haven't learned as much as might have been expected, and there were injuries that have put out others, out for an important part or all of the season."

Inexperienced Players.

Thus the complexion has changed since spring and the early days of fall drills. Juniors and seniors, some not overly endowed with game experience themselves, have moved upward in the list of No. 1, 2 and 3 teams.

Whether this is good or bad in a squad that already had suffered key loses from the poor-record 1954 outfit remains to be determined. The record was 1-8 last year.

Eliot calmly reviewed the personnel situation of the Illini and surprisingly gave the impression of a coach who has something worth while to work with, even though the know-how of the squad was on the meager side.

"This will give you an idea of how we size up," he said.

"We have at left end a sophomore, a left tackle who is a sophomore, a left guard who came to us as an end, was later tried at tackle and now is a guard.

No One Else to Use.

Eliot interrupted himself with a laugh. "I know people's first instinct is to ask, 'well, for cripe's sake, is there somebody else around that you can use? My answer is, 'no, for cripe's sake, there isn't.'"

"We have a right guard who lettered at tackle last year. The right tackle is the veteran Rudy Siegert, who was injured a lot. The right end of the moment was on the second team last year.

"Then in the backfield we have Hiles Stout and Em Lindbeck at quarterback, Harry Jefferson and Mickey Bates at the halfbacks, and any fullback you want to mention has got to be a sophomore."

That's the current size of things, Eliot indicated, and furthermore that picture won't change much if some of the present second stringers do move up.

There was more to Illinois losses from last year than just the widely-publicized departure of J. C. Caroline. Joe Gorman of Chicago, the outstanding player of spring drills, top man then in the now very green fullback position, became scholastically ineligible. And, of course graduation took the good men in the middle of the line, including the exceptional guard, Jan Smid.

"Yes, and on top of that, Don Kraft, who with Gorman made up our best linebackers, went out with an appendectomy a short time ago and will not be able to help us for quite a while," Eliot added.

Another Important Loss.

Kraft wasn't the only important loss this fall. Bill Billings—a center of size and linebacking potential, is out for the season with a knee injury.

Eliot has described the team's passing as only satisfactory and on the basis of last year's performances by Stout and Lindbeck that seems a fair summation. The coach doesn't say as much for the punting.

"The punting will be ordinary," he said. Abe Woodson, and soph fullbacks Ray Nitsche and Dan Wile will be doing it.

With Mickey Bates moved back to right half from fullback, where he wasn't so effective last year, Woodson currently is running at third-string right half. Abe missed spring drills because he was out for track and he has to catch up.

If the need for more speed at halfback appears, however, Woodson and soph prospect Bob Mitchell, a sprinter from Hot Springs, Ark., could take over from Bates and Jefferson.

To some the Illini look well-to-do in halfback material, but to Eliot it looks like this: "One deep at one position (discounting Mitchell's potential) and two deep in the other, Bates and Rolla McMullen or Woodson."

New Players, Same Result --- Beaumont Wins

By John J. Archibald

The names were new, but the results were familiar. The 1955 Beaumont High football team had its first test under game conditions last night and there was nothing to indicate that the Bluejackets are slipping.

DeAndreis supplied the opposition in the season opener at Public Schools Stadium, but the dozens of coaches who were scouting Beaumont will have to wait another game or two to be ver, sure of what the Jackets have. With three of its teams seeing considerable action, Beaumont ran up a 32-6 score.

Only one of the starters from last year's Public High League champions was still available. That was Halfback Leo DeVere, and he showed he remembered how it was done as he swept 25 yards through the DeAndreis line for a first-quarter touchdown. DeVere picked up considerable other yardage when he was in the lineup.

The other names are not so well known right now, but they probably will be soon. Bob Brand at quarterback looked as good as anybody the Bluejackets have had recently. Among his many gains was a 22-yard touchdown run in the third quarter.

Jerry Nauert, a fullback who grew from 175 to 195 since last season, was fast and powerful. In the fourth quarter Nauert took a pass from Jim Hennessey in a spread formation play and went 60 yards to a score.

Cliff Jordan, an 880 relay man in the spring, scored touchdowns from the 13-yard line in the second quarter and on a plunge in the fourth, and made a fine 40-yard runback of a DeAndrcis kick as well.

There were others, of course, and digging the paths for the ball carriers was another big Beaumont line.

DeAndreis, which battled well enough to manage five first downs—just one less than Beaumont—needed a Bluejacket fumble to set up its only score. After the Wildcats recovered on the Beaumont 12, they went over in five plays. Dick Zurmuehlen went the final two yards.

Marciano Says He's Ready For Moore, Feels Stronger Than Before Cockell Bout

By W. J. McGoogan
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

GROSSINGERS, N.Y., Sept. 16—Rocky Marciano, heavyweight champion of the world, lolled on a bed in the cottage near the hangar in which he does his daily dozen in preparation for his sixth title defense—against Archie Moore—at Yankee Stadium next Tuesday night.

Rocky was in a good humor. There appeared none of the edginess which had been attributed to him of late. He laughed with a large group of reporters on hand to question him.

Marciano, in a pair of slacks and a light sport shirt, was perfectly relaxed and answered his interviewers without hesitation.

Naturally, he said he was ready to meet Moore and that he thought Archie presented, probably, a greater threat to his championship than the other men he has fought since he won the crown from Jersey Joe Walcott in 13 bitter rounds in Philadelphia.

Eager to Get It Over.

Asked if the needling which Archie has been giving him had made him sore, he replied:

"Sore? Oh, no. But it does make you a little more anxious to get going."

"Then you wish the fight were tonight, instead of Tuesday?" he was asked.

"Oh, no, I can wait until next Tuesday night."

Questioned as to his plan of campaign against Moore, he replied that would have to wait until they get into the ring.

"Would you rather box a man retreating from you or coming into you?" he was asked.

"Well, I had good luck with those who came to me," he said, "notably Rex Layne and Don Cockell (both of whom he stopped). But I have fought both kinds so I won't be amazed at anything."

Marciano said he was surprised at the ease with which Nino Valdes stopped Cockell (in three rounds, whereas it took Rocky nine rounds to achieve the same result).

"I thought Don was a better fighter than that," he said.

Then someone remarked that after Rocky gets through with them they are never as good as they were before. He merely laughed.

There was some talk that Rocky had worked too hard for the Cockell fight in San Francisco last May, particularly after a seven-month layoff. With that he agreed.

"I boxed about 200 rounds for that one, and maybe I went a little too far," he said. "For this one I have boxed only a little more than 100 rounds and will box only a few more until I finish on Sunday. I feel fresh and stronger than I did in San Francisco.

Punching Strong and Sharp.

When Rocky went into the ring he boxed two rounds each with Sgt. J. B. Reed and a veteran sparring partner, Keene Simmons.

Against Reed particularly he went strong for a body attack. Reed had been schooled to use Moore's covering tactics—in a crouch and with his arms over his head.

Rocky whipped into him, punching right through his arms and lashing lefts and rights to Reed's head and body. His punching was strong and sharp. Reed also hit the champion about the head, jabbing him repeatedly with lefts.

Simmons, a rugged heavyweight, gave Marciano a stiff workout for two rounds. He waded into Rocky and punched at his head constantly but the champion returned his blows with interest.

Marciano said he weighed about 188 pounds and that was a little lighter than he was in May.

Most of the onlookers present were impressed by his workout although there were some who thought that Rocky looked ragged in his punching and pointed out that he missed a lot of punches.

He always does that, in a workout or in a fight. Nobody has yet accused him of being a polished workman in the ring. His chief asset is his strength and his punch.

He has to take a great many more punches than a real boxer has to take but he has done that with little bad effect to himself. He misses, often, also, but lands enough to do the trick—48 straight victories, 42 of them by knockouts. That's a record which speaks for itself and can't be denied no matter how often the question is asked: "Who'd he ever beat?"

Mizzou Will Rely On Sophs

COLUMBIA, Mo., Sept. 16—Missouri and Maryland, which closed their season last Thanksgiving in a game everybody would like to forget, open new and more hopeful football seasons tomorrow afternoon at Memorial Stadium. Kickoff is 2:30 (St. Louis daylight time).

The Tigers dream of avenging the 74-13 Thanksgiving loss, a game that was equally embarrassing to Terp Coach Jim Tatum, long-time friend of Missouri's Don Faurot. While Maryland, national collegiate champions two years ago, has what Tatum describes as his "best team ever" for the 1955 season, no one expects a repetition of the 1954 rout, although the Terps should win handily by one or two touchdowns.

Faurot can regard 1955 as a building season, and he will start two sophomores in an otherwise all-veteran lineup. But when he goes to the No. 2 team, only two lettermen will break into a lineup that otherwise is filled with players who are sophomores in competition, if not in class work.

Maryland has been hard-hit by injuries, which could change the picture considerably. Tatum will have three first-year men in his lineup, including Gene Alderton and Fred Hamilton at important line-backing positions.

The Terps considered themselves two-deep in veterans except at center and at fullback, and those are the positions weakened by injuries to Bob Pelligrini and Tom Selep.

Faurot's personnel picture is brighter and he'll have available at least for limited duty, every player he counted on except one — John Powell, left halfback with a dislocated shoulder. Even Terry Roberts, All-Conference line backer for two seasons in a row, is ready for duty after a week's injury layoff—and after a knee injury kept him out of competition all last season. Roberts will make a debut at a new position, end instead of guard.

The Tigers haven't won a home opener since playing St. Louis University here in 1947 and have never defeated the Maryland team in five tries, although three decisions were close.

Bilko Named Most Valuable In Coast Loop

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 16 (AP)—Big Steve Bilko, who socked 37 homers for Los Angeles this year, has been named the most valuable player in the Pacific Coast League by the Baseball Writers' Association.

Bilko was presented with a $2500 check from a soft drink manufacturer after being selected yesterday. He was also presented with the Tony Lazzeri memorial trophy donated by an air line, for capturing the home run championship. His .328 average was second high in the league.

Happy Hollow Gains Title in Muny Softball

Happy Hollow finally made it in Muny softball. The perennial contenders gained the open division title by upsetting Thurmers, 4-3, with two runs in the seventh (last) inning last night at Fox Park.

Summers also came through in the seventh with four runs to defeat DeAndreis, 5-1, and qualify to meet the undefeated Numi's for the closed division title Monday at 6 p.m. at Fox Park.

The Y.M.C.A. Industrial men's playoffs move onto the Fox diamond tonight. Mallinckrodt plays Bank Building at 7:30 with the winner meeting Nooter at 9. Nooter can nail down the title by winning, but a loss would make necessary another game, Monday at 8 p.m. Admission tonight is 30 cents.

Four Horses Arrive for $12,000 St. Louis Derby

Heckman Will Pilot Styrunner in Event

By Herman Wecke

Four of the three-year-olds that will start in tomorrow night's $12,000 added St. Louis Derby at Cahokia Downs, have arrived at the track and engaged in light workouts this morning.

One of the standouts is Mrs. A. M. Creech's Styrunner. The others on hand are Courtney Burton's Djeddah's Star, Prince Eric fr the Emil Denemark stable a Drogheda, owned by J. I. Donnelly and A. W. Oktavec.

John Heckman, who has been riding in Chicago, will handle Styrunner in the one mile and one sixteenth race. Among 116 winners for Heckman last season were six major stake events. He's the second out-of-town rider who will be here, since Job Dean Jessop will ride Prince Eric.

Another certain starter in the race is H. H. Rendleman's Tiger Bee, which ran second in its only start at the track since coming here from Ellis Park (formerly Dade Park).

Another eligible for the race, Colonel Velvet, owned by H. W. Kelleher, won the Cadets Handicap over the six-furlong route at Hazel Park earlier in the week. Colonel Velvet, an outsider in the betting, paid $31.20 for $2 and beat Seven Sevens by a length and a half.

Post time for the first race on Derby Night will be 8 o'clock with gates opening at 5:30 o'clock.

It was a hefty cash and carry affair after Gertie's Last and Cash and Carry won the first two races last night for a daily double payoff of $529.60 for $2. Gertie's Last came strong in the stretch run to beat Blue Errard by a nose and pay $105.60, $32.20 and $12.40 across the board. C. H. James rode the winner. With Wayne Chambers up, Cash and Carry scored by a half length over Top View to take the second race. The winner paid $34.

The 4418 who attended sent $209,772 through the mutuel windows.

A one-mile race, in which Toro's Reward, a newcomer to St. Louis district fans, will carry 118 pounds, will be the feature tonight. The other entrants are Miss Joliet, Nonie B, Miss Pensive, Alhampered, Busy John and Hoop Gano.

Pepper Martin Will Be Cubs' Coach in '56

CHICAGO, Sept. 16 (UP) — Pepper Martin, famed for his daring base-running with the Gas House Gang, will join the Chicago Cubs as a coach next season, a club official said today.

Personnel Director Wid Matthews said Martin has not yet been signed but will be as soon as he completes his present job as manager of the Cubs' farm club at Des Moines.

Martin will succeed Ray Hayworth on Manager Stan Hack's staff. Hayworth will return to scouting, Matthews said.

"I'm certain that Pepper will be happy to return to the major leagues," Matthews said. "And he'll make us a good coach." Martin, nicknamed "Wild Horse of the Osage," led the St. Louis Cardinals to a world series victory in 1931. He has been managing in the minors for some years.

Drury, Horwitz Seek Third Straight State Prep Doubles Crown

Neil Drury and Dick Horwitz of Country Day School will seek an unprecedented third straight doubles title in the Missouri state high school tennis tournament at Columbia this weekend. They set a record when they won the tanding title a second straight time last fall.

Both players could be among the favorites to win singles honors, too, but rules forbid playing both singles and doubles and Drury and Horwitz chose to stay in the team competition. Al Holtmann, no longer in high school, won singles honors last year.

Americans Pay $600,000 for French Sire

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 16 AP—Two American breeders paid a record-breaking price of more than $600,000 for the French-bred thoroughbred stallion My Babu.

Leslie Combs II and John W. Hanes bought the 10-year-old stakes winner and proven sire, now standing in Ireland, from the Maharani of Baroda for the highest recorded price for a stallion to be imported.

My Babu, by Djebel, will finish his contract season in the stud in Ireland in 1956 and will be shipped here for his first season in 1957.

My Babu as a 2-year-old won the Norfolk Stakes, Woodcote Stakes, New Stakes, Nell Gwyn Stakes and the Champagne Stakes. The next year, he won the Craven Stakes, 2000 Guineas, Sussex Stakes and finished fourth in the English Derby.

As a 4-year-old he won the Tottenham Welter Plate, Victoria Cup and Craven Plate.

He was retired to the stud as a 5-year-old. His first crop of foals, now 4-year-olds, has compiled an outstanding record in England. Among his get are Our Babu, Eubulides, Our Betters and Barbanio.

BLUE CHIP LEADERS RISE LATE, LIFT LIST

General Motors Reaches 140—Buying Emphasis on Individual Issues.

Some stocks pushed to around 3 points. Prominent in that class was General Motors up 3⅛ at 140. There were losses that went to around 2 points.

Buying emphasis appeared to center on individual stocks in a wide list of major groups.

The United Press said that General Motors common stock soared more than 3 points to feature an irregularly higher stock market. G.M.'s rise accompanied the company's reports that its sales for the first part of 1955—through Sept. 15 had set a new all time high for the period. Eastman Kodak also was strong and its rise of 2 points helped lift the industrial average. Bethlehem Steel also was strong and up nearly 3 points.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained a new record high, the eighth such high in the last nine sessions. Yesterday's market was lower.

Associated Press average of 60 stocks closed up a full point at 180.6, a new record high. The industrial stock index rose 1.5 points to new peak. Rail index joined .8 of point and utilities .2 of a point.

. . (Dow-Jones average of 30 industrial stocks made a new record high at 483.67, up 2.11 on the day. The 20 rails were highest since 1929 at 164.29, up .76 of a point net. The 15 utilities gained .08 of a point at 65.79.)

The market was 10 issues broader than yesterday at 1187. There were 549 gainers, 383 losers, 255 unchanged. There were 66 new 1955 highs and 10 new lows.

Trading came to an aggregate 2,540,000 shares. That compares with 2,890,000 shares yesterday when a great number of low-priced shares changed hands.

The best showing came from motors, railroads, oils, coppers, and steels, while there were a lot of minus signs in the radio-TVs and many individual issues.

Eversharp, down 1¼ at 17 yesterday, lost between 1 and 2 points today after it was reported that negotiations for a possible merger with Paper-Mate Pen Co. had been discontinued.

Gillette, up 3 points yesterday, gained around 2 points today on the announcement that it had reached an understanding to buy Paper-Mate.

Among higher stocks late were Standard Oil (N.J.), Northern Pacific, Southern Railway, Magma Copper, American Smelting, Boeing, Montgomery Ward, Mack Trucks, General Motors, and Bethlehem Steel.

Lower late were U. S. Gypsum, Loew's, United Air Lines, General Electric, American Cyanamid, International Nickel, Zenith Radio, RCA, United Aircraft, and Youngstown Sheet & Tube.

London stocks were lower today, the Financial Times slipping 1.4 points to 198.1.

Cuneo press, which has been quite strong and active in recent sessions, fell back around 2 points early in the day after a company official said earnings weren't running as high as one Wall Street source had estimated.

Pittsburgh Metallurgical, which moved to the big board today from the American Stock Exchange, opened at 29½, up ⅜ from its close on the American the previous day. It continued trading near that level.

RAILROAD BOND LIST SHOWS BETTER TONE

NEW YORK, Sept. 16 (AP)—The corporate bond market moved a bit higher today, with a group of railroad issues setting the pace.

United States Government obligations generally were unchanged at times and quiet. A few intermediates were off 1-32 at one time.

Changes in corporate trading generally were fractions to a point, with dealings at a considerably slower pace than in recent sessions.

Foreign liens were almost neglected. A few Norwegian and Danish issues gained fractions, and some German bonds were off slightly at one time.

In new financing, the East Volusia Special Road & Bridge District of Volusia County, Fla., has sold $8,000,000 in bonds to a group managed by Ira Haupt & Co. The group bid 100.0099 for 6s, 3¼s, and 3.30s giving a net increase of 3.348 per cent. The bonds will be due May 1, 1961-1984, and were reoffered to yield from 2.60 to 3.35 per cent.

Cook County, Ill., is now expected to go to market in mid-October to sell $40,000,000 of expressway bonds, the first installation of an authorized $245,000,000 issue. The county rejected all bids on the $40,000,000 block on Aug. 16 when it expressed dissatisfaction over the 2.69 per cent interest cost.

GROUP ANNUITIES PREMIUMS WILL TOP $1,000,000,000

NEW YORK, Sept. 16 (AP)—Annual premiums paid on group annuities will top one billion dollars this year, nearly eight times the total just 15 years ago, according to the Institute of Life Insurance.

The annuities, written on employer-employe groups, cover 3,185,000 individuals — more than 80 per cent of persons belonging to insured pension plans.

The Institute says that although retirement income paid out has grown to about 150 million dollars a year, the reserves held by the Life Insurance companies to assure future payments of retirement income are nearly eight billion dollars.

The group annuities provide a potential billion-dollar-a-year retirement income program at this time.

LONDON PRICES LOWER

LONDON, Sept. 16 (AP)—Buyers were cautious and prices fell today on the London stock market in the wake of an overnight setback on Wall Street and big losses reported in Britain's nationalized coal industry.

Trading was quiet all around, with the only bright spots in rubber shares inspired by dividend hopes and teas as a result of the higher prices at the auctions.

British funds, after their recent firmness, were mostly sellers and recorded falls of ⅛ to ¼. Colonial stocks dropped.

vance information on the subject matter of Nixon's scheduled talks elsewhere. But there was every indication he will discuss international affairs in dedicating a statue to Columbus in Columbus, O., Oct. 12 and at the American Legion National convention in Miami, Oct. 13.

Mr. Eisenhower carried Florida in 1952 and the Republicans want to repeat that performance. While Nixon's Miami appearance will be somewhat limited politically, he also has scheduled a talk the following day in Tampa.

Other speeches on his schedule—which aids said is not yet complete—include addresses to the International Fire Chiefs Association in Omaha, Nebr., next Tuesday; at a Republican Finance Dinner in San Francisco Oct. 10 and to the Investment Bankers Association in New York Oct. 19.

got around to recognize the Soviet Union.

The present Soviet position augurs ill for western hopes of positive results in the Geneva conference. The Russians clearly prefer the status quo, including the division of Germany between East and West, to any visible alternative. They believe that time is on their side. East Germany will be the magnet that will attract the West and not vice versa from the Soviet point of view, as observed here in Moscow. The Russians, believing that history is on their side, are in no hurry.

WHEAT IS NET HIGHER AFTER LATE RALLY

CHICAGO, Sept. 16 (AP)—A little rally in wheat late in the session provided the only sign of strength in grains on the Board of Trade today.

Wheat got back above the previous close. Prior to that, it had suffered fractional losses along with the rest of the market. Selling in part represented profit taking prior to the weekend.

Buying interest perked up in wheat following reports the United States and Japan would sign an agreement next week to sell Japan large quantities of surplus American farm products. Payment would be made in Japanese currency.

STOCKHOLDERS VOTE MERGER OF 2 SMALL LOAN FIRMS

Stockholders of American Investment Co. of Illinois and of the Domestic Finance Corp. have voted overwhelmingly for a merger of the two firms, a spokesman for American Investment announced today at its headquarters here.

Domestic, with 56 small-loan offices in eight states, is a subsidiary of American, the third largest small-loan company in the United States with 293 offices in 28 states. The vote in favor of the merger was reported to have been more than 90 per cent of each stock company.

The merger will not be completed until a court decision is handed down in a suit by Mrs. Ella Ramsburg against American. As a stockholder of Domestic, Mrs. Ramsburg contended the merger would violate the Clayton Anti-Trust Act. She asked for $6,000,000 in damages. Donald L. Barnes, St. Louis capitalist, is president of both firms.

Merger Is Effective.

Merger of Potosi Investment Company into the Griesedieck Company became effective today and board of directors of the Griesedieck Company re-elected Edward D. Jones as president of the company and elected Alexander Fraser, John H. Morris vice presidents, Fred V. L. Smith treasurer, and August L. Griesedieck secretary. Trading in the new $1 par value common stock of the company will begin Monday on the American Stock Exchange and Midwest Stock Exchange, it was stated.

BIG MACHINE TOOLS BEING ROBOTIZED

The Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch. Copyright 1955.

CHICAGO, Sept. 16 — The monster machine tools of industry are being robotized. Electronic harnessing has made them safer to operate—and has slashed their manpower needs.

All of this is evident at the machine tool show here. The keynote is automation.

There is a machine for automobile assembly lines that will handle small parts in cars four times as fast as human beings do it now.

The machine can be operated by a man or by an electronic device.

Another tool makes it possible for precision gears to be machined and inspected without being touched by human hands.

There is a "curtain of light" electronic device that stops big power presses if any part of the operator's body gets in the way of its massive jaws.

It is hailed as the safety guard that will prevent the major cause of crippling accidents in the metal-working industry.

The show is in the midst of two-week stays at two different exhibition halls: the Coliseum and the International Amphitheater.

The production engineering show, an adjunct of the machine tool affair, is under way at Navy Pier. It features the electronic control devices that make the big tools more automatic.

Focal point of the machine tool exhibition is at the amphitheater, where 500 pieces of heavy machinery, valued at $20,000,000, cram the spacious halls.

It took two months to set them up and will take three weeks to tear down when the show closes Saturday.

"That's why we can't have one of these every year," said a show spokesman.

He added that the cost of this year's event will run around $1,000,000. The last show was held in 1947.

Fear Increasing in Colombia As Rojas Tightens Dictatorship

Opposition Denied Voice in Newspapers or Radio, Complainers Afraid to State Views Publicly.

HAVANA, Sept. 16 (AP)—Colombia is becoming a country of fear.

President Gustavo Rojas Pinilla ticks off the familiar milestones of the dictator's road, and the 12,000,000 Colombians more and more withdraw behind the barriers of silence.

Prominent business men, opposition politicians and others are eager to present their criticism to the outside world, but hesitate to state publicly what they will say privately. They fear Government retaliation.

Government officials, acutely sensitive to foreign criticism, either avoid newsmen or are evasive when questioned.

Strict Censorship.

The government of Lt. Gen. Rojas last month suspended indefinitely one of the country's most influential newspapers, El Tiempo of Bogota. The suspension set off a series of decrees aimed at silencing complaints. There is a strict censorship. A national publications board has been formed to control imports of newsprint and to establish a Government daily newspaper.

This is the picture they outline:

Economically Colombia is fairly well off and, in fact, stands on the threshold of an industrial and agricultural boom. Wages are increasing. Jobs are plentiful. Few men care to risk their improved standard of living for government displeasure.

Political opposition is unorganized. No one anti-government figure stands out as a rallying point. The army is in control and is loyal to its handsome 55-year-old leader.

The army probably numbers about 40,000—a three-fold increase in the past 10 years. It is supported by a strong police force. Much of the national budget—how much the government will not say—is devoted to purchasing modern planes and weapons.

Though strict, the censorship is disorganized. News filed from the country is subject to scrutiny by censors of varying degrees of strictness. Foreign publications can be seized or delayed at the whim of an official.

The government denies censorship exists. Its attitude is that it must protect order and the President's dignity.

Coup in 1953.

Rojas took over the government in a bloodless coup in June 1953. His army supressed guerrilla warfare that had raged for five years. He and his army became heroes. Even El Tiempo and the Liberals supported the Conservative President.

Since then his popularity has declined steadily. Originally appointed by an impressed and bipartisan National Assembly to serve as President until Aug. 4, 1954, he later packed the Assembly and put through a constitutional change which extended his term four more years.

Then came control of the radio stations, which must devote to government propaganda as much time as the government desires. Rojas established an official television station. Under construction are 14 repeater stations to carry its message all over the nation.

If criticism had not been general before, it became so with the suspension of El Tiempo. A petition protesting against the action, and signed by about 300 prominent Liberals and Conservatives, was handed to the government. Heading the signers were two former Presidents, Alfonso Lopez and Alberto Lleras. It said:

"It is not only the rights of the press which have been crushed, but our own: our right to be informed freely, to know all opinions, to seek our own sources of information, to keep watch through the press on the actions of public officials."

Business Is Good.

The government has never acknowledge receipt of the petition.

Business men say foreign capital is being invested in generous amounts in all types of industries, most of them aimed at the Colombian consumer. Investors are attracted by tax concessions and a promise that much of the profits can be taken out of the country.

Below the surface there are whispered anti-Rojas jokes, secret distribution of anti-government pamphlets, and the ever watchful eye for the police. New guerrilla warfare has broken out in the mountain area of the Sumapaz region south of Bogota. Mention of this in newspapers is forbidden.

The Government claims, and many Colombians agree, that the guerrilla activities are directed by Communists. For this reason, if for no other, the guerrillas receive little or no support from even Rojas oppositionists.

The suspension of El Tiempo stemmed from the deaths of a Liberal newspaper editor, Emilio Correa, and his lawyer son, Carlos Correa, near their home in Pereira. They were shot to death after they were involved in an automobile collision.

El Tiempo, among other newspapers, contended the deaths were manufactured for political reasons. The Government said the deaths were the climax of an argument which followed the collision and that two of the three men involved in the shooting were arrested.

The Government ordered El Tiempo to print, as its own, a statement written by government officials which held the deaths to be accidental. El Tiempo refused and police moved into its building, stopping its presses.

It Always Happens.

HURON, S.D. (UP)—Francis Koopman decided to take matters into his own hands during a recent dry spell. He drilled a well in his back yard to obtain water for his lawn. The next week it rained.

VIDAURI GETS LIFE IN PRISON KILLING, APPEALS

Hearing on Motion for New Trial Set for Oct. 22 by Judge Clemens.

Hearing on a motion for a new trial for Joseph M. Vidauri, convicted at St. Charles yesterday of participation in the murder of Walter Lee Donnell in the Missouri penitentiary riot last year, was set for Oct.

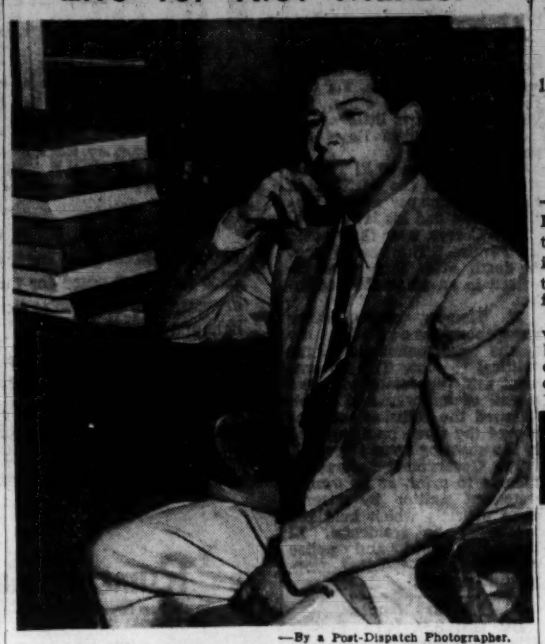

The verdict of guilty was returned by a circuit court jury, which fixed punishment at life imprisonment.

Vidauri received the verdict, reached after three hours' deliberation, without emotion. The defense announced plans for an appeal, and Judge James B. Clemens set the date for hearing the motion.

Trial was in St. Charles county on a change of venue from Jefferson City.

Vidauri, 20 years old, testified in his own defense that he took no part in the murder and, in fact, had never seen Donnell. He was charged with murder in the first degree.

PRICE OF CONCERT TICKETS CUT DUE TO FOREST FIRE

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., Sept. 16 (AP) — The Pacific coast music festival is having a "fire sale" of tickets for the last two Leopard Stokowski concerts tomorrow and Sunday.

Festival officials said the huge, 10-day Los Padres national forest fire, now under control but which once threatened the outskirts of Santa Barbara, had caused a substantial number of ticket concellations from Los Angeles area subscribers.

Therefore, the $5 and $3 seats for the last two concerts are being cut to $2.

RUSSIANS TO INSPECT AMERICAN HOUSING

10-Member Mission to Make 4-Week Tour of Homes in U.S.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP) —The National Association of Home Builders said yesterday the Soviet government is sending 10 Russian housing officials to the United States next month for a look at American homes.

An invitation for the visit was extended by the home builders through the Russian embassy here Aug. 29. The acceptance was received by the embassy yesterday, the association reported.

"This is an unprecedented opportunity for our industry to demonstrate the tremendous progress that we in America have accomplished in the field of housing," Earl W. Smith, association president, said in a statement.

"Perhaps more importantly, it is an opportunity for us to show the American way of life in its true setting — in the American home."

The Russian delegation will arrive in New York Oct. 2, Smith said, and will make a four-week tour as guests of the home builders.

The association conceived the idea of the visit after President Eisenhower, at the Big Four meeting in Geneva, advocated a freer exchange of information on both sides of the Iron Curtain.

Smith said the State Department already has assured the Soviet government that its delegation will be given visas to enter the country.

Present plans call for the Russians to come to Washington Oct. 3 to witness the opening of the association's national housing center. Vice President Nixon is scheduled to be present at the ceremony.

Subsequently, the delegation will be given an opportunity to study American home building methods in New York City, on Long Island and in Westchester county, N.Y., in Boston, New Orleans, Seattle, Austin and Tyler, Tex., Los Angeles, San Francisco, Tucson, Ariz., Seattle, Chicago, Fort Wayne, Ind., and Cleveland.

MINE UNION ORDERS EXTRA ASSESSMENT

Soft Coal Workers to Pay $20 in Four Installments.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP) —The United Mine Workers Union has ordered a $20 assessment on the estimated 200,000 working soft coal miners to bolster the union's treasury about $4,000,000.

An announcement in the UMW's journal said the money is needed to defend the union against law suits "seeking to destroy it through harrassing legal actions and other devious means."

The UMW has published no recent financial statement but union sources said the treasury has $42,000,000.

The announcement signed by UMW President John L. Lewis and other union officers said the assessment was voted by the union's policy committee as an aftermath of the recent miner's wage increase.

The miners received a $1.20 daily pay increase effective Sept. 1 and are due to get a second 80 cents raise next April 1, boosting the basic daily wage to $20.25.

The assessment is to be levied in four $5 installments, in September, October, January, and the last in a pay period to be selected following the April 1 pay increase.

The announcement signed by Lewis said the UMW is "being constantly beleaguered by many law suits. Fortunately, through its ability to acquire reserves throughout the years, it has been able to offset these attacks and protect the benefits now being enjoyed by our membership."

DENIES REFUSING JOBS ON BASIS OF GUILT BY KINSHIP

Walter Bedell Smith Says State Department Did Not Adopt That Policy.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP)—Gen. Walter Bedell Smith testified today he could not recall the State Department ever turned down a job applicant "because of the action of a relative."

A former under secretary of state, Smith made the remark in reply to a question from Chairman Hardy (Dem.), West Virginia, of the House International Operations subcommittee.

Hardy noted that the subcommittee had been told that about the time Smih was under secreary last year "one or two" applicants for the diplomatic service were rejected because of "what a relative thought, said or did," although the applicants passed security tests.

This testimony came from Dr. Henry M. Wriston, retired president of Brown University who headed an investigation of the foreign service last year. Smith then was under secretary.

Smith, while saying he knew of no special case of that sort in the State Department, added:

"I can visualize an otherwise perfect candidate for foreign service who might be married to someone who came from a ocuntry outside the United States.

"That would be no stigma at all, but you wouldn't take him."

Smith also said he had encountered this problem while he was director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

"I was unable to employ highly desirable people because of relatives behind the Iron Curtain," he said. "In that service, it is felt dangerous to employ anyone with relatives who may be held as a hostage."

Upon the completion of Smith's testimony today, Hardy adjourned the current series of hearings on "efficiency" and "morale" in the State Department.

By the United Press.

Wriston said the cases came to his attention while he was heading a committee which investigated the Foreign Service Officers corps—the career diplomatic service—in the spring of 1954.

Asked if he fetl a "guilt-by-kinship" standard was fair, he replied:

"As a general thing, it is a very poor practice."

But he said he could envisage circumstances in which a security clearance could be denied because of a relative's activity.

Wriston, in making his disclosure yesterday, said he protested to State Department officials that "mere relationship" should not be a cause for disqualification.

Loy Henderson, deputy undersecretary of state for administration, told reporters after the hearing that he does not know of the cases to which Wriston referred.

He said he had not heard of such a case since he became under secretary in January. Asked if he thought "guilt-by-kinship" standards were unfair, he replied:

"Merely on those grounds, yes. But there are other factors to be considered. It depends on the circumstances."

USE OF MAGNETO TO STUN FISH DRAWS $100 FINES

OSCEOLA, Mo. (AP)—It is costly to use an old hand crank magneto-type telephone to catch fish in St. Clair county.

Morran D. Harris, prosecuting attorney, reports seven "telephoning" fishermen have been fined $100 each in recent weeks by George Anderson, St. Clair county magistrate. Three of the violators also got suspended six-month jail sentences.

"If this type of violation continues," Harris said, "larger fines and jail sentences, with no stay of execution, will be recommended by me." Use of a crank-type telephone sends an electric current into the water, killing little fish and stunning larger ones. The practice has been condemned by conservation officials as highly destructive of fish populations.

TWO WOMEN PROMISE CURE; CLINTON MAN LOSES $520

CLINTON, Ill. (UP)—An elderly Clinton man, John Craft, Tuesday was the victim of a confidence game operated by two women who promised to cure his ailments with a rubbing treatment.

Craft, who has poor eyesight and was unable to describe the appearance of the women, said they entered the house under guise of getting a drink of water for a baby they carried.

Then he gave them permission to try the rubbing treataches and pains. In the rubdown Craft was relieved of $520.

W. FRANKFORT STRIKE ENDS

WEST FRANKFORT, Ill. (AP)—Union employes returned to work Wednesday at the streamline garment factory at West Frankfort ending a one-day walkout.

The employes, all members of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, had set up picket lines at the plant Tuesday protesting the lack of a new union contract with the company. The union's old contract expired July 6. A company official said the employes agreed to remain on the job while their grievances were handled through regular channels.

KON-TIKI SKIPPER ON WAY TO SOUTH PACIFIC ISLES

OSLO, Sept. 16 (AP)—Thor Heyerdahl, who rode the raft "Kon-Tiki" across the south Pacific in 1947, left by air yesterday on a new scientific expedition to the south sea islands. He was accompanied by his wife and 2-year-old daughter. They will fly by way of New York to Chile, where they will join the rest of the party, which includes American, French, Norwegian and Chilean scientists.

Heyerdahl said they would sail to Pitcairn and Easter islands, where he said he hoped to prove his theory that the Polynesian islands were populated by migrants from South America.

Heyerdahl hopes to compare the giant stone statues on Easter island with statues erected in South America before the days of the Incas.

Housewives' Protests Prevail After Benson Move Backfires

Agriculture Department Resuming Home-Making Research—Advice on Dish-Washing Recalled.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (UP)—The Department of Agriculture, which bowed to President Eisenhower on a dishwashing pamphlet, took its marching "orders" from the housewife today on a related front.

Reversing a previous decision, it announced it will begin research on how to wash and iron new fabrics, how to set up "functional" house plans and other everyday home-making problems.

To handle the new projects, it set up three sub-branches in its home economics research section — human nutrition, household economics and clothing-housing.

The "household hints" controversy began in the 1952 campaign. Mr. Eisenhower discovered that the Agriculture Department, under the Democrats, was turning out thousands of pamphlets on better ways to wash dishes. A prime example of the "shameful wasting" of tax funds by the Democrats, said Eisenhower.

A year later, red-faced Republican officials discovered that the Agriculture Department was turning out more dishwashing pamphlets than ever before, this time under the Republicans. Not long afterward, printing of pamphlets was stopped.

Experts brought in by Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson decided later that some of the department's research on home-making matters was also wasteful.

Earlier this year, it was announced that research on clothing and household problems would be cut down and the money put into expanded studies of nutrition.

Protests from women poured in. A 15-member home economics advisory committee was called in to referee. Its report resulted in the about-face.

ORME LEWIS LEAVES JOB IN INTERIOR DEPARTMENT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP)—Orme Lewis, assistant secretary of the interior for public land management since Feb. 10, 1953, left office yesterday.

Former Representative Wesley A. D'Ewart of Montana is reported to be the choice as his successor. D'Ewart, a Republican member of the House from 1945 to 1954, is now an assistant to Secretary of Agriculture Benson. An appointment to the interior position will be made by President Eisenhower.

EASTERN STAR ELECTS KENTUCKY WOMAN BANKER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (UP)—Mrs. Iley B. Browning, Ashland, Ky., and George Hastings, Denver, have been elected to offices that will automatically lead them to the top posts of the International Eastern Star in future years.

Mrs. Browning, chairman of the board of a Prestonburg (Ky.) bank, was elected right worthy associate grand conductress at the close of the Eastern Star's twenty-eighth triennial assembly here yesterday.

Florence A. Plummer of Norristown, Pa., and Lloyd McRae, Helix, Ore., automatically moved up from lesser posts to the order's highest offices of most worthy grand matron and patron.

SOLDIER NEAREST FOE SAID TO BE SAFEST IN ATOM WAR

LONDON, Sept. 16 (AP)—A three-day British Army exercise to test troops under nuclear warfare conditions has shown that the safest man is the one closest to the enemy.

So Lt. Gen. Sir Ernest E. Down, director of the exercise, said yesterday at its conclusion.

The reason, Gen. Down explained, is "because the enemy obviously will not drop an atomic bomb near his own troops."

EX-ECONOMIC CHIEF ASKED TO FORM LEBANESE CABINET

BEIRUT, Sept. 16 (AP)—President Camille Chamoun asked 33-year-old Rashid Karami to form a new Lebanese cabinet yesterday. Premier Sami Solh, who resigned Tuesday, declined an offer to try again.

An official communique said Karami, former minister of economy, is starting consultations today. Solh resigned after a Cabinet revolt and strong attacks on his tax program.

ABANDONED POLAR BEAR CUB, NURSED BY CURATOR, DIES

A polar bear cub, abandoned by its mother after it was born at the zoo Tuesday night, died yesterday at the home of Moody Lentz, the zoo's general curator, who was caring for it in the hope that it might survive.

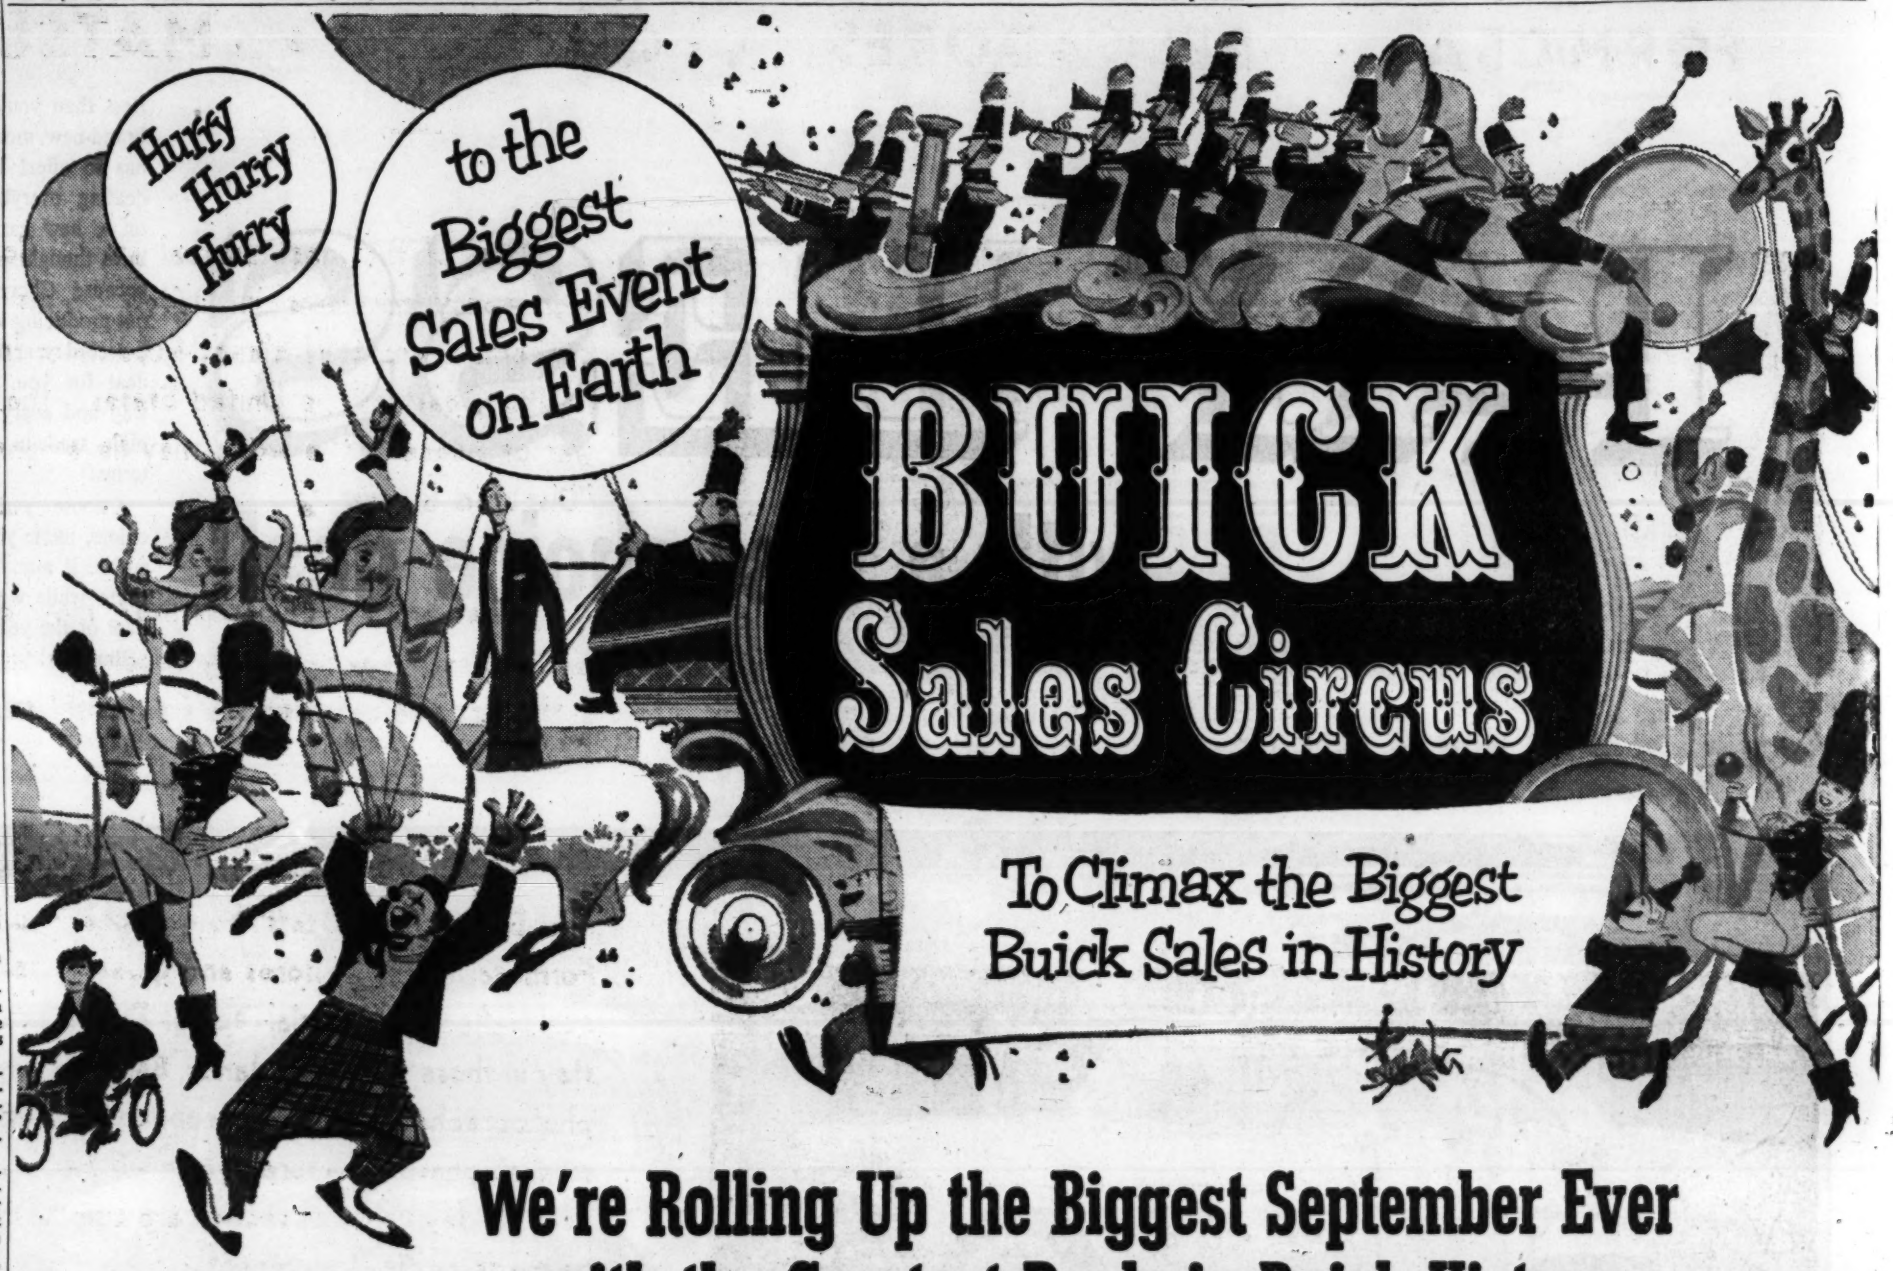

Lentz had been feeding the one-pound cub with an eye-dropper and giving it medicine. He said the cub was not abnormally small but might have suffered an injury at birth or shortly thereafter.

Zoo Director George P. Vierheller said previous cubs born to the mother bear, Snowball, had lived only a short time.

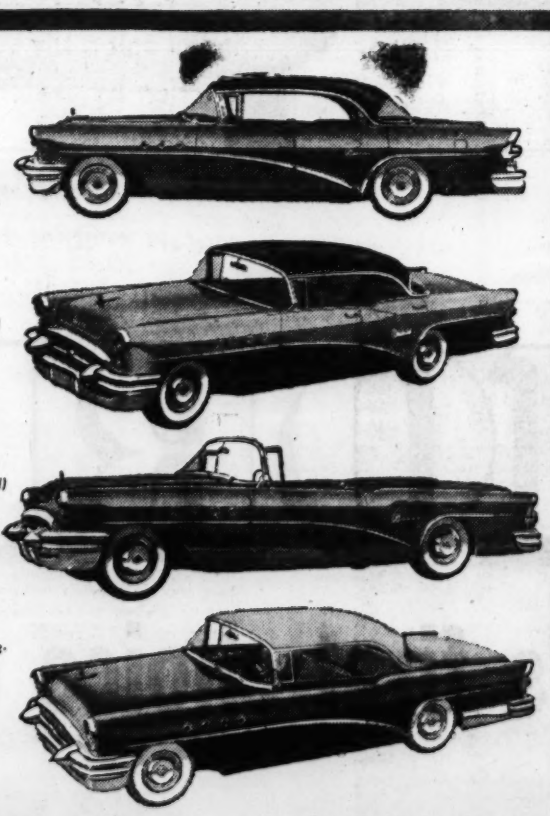

HOME IS ROBBED OF $370

The home of William J. Lilburn, 5823 Loran street, was entered some time yesterday by burglars who obtained $370, Mrs. Lilburn reported to police.

She discovered the burglary when she returned home at 3:40 p.m. The front door had been forced open. Furniture in a bedroom had been ransacked and the money was taken from a dresser drawer.

(The above pictures are typical, but not duplicates of any pictures which will appear in the special section.)

One of the most unusual and difficult foreign policy problems in United States history concerns a group of islands 6,000 miles from the Pacific Coast of the United States. The key to war or peace in the world may lie among these "Disputed Islands."

What are these islands like? How do their people live? Why have they become so important in the struggle between the free world and Communism?

To find the answers to these questions, the Post-Dispatch sent Staff Photographer Paul Berg to Formosa, the Pescadores and Quemoy to make a comprehensive pictorial report. During his six-week stay in those disputed islands, Berg examined and photographed their social, economic, political and military phases. Pictures which will be included in next Sunday's special section are among the many he made on this assignment.

In addition to the pictures, many of which are in full color, the special section will contain an introduction by George H. Hall, a Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and expert on Far Eastern affairs; and a report on the military and morale problems which the disputed islands have created, by Brig. Gen. Thomas R. Phillips, U.S.A. (Ret.), Military Analyst of the Post-Dispatch.

Paul Berg first came to the Post-Dispatch as a news photographer. During World War II he served as an Army combat photographer in Northern France, the Ardennes, the battle of the Bulge and Germany. On his return to the Post-Dispatch, Berg was assigned to Sunday PICTURES. Four years ago he was transferred to New York to cover the eastern area of the nation for the PICTURES section.

ARKANSAS FOES OF INTEGRATION MEET TOMORROW

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WALNUT RIDGE, Ark., Sept. 16—Opponents of schol integration have scheduled a mass meeting for Saturday at 2:30 p.m., in the Lawrence county court yard here.

The meeting was called by the seven-member citizens committee fighting integration in Hoxie schools, where 25 Negro students have been admitted to white schools having about 1000 students.

Spearheading the anti-integration effort is Herbert Brewer, Hoxie farmer, who will introduce the speakers at the mass meeting.

Listed among the speakers are former State Senator Jim Johnson, Crossett, and Curt Copeland, Hot Springs newspaper man.

Attorney Retained.

The citizens committee has asked the school board to rescind integration in Hoxie schools, but the board has refused. The anti-integrationists have employed Amis Gutheridge, Little Rock attorney. Bill Penix, Jonesboro, attorney for the board, said the board would stand by its integration order.

In addition to speakers, Brewer promised for the mass meeting the playing of "a recorded speech made by a representative of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People."

The anti-integrationist did not identify the speaker's name, but said the speech was "an insult to the white race."

Charges N.A.A.C.P. Pressure.

Meanwhile, Robert B. Patterson, executive secretary of the Mississippi Citizens Councils, has charged that the proposed Justice Department investigation of Hoxie's integration was inspired by the N.A.A.C.P.

"We believe that the N.A.A.C.P pressures our Government into making these investigations in order to intimidate those who disagree with their radical aims," Patterson declared.

His organization is composed of "white males dedicated to preservation of segregation."

Patterson said, "We in Mississippi have already been investigated and recognize it for what it was—a politically inspired attempt at intimidation by the N.A.A.C.P. through the FBI."

Discounts Investigation.

On the Hoxie investigation, he said that "nothing will come of the present snipe hunt unless they can bluff the people of Arkansas."

He added, "It would indeed be a weak, simple-minded person who would be cowed by such outrageous political tactics. The N.A.A.C.P. has practically taken over the judicial and executive branches of our Federal Government, and they now seek to take over sovereign states one by one.

"Southerners will not be intimidated and the character and integrity of the South will preserve itself, just as it did 80 years ago."

A. M. Bryant, special agent in charge of the Little Rock FBI office, said the Department of Justice ordered an investigation of the Hoxie school situation.

State Council Formed.

"We are conducting an investigation at the specific request of the Attorney General of the United States," Bryant said, declining further comment.

Johnson and Copeland, scheduled to speak at the Walnut Ridge mass meeting, were instrumental recently in organizing the Arkansas White Citizens' Council.

They were invited to speak at Walnut Ridge Monday night by Brewer, while all three were attending a pro-segregation rally at DeWitt.

Purpose of Publication.

The publication, which Johnson said the council hopes to begin publishing in about four weeks, will contain information on activities of other states in prevention of integration, along with an account of Arkansas's activities.

Johnson said he also had received speaking invitations from residents of Hazen, Jacksonville, Clarendon, Stuttgart and Dermott.

At the DeWitt rally, L. D. Poynter, Pine Bluff, president of White America, Inc., also addressed the crowd.

A record of a speech allegedly made at a meeting of the N.A.A.C.P. in Mississippi was played, with critical remarks concerning it by Copeland.

'Legal, Peaceful Manner.'

It was not known whether this was the same recording promised for listeners at next Saturday's Walnut Ridge rally.

Johnson, Crossett attorney and unsuccessful candidate for Arkansas attorney general last year, said he believes "segregation can be preserved in a legal and peaceful manner."

The former state senator said he was speaking as a "citizen alarmed over a situation enough to try to do something about it."

"hey spearheaded the movement to boycott Hoxie schools after intergration was ordered, beginning at the summer split term in early July.

'You'll Never Train a Soldier by Torture,' Cowart Says—Education Called More Important.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 15 (AP) — Three American turncoats, who first embraced and then rejected the Chinese Reds, today ridiculed as "childish" the Air Force's Nevada school against brainwashing.

William A. Cowart, Lewis W. Griggs and Otho G. Bell said in separate interviews the whole idea is unrealistic. They were captured by the Reds in the Korean war, then chose to go to China rather than return to their homeland after the armistice was signed.

They came out of China last July and now are in the Fort Baker stockade across San Francisco bay awaiting court-martial on charges they betrayed their country and their countrymen.

"The men going through that Nevada school know they're not going to be killed—they're not even going to lose their cigarette ration," said Bell. "How can you call that a real test? It's just childish.

"Anybody can stand up to long interrogation if he knows it doesn't mean anything. But it's a lot different when you don't know whether you're going to be shot or not.

Confusing Treatment.

"And what good does it do to prepare a man for torture? The Chinese don't always torture you. When I was captured I expected to get shot. Instead they shook my hand.

"And they can confuse you in lots of ways. They used to question me for hours at a time. They'd ask me questions like 'how about the friction between the United States and Great Britain?'

"How in the hell did I know? I didn't know anything about those things."

Cowart called the school "the silliest thing I've heard of since I got back. It's not going to make anyone immune to their tactics. A man had to know what Communism is. That's the basic thing.

"Ask any soldier—even after he goes through the school—what Communism is. He won't know. He'll say he hates it—but doesn't know what it is.

"The Commies are flexible—and they know what's going on. Our soldiers will have to be flexible, too. And they aren't going to get flexible in a torture school."

Some Stories False.

Griggs said the Air Force school was "ridiculous, completely wrong."

"You'll never train a soldier by torture," he said. "And all those Chinese torture stories aren't true either. A lot of guys come back from P.O.W. camps and told some pretty terrible tales—just to cover up for what they had done themselves.

"The first real step is to teach Democracy and our Constitution in the schools. Tell the students what the Communists actually are.

"And the next step is to give soldiers more than the six hours of schooling about Communism that I had in the Army."

GIRL JAILED, WON'T PAY SCHOOL ACTIVITY FEE

UNION, Mo., Sept. 16 (UP)—A 17-year-old high school senior, Marion Timmerman, went to jail rather than pay a $8 student activity fee, it was learned today. In her stand, the girl has the support of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Timmerman who live in a rural area of Washington county.

The girl contends that she does not attend all the school activities and therefore should not be required to pay the fee.

School opened in Sullivan, Mo., Sept. 6. After her continued refusal to pay the fee, the Sullivan School Board decided she was not acceptable as a student.

Franklin County Prosecuting Attorney John A. Cole of Union told the United Press that the girl was arrested Monday on charges of disturbing the peace when she refused to leave the superintendent's office after the board's decision to reject her.

Cole said the Timmerman girl spent from Monday afternoon through Wednesday morning in jail before her case came up for preliminary hearing in magistrate court. She entered a plea of not guilty and was released on $500 bond.

CONVICTED OF ATTEMPTING TO BRIBE STATE POLICE

OTTAWA, Ill. (AP)—Charles Sleezer, 41 years old, of Millbrook, has been convicted of trying to bribe two state highway policemen.

A circuit court jury returned a verdict of guilty Wednesday and recommended a fine of $1000. The court did not act immediately on the recommendation.

The policemen arrested Sleezer Jan. 16, 1955, for stealing a farm wagon at Lostant, 20 miles southwest of Ottawa. He was convicted in July of grand larceny in the theft case and is under a prison sentence of 7 to 9 years. Glenard Bunton and Leo Gaureau, state policemen who arrested Sleezer for stealing the wagon, testified he made a futile attempt to bribe them by offering them $50.

BENSON DERIDES DEMOCRATS AS DOOM PROPHETS

Charges Attempt to Make Political Issue Out of Drop in Farm Prices.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (UP)—Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson charged today that "phophets of gloom and doom" are trying to make a "political football" out of the current plight of American farmers.

Although he did not mention the Democrats, Benson aimed his comment squarely at their claims that the Republicans are to blame for a decline in farm prices and income.

Benson told a press conference he is "deeply concerned" about the problem but he deplored the efforts of some groups to make a political issue out of it.

"Farmers are in a cost-price squeeze and it's real . . ." Benson said.

But he declared his firm confidence that American agriculture is basically sound and that solutions will be found to current problems "despite what is said by prophets of gloom and doom and the political depression that seems to be on."

Benson repeated his promise to present Congress next year with some specific recommendations for solving the problem. But he said he has not yet decided exactly what these recommendations will be.

No Slaughtering.

He said the administration "will not adopt any radical plowing under of cotton or slaughter of little pigs." He apparently referred to Democratic moves taken during a farm depression in the 1930's.

In reply to questions, Benson said his contacts with the White House or the Republican National committee have not increased since his return from Europe two days ago. He said the only one he has spoken to from either place was Presidential Assistant Howard Pyle with whom he "talked generally about various problems." He has not conferred with President Eisenhower.

Benson was asked if he included Republican politicians who have voiced concern over the farm situation as among those who are "making a political football" out of the farmers cost squeeze. He said he was "ont accusing anyone."

But he said "oft-times statements are made without a knowledge of the full facts."

Wants Non-Partisan Action.

He said he hoped the whole farm problem can be solved in a "non-partisan way and not be manipulated in any way by any party to serve partisan political advantage."

One reporter remarked that one of the "saddest and most dismal" pictures of the present farm situation was painted recently by Vice President Richard M. Nixon in Denver.

Benson said he does not know how "dismal" Nixon's remarke were. But he said his aides have provided Nixon's staff with some information recently.

Nixon said today he will make a "hard-hitting" speech on the farm price issue in Wabash, Ind., tomorrow.

Benson opened his hour-long press conference with a 15-minute optimistic report on results of his talks with European farm officials.

But while he was away "trying to open markets" for American surpluses and "help agriculture help itself," he said, there came the "old effort" to "make a political football" out of agriculture. He said he was "not amused."

RUSSIA GETS PERMIT TO SHIP U.S. CATTLE

64 Head of Santa Gertrudis Breed Purchased in Texas.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP)—The Government yesterday approved the export to Russia of 64 head of Santa Gertrudis cattle, the first purchase to follow the reecnt visit of the Russian farm delegation.

The 22 bulls and 42 heifers, valued at $64,000, are being bought from six ranches in the San Antonio (Tex.) area.

The hardy breed, considered well suited to grazing conditions on the Russian steppes, was developed on Texas's huge King ranch.

The export license was issued by the Commerce Department to the Amtorg Trading Corp., Russia's overseas purchasing organization.

The question of this country's embaro on shipment of strategic goods behind the Iron Curtain did not enter the transaction. Cattle are not on the list of strategic items whose export is restricted.

Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks reecntly reported a noticeable pick-up in the volume of exports to Russia and its satellites, although the quantity still is small. Officials were interested in the cattle purchase primarily because of the indication of possible increases in trade resulting from the exchange of missions such as the Soviet farm group which toured United States agricultural areas.

The department did not name the ranches which are selling the cattle to Amtorg.

WILLIAM S. HART JR. IN NEW FIGHT FOR FATHER'S ESTATE

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 16 (AP)—A new legal fight to share in his late father's estate was started yesterday by William S. Hart Jr.

The western film star's will left the bulk of an estate now estimated at more than $1,000,000 to Los Angeles county with the proviso that a 225-acre Newhall ranch was to become a public park.

Hart died in 1946. In 1950 his son lost a court fight over the will. Yesterday he presented a series of legal objections in superior court claiming he had new evidence to support his contention that his father was unduly influenced and was not of sound mind when he made his will.

Observers, who had searched for the craft since Sunday, said yesterday it apparently stalled and hit a canyon wall before crashing into the heavy brush country. Killed in crash were Miss Beverly Case of Berkeley, Calif., Miss Carol Hore of San Rafael and Charles Ise and Paul M. Johns of San Francisco.

PRESIDENT GETS CIVIL TRIAL PLEA FOR 3 'TURNCOATS'

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 16 (AP) — President Eisenhower was urged yesterday to order a public civil hearing for the three ex-soldier "turncoats" who came home disillusioned from Red China last month.

Their attorneys declared such a hearing would strike "an effective counter-blow at Communist propaganda." It would show, they said, that military trials are out of order for all Communist-manufactured "turncoats" and also would:

"Make known to the free world that the 18 other American boys who have chosen non-repatriation, scattered throughout Red China, have expressed the desire to our clients to return home and their need for immediate aid and assistance from our Government."

The telegraphed plea to remove the returned three from military custody was sent by attorneys George T. Davis and Harold C. Brown. Their clients, Otho Bell, Hillsboro, Miss.; L. W. Griggs, Jacksonville, Tex., and William C. Cowart, Dalton, Ga., are in Army custody here awaiting military trials for alleged misconduct while prisoners of war in Korea.

RHEE QUOTED AS SAYING HE VETOED USE OF CHINESE

LONDON, Sept. 16 (AP)—The Daily Telegraph today quoted Syngman Rhee as saying he personally vetoed a plan by Gen. Douglas MacArthur to use 33,000 Chinese Nationalist troops in the Korean war.

John Ridley, Telegraph correspondent in Seoul, said the South Korean president challenged in an interview a statement by Maj. Gen. Charles A. Willoughby, MacArthur's former intelligence chief, that the plan fell through because of British opposition.

"We did not want Chinese troops in South Korea," Ridley quoted Rhee as saying. "We felt it would be simpler for the United States to equip 33,000 more Koreans than to bring in that many Chinest Nationalists."

NEHRU'S DAUGHTER URGES COPYING RUSSIAN SCHOOLS

NEW DELHI (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru's daughter, Mme. Indira Gandhi, is advocating children's centers in India along the lines of the "Palaces of Pioneers" she saw on a tour of Russia.

She said the palaces provide centers where the best Soviet students could pursue studies of their choice and still find enough time for games, sports, dances and music.

EISENHOWER HAILS MEXICAN INDEPENDENCE ANNIVERSARY

DENVER, Sept. 16 (AP)—President Eisenhower today sent good wishes to the people of Mexico on this anniversary of the independece of that nation.

From his vacation headquarters here he dispatched the following message to President Adolfo Ruiz Cortines of Mexico;

"It gives me pleasure on this anniversary of the independence of the united Mexican states to convey to your excellency and to the people of Mexico my sincere good wishes and felicitations, as well as those of the people of the United States."

U.S. OUTPUT SET RECORD IN AUGUST

Production Index Put at 140 by Federal Reserve Board.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP) —The Federal Reserve Board said today August production by factories and mines reached a record high.

Its index climbed one point to 140, up 14 per cent from August of last year. The index uses average production in the years 1947-49 inclusive as a base of 100.

The previous record was the index level of 139 maintained during June and July. July figures have been revised.

These were seasonally adjusted figures, which modified the actual month to month change to take into consideration normal seasonal swings in production. Without seasonal adjustment, industrial production dropped from a level of 139 in June to 131 in July and bounced back to 140 in August.

The Reserve Board said the output of consumer durable goods maintained its level during August and the output of productive equipment increased. Steel production rose from 85 to 90 per cent of capacity and in mid-September steel mill operations were scheduled at 95 per cent of capacity.

The board gave this summary of general business conditions at the end of the summer:

"Industrial production, employment and retail sales were maintained at advanced levels in August. Construction activity, at levels slightly below the spring high, changed little. Prices of industrial commodities continued to rise, and prices of farm products steadied after mid-August, following earlier declines.

"Despite deterioration in growing conditions during August, this year's crop harvest is expected to be 3 per cent above last year.

"Short term interest rates rose further, and discount rates were increased to 2¼ per cent at all Federal Reserve banks."

New Underground Movement.

THE HAGUE, Sept. 16 (AP) —Holland wants to go underground into West Germany. The idea is to get more coal from the Princess Beatrix mine in Limburg province with a tunnel extending into German territory. Bonn permission is being sought.

about that "STRANGE SOUND" you've been hearing...

A new sound in radio was born a few months ago . . . and quite literally, there is no sound like it anywhere on earth.

This unusual arrangement of "bleep-bleep" musical tones is the identifying trademark of MONITOR—NBC's revolutionary new Weekend Radio Service. It is the result of an intensive search by NBC personnel to find a sound so unusual . . . so different . . . that its identification with MONITOR would be unmistakable.

Countless weird sounds were considered. Finally, in the course of making a long-distance phone call, the entertainment producer of MONITOR heard an odd series of tones in the background. Inquiring what it was, he was informed that it was a combination of high-frequency notes used to activate remote long-distance telephone equipment. The New York Telephone Company was kind enough to record this sound and make it available to the MONITOR staff.

NBC engineers then re-recorded the sound at higher and lower frequencies, put it through various filters and mixed it with a micro-second lag for an "echo-chamber" effect. On this conglomerate they then superimposed an oscillator sending the Morse Code letter "M"—for MONITOR.

And that's how "the new sound in modern radio" came into being. It is the identifying trademark of a revolutionary new concept in radio programming—one that brings you a continuous succession of timely, interesting features throughout the weekend.

U.S. PLANTS ASKED TO PUT LID ON DATA

Pentagon Says Even Non-Secret Information Could Help an Enemy.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP)—The Pentagon has told defense industries to be careful about making public economic and technical information even though it bears no military secrecy label.

While such data may be "unclassified" from the military standpoint, the Defense Department said, it could nevertheless be assembled into a pattern that helps an enemy measure America's "strategic intentions."

The latest design for keeping a federal rein on information was spelled out in new regulations for maintaining industrial security in plants producing items for the armed forces. They were issued under Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson's signature. They followed orders earlier this year for tightening the Pentagon's press and other public information programs.

The regulations stated that defense plant management should be encouraged by the armed services to "exercise considerable caution prior to any releases, advertisements, notices to stockholders, annual or quarterly reports, brochures, etc. . . ."

"Indiscriminate release could make easier the job of the saboteur by pointing out potential targets" as well as easing an enemy's job of divining the nation's "strategic intentions," it was said.

Industry was told to be cautious in giving information about: Contract awards, vulnerable points within a plant, details of plant expansion plans, production methods, production rates and capacity, sources of semi-finished products, sources of power and other utilities, research and development data, and plant security measures.

Military agents assigned to defense plants will guide executives on release of information when requested or "when circumstances make it desirable."

INVESTIGATES ACCIDENT, LEARNS VICTIM IS BROTHER

BOSTON, Sept. 16 (AP)—James Shaughnessy was driving along a highway last night when he spotted an accident a few cars ahead of his.

He went to the scene and learned that a motorist had suffered a heart attack and crashed head on into another automobile. On further investigation he learned the motorist, dead of a heart attack, was his brother, William J. Shaughnessy, 49 years old.

GIVEN 5 YEARS IN PRISON FOR POSSESSING MARIJUANA

Ernest Hudson, 2846 Easton avenue, was sentenced to five years in prison and fined $1 today by United States District Judge Roy W. Harper on his plea of guilty of possessing marijuana. He was arrested Aug. 9 by police, who found five envelopes containing the drug in the waist band of his trousers.

Judge Harper sentenced Hudson, a Negro, 28 years old, under the Boggs Acts, which applies to persons previously convicted of narcotics offenses, over the protest of his attorney, Mrs. Frankie Freeman. No probation is provided for under the act.

Mrs. Freeman argued that Hudson's previous conviction for selling marijuana in May 1949 predated the Boggs Act, which went into effect Nov. 2, 1951. Hudson served 60 days in city jail as a federal prisoner after he was sentenced in 1949. He was discharged from the Army last July for bad conduct involving narcotics.

MAN HURT WHEN STRUCK, DRAGGED BY STREETCAR

Victor Rabot, 513 North Spring avenue, was injured seriously yesterday evening when he was struck and dragged a short distance by a Public Service Co. streetcar at Broadway and Olive streets.

Police found no witnesses to the accident. Earl Powell, 4945A Highland avenue, operator of the streetcar, said he had stopped at the intersection to discharge riders. Shortly after starting up, he heard screams and stopped the car.

Rabot, 72 years old, was lying in the street beside the car. His right arm was mangled. He was taken to City Hospital, and has been unable to make a statement.

GREEK LOSS IN RIOTS PUT AT $300,000,000

Capehart Makes Estimate on Arrival in Athens From Instanbul.

ATHENS, Sept. 16 (AP) — Senator Capehart (Rep.), Indiana, arrived yesterday from Istanbul and said the "highly organized" anti-Greek riots in Turkey last week caused $300,000,000 damage. The rioting grew out of the Greek-British-Turkish dispute over Cyprus.

Greek authorities, meanwhile, charged a fanatical anti-Greek watchman at the Turkish consulate in Salonika, Greece, was responsible for the bombing of his own consulate. The Salonika bombing is regarded as the factor that provoked the rioting in Istanbul and at the North Atlantic Treaty Organization base of Izmir, Turkey.

An official statement by the governor general's office in northern Greece said an investigation by experts placed the blame for the bombing on the watchman, Mehmet Oglou Hassan. It said the bomb that blasted the consulate was not thrown at the building, as previously reported, but was planted in the yard.

Touring Europe.

Capehart is touring Europe as a representative of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and the Banking and Currency Committee. He arrived in Istanbul last Thursday, three days after the riots.

He said it was impossible to learn anything officially in Istanbul about the riots.

"But from eyewitnesses I spoke with one thing is certain," he said. "The rioting was highly organized. It started at the same time on both sides of the Bosporus, all over the city and in the suburbs."

Capehart said the instigators should answer to international justice. He said he would ask the United States Government to help bring the plotters to light.

"It is just unbelievable to me that this sort of thing could happen in a city of 1,500,000 population," he said, adding that the destruction of Greek churches and the desecration of cemeteries and centuries-old tombs of Greek patriarchs was "an unpardonable sin."

Group Barred.

In Cyprus, meanwhile, the Greek-Nationalist underground organization Eoka was declared illegal and barred under an order by British Gov. Sir Robert Armitage.

This means membership is a crime punishable by imprisonment. The government gazette said preliminary hearings no longer will be necessary in serious cases and the accused can be sent straight to assize (superior) court.

The governor's order was the first since his return from the British-Greek-Turkish talks in London which failed to settle the political future of the strategic island.

G.O.P. LEADERS TO REPORT ON '56 CONVENTION PLANS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP)—Republican leaders who are making arrangements for the party's 1956 convention in San Francisco will give their "progress reports" at a meeting in Chicago next Monday, the G.O.P. National Committee announced today.

The San Francisco convention is to begin Aug. 20 next year. Convention planners say they hope to make it a "streamlined" affair that won't run more than five or six hours a session for each of four days.

Monday's meeting in Chicago will be the first for the executive committee of the arrangements committee for the 1956 convention. The executive committee members, headed by National Chairman Leonard W. Hall, include the chairmen of the 10 arrangements subcommittees who are to give their reports.

TELLS OF SEEING AMERICANS WHILE IN SOVIET CAPTIVITY

BERLIN, Sept. 16 (UP)—Klaus Friedrich Glaubitz, the mystery man released by the Russians in the belief he was an American, said today he met two American officers and two British civilians while he was in Soviet captivity.

Glaubits identified the Americans only as Capt. Alexander Wallace and Capt. Cenos. He said he did not know Cenos's first name, where the two men came from, or how they fell into Soviet hands.

The former prisoner revealed this information in an interview while waiting to fly to his father's home in the West German state of Schleswig Holstein. He was released by the Russians Sept. 5 along with two American soldiers.

EX-EMPEROR OF VIET NAM SAID TO HAVE SOLD YACHT

MONTE CARLO, Monaco, Sept. 16 (AP)—Reliable informants said yesterday, ex-emperor Bao Dai of Viet Nam has sold his personal yacht for about 100,000,000 francs ($285,000).

It is estimated it would cost two or three times the sale price to replace the 500-ton vessel. The purchaser was Alberto Ravano, a representative of the St. Augustin society, which operates several ships.

'Chinese' Hotel for Moscow.

LONDON, Sept. 16 (AP)—Moscow soon will have a new "Chinese style" hotel, according to a Moscow radio broadcast yesterday. "It will be called the Peking Hotel and will be decorated in Chinese style," the radio said. "The cuisine will be both Chinese and Russian."

More Jobs for Those Over 45 Is Goal of 6-Point U.S. Program

Half of Adults to Be That Old by 1975, Labor Secretary Mitchell Points Out.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP) —"We are going to have a revolution of old men," a visitor in Denver remarked the other day, "and I am going to be in it."

The speaker was President Eisenhower. Although he was half joking, it was the second time in a week the President had referred publicly to the growing employment problem among older folks. One was in a Labor day statement, the other during a tour of the new Air Force academy at Denver.

Too many workers, Mr. Eisenhower said, are being denied jobs because they are 45 or older "and this waste of valuable skills and talents must be eliminated."

These are not mere offhand comments. The Government has determined to do something about the older worker situation. It has obtained a special fund from Congress and mapped a detailed battle plan against the problem.

Behind all this is the fact that the longer life which medical science has brought to the average American has accompanying economic and social disadvantages.

From 47 to 69.

The Public Health Service figures the average life span at the beginning of this century was 47, it's now 69, and by 1980 it will be 80 plus. In 1900 there were about 3,000,000 individuals aged 65 or over, but this figure has grown to 12,500,000 today and is expected to exceed 18,000,000 by 1980.

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell, whose department is taking the whole matter quite seriously, says that by 1975 half the adult population will be 45 or older.

As Mitchell views it, either older people are going to be provided jobs so they may support themselves, or younger people will be saddled with the cost of taking care of them.

The Department of Labor has set out to prove that whatever reasons there may have been in the past against hiring the older worker, they no longer exist.

The department says the nature of jobs has changed. Where considerable muscular strength once was required, the premium now is on qualities peculiar to the older worker: dependability, responsibility, judgment, breadth of experience.

The department contends, also, the older worker himself has changed—a man 45 has more youth and vigor because he has taken better care of himself, and has more skill and education than a person of the same age years ago.

Six-Point Program.

Mitchell has launched a six-point program to combat age barriers in employment to answer these questions:

1. Is the older worker a good worker? The department says various studies already made by outside groups show he excels in many qualities. A study "broad enough to carry real conviction" is under way.

2. Are pension costs an obstacle? Many employers shy away from hiring older workers in belief it will hike their pension plan costs. The department is consulting experts on how this obstacle can be handled.

3. How have labor unions handled the aging worker problem? A study is being made. Some labor contracts require that employers hire a fixed proportion of older workers.

4. How have employers dealt with the problem? Best examples of employer use of older workers are to be published and distributed to employers throughout the country.

5. How can older workers be channeled to available jobs? An individualized placement service, designed to fit the right skill to the right job, is planned.

6. How can women, once workers and now again seeking jobs after raising families, obtain retraining to fit them into the work force again? The department hopes to meet the teacher and nurse shortage in this manner.

"Our aim," Mitchell says, "is to demonstrate that a worker should be selected for a job on the basis of ability and qualifications, regardless of age or sex."

NO BIDDERS, NO DEAL AT BRIDGE AUCTION

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16—The market for used bridges is in a slump. A 302-foot span, center section of New York's Third avenue bridge across the Harlem river, was offered for sale at auction yesterday and went begging.

Bernard P. Day, president of Joseph P. Day, Inc., auctioneers, acting for Terry Contracting firm, which is reconstructing the Third Avenue bridge for the city, opened the sale with an offer to sell the span for any bid over $125,000.

The 25 persons in the audience were either employed by Day, Terry or the press—and none of them wanted a bridge. They were equally uninterested in Day's offer to sell the 1000 tons as scrap.

Harry J. Terker, president of Terry, said he was confident his company would be able to dispose of the scrap. The current market price, he said, is $41.50 a ton. Reducing the structure to scrap will cost about $15 a ton, he added.

TURKISH PREMIER MAKES SEVERAL CABINET CHANGES

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Sept. 16 (AP)—Premier Adnan Menderes reshuffled his cabinet last night. A communique published through the semi-official Anatolian news agency announced these changes:

Ethem Menderes, in addition to his job as defense chief, had been filling in for Namik Gedik, who resigned as interior minister in the wake of the anti-Greek riots at Istanbul and Izmir Sept. 6. The communique did not say who is now in charge of the interior ministry and no reasons were given for the new changes.

MORE THAN $100,000 FOUND IN HOUSE OF DEAD RECLUSE

PROVIDENCE, R.I., Sept. 16 (UP)—The administrator of the estate of an 80-year-old woman recluse said today he has found more than $100,000 in hidden wealth in her ramshackle farmhouse since her body was found there July 4.

The administrator, Attorney John F. O'Connell, said a two-month systematic search of Miss Winifred Devine's property has turned up $3300 in a cigar box, $20,941 in vases, cartons and envelopes, $29,506 in $1 bills in old letters stored in boxes under the sink, a number of mortgages and bank books leading to $68,618 deposited in every major bank in the city.

Miss Devine's body was found two days after she died of heart disease. She had lived alone since the death of two spinster sisters and a widowed brother. She had the electricity turned off in her house several years ago and used candles for lighting.

THOMAS S. LYTLE ESTATE IS VALUED AT $246,273

The estate of Thomas S. Lytle, who was director of the old Merchants-Laclede National Bank, was valued at $246,273 in an inventory filed in Probate Court at Clayton today.

Assets included stocks with a market value of $238,696 and $3884 in cash. Unlisted securities issued by foreign companies may add $10,000 to the estate, it was indicated.

Mr. Lytle died July 26 at the age of 94. He left half of his estate to his daughter, Miss Catherine S. Lytle, with whom he lived at 6331 Westminster place, University City. The remaining half is to be held in trust with the income to be divided equally between another daughter, Mrs. James R. Moffitt, 136 Helfenstein avenue, Webster Groves, and her two sons, George and Ranken Moffitt.

TOURING SENATOR THINKS BULGANIN IS REALLY BOSS

ZURICH, Switzerland, Sept. 16 (AP)—Senator Young (Rep.), North Dakota, came out of Russia today with the idea that Premier Bulganin really is the top man in the Soviet Government and party boss Nikita Khrushchev is "just his mouthpiece."

Young, accompanied by Senator Dworshak (Rep.), Idaho, arrived from Prague after a visit to Russia and talked with reporters while changing planes for Rome.

Young said, in reply to a question, that he felt the Russians were "quite genuine" in their expressed desire for the peaceful coexistence of Communist and non-Communist systems.

CIGARETTE TAX RECEIPTS SHOW SLIGHT DECREASE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (UP) —Cigarette tax collections dropped slightly more than one-half of one per cent in fiscal 1955, the Internal Revenue Service reported today.

The Government's take for the fiscal year, which ended last June 30, was approximately $1,513,700,000. This was $9,500,000 lower than the year before.

The statement of collections gave no explanation for the drop, but an official of the revenue service noted the to cancer scare of recent years has made cigarette sales fluctuate.

DEMOCRATIC AND G.O.P. COMMITTEES LIST SPENDING

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP)—The two big national political committees matched each other almost dollar for dollar in spending in the three months ended Aug. 31.

Reports filed with the clerk of the House show that the Democratic National Committee spent $209,750 and the Republican National Committee $209,077.

Most of the money was spent on operating overhead such as salaries, printing, travel and general expenses. The big spending in support of political candidacies comes next year.

The G.O.P. committee reported total receipts of $240,465 in the three-month period, while the Democratic committee said it took in only $173,983. On that basis, Republicans ended the period with an operating surplus of some $31,000, while the Democrats went $35,000 in the red.

ARMY TESTS QUICK SHIFT OF G.I.S TO, FROM REICH

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP) —A new Army experiment in the quick exchange of troops to and from Germany was disclosed yesterday.

Labeled "Operation Flyaway," the experiment involves the rotation of 180 troops a week each way, by air, between McGuire Air Force Base, near Wrightstown, N.J., and Rhein-Main airport, Frankfurt.

The flights are conducted by non-scheduled airlines of the Aircoach Transport Association, under contract with the Military Air Transport Service. The Army said the test for speed and economy in movement of troops would be conducted for six months. The homebound soldiers are men being discharged, and the goal is to release them from duty in Germany, "process" them out of the Army and fly them home all within 48 hours.

TWO BOYS SUFFOCATE IN ABANDONED ICE BOX

COLUMBIA, S.C., Sept. 16 (AP)—Two boys suffocated yesterday in an old-fashioned ice box placed outside when the owner was evicted from his house by court order. Police identified the two boys as David Dunmore Jr., 3½ years, and William E. Smith, 3, both Negroes.

The ice box was in a yard separated from a city-operated playground only by a wire fence. The boys' grandmother, with whom they were staying while their mothers were working, thought they were playing at the park, police said.

The City of Columbia and the State of South Carolina passed statutes some time ago barring abandoned ice boxes with doors intact.

JUDGE WON'T DELAY JAILING TO LET MAN GET MARRIED

DENVER, Sept. 16 (AP)—District Judge Edward J. Keating, preparatory to sentencing James J. Shields yesterday, asked the defendant: "Do you have any statement to make before sentence is imposed?"

"Yes, could I get married first?" replied Shields.

"Absolutely not," declared the judge as he sentenced the 19-year-old youth to an indeterminate sentence in the state reformatory for assault to commit robbery.

CIGARETTE PAPER SUSPECT IN CANCER

By a Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16—An indication that cigarette paper rather than the tobacco inside may increase the possibility of lung cancer was reported today in Science, weekly magazine of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The article said cigarettes burned at temperatures as much as 500 degrees hotter than non-aromatic pipe tobacco. However, cheap cigars were found to burn almost as hot as cigarettes.

This led to the suggestion that the cigarette temperatures, up to 1300 degrees fahrenheit, released cancer-producing agents from chemicals in cigarette paper. The temperatures were more than sufficient to bring about the necessary chemical reactions, it was pointed out.

Charles R. Greene, a chemist with Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, at Whiting, Ind., reported in the magazine that he had checked the burning temperatures of various tobaccos during a lull in other work at the laboratory. He said he used tiny glass-coated recorders imbedded in the tobacco to register maximum temperatures as the tobacco was smoked.

Popular brands of cigarettes had "hot spots" varying from 1130 to 1364 degrees fahrenheit, Greene reported. Gases entering the mouth ranged from 122 to 158 degrees.

Untreated, non-aromatic pipe tobaccos burned at maximum temperatures ranging from 788 to 842 degrees, he found. Gases at the bottom of the pipe bowl at the entrance to the stem were only 86 to 122 degrees.

Greene said he believed the higher temperatures were caused partly by the use of potassium chlorate to insure even burning of cigarette tobacco and the aromatic odorants used to treat some pipe tobaccos.

PARIS SUBWAYS CRIPPLED AS TRANSIT DISPUTE GROWS

PARIS, Sept. 16 (AP)—Already deprived of busses by a strike, Parisians' plight worsened today when about half of the city's subway train employes went on a 24-hour layoff.

The stoppage crippled subway service and closed down many stations. Both subway and bus employes want a 15 per cent wage boost.

The city-owned company operating both surface and underground transportation offered a 5 per cent increase last night. This was rejected by the Communist-led General Confederation of Labor which is bargaining for the big majority of the employes.

WOMAN ROBBED OF $120 ON DOWNTOWN STREET

Mrs. Juanita Williams, 4408 Delmar boulevard, was robbed of her wallet containing $120 by a man who accosted her in the 700 block of St. Charles street yesterday, she reported to police.

Mrs. Williams said she had just withdrawn the money from the Mercantile Trust Co., 721 Locust street. While walking on the street she counted the money, she said, and then put it in the wallet. At this point the robber, a Negro, grabbed the wallet and ran.

Branch is an Air Force captain. Murray is with a lumber firm. They are friends, too..

Clothes washed in all are completely clean for the very good reason that its "controlled suds" rinse out completely. That means: no Suds Scum to dull your freshly laundered clothes.

Actual photos of transparent automatic washers prove:

Only all can wash so clean yet rinse as free!

Thick suds leave Suds Scum—as this picture clearly shows. Wash water has been drained out . . . but look what remains! A blanket of sticky suds that cling to fabrics and stubbornly refuse to be rinsed away. That's why clothes washed in thick suds can so often look disappointingly dull and gray.

See the difference with all! Again, wash water has been drained away. But this time you see no hard-to-rinse-away suds. all gets clothes completely clean because its "controlled suds" rinse out completely. RIGORS OF PROMOTION

A new chief petty officer, Charles A. Nickerson encounters heavy going while parading around Old Federal Building, Eighth and Olive streets, today in uniform of an 1800 chief petty officer. The stroll, with Chief Petty Officer Harold M. Thomas as escort, was part of Nickerson's initiation following promotion to the new rank. Fellow workers in the Navy Recruiting Station, who keep the old uniform on hand for such occasions, say the initiation is considerably less strenuous than the one Nickerson would have endured had he been aboard a ship.

Visit to Malabar

Vegetable Market At Bromfield Farm

By Leonard Hall

GETTYSBURG, O.

SEPTEMBER is a wonderful month for traveling, with golden days that are neither too hot nor too cool and—now that the holidays are over—a bit less traffic on the highways. We were up before 5 o'clock on the morning we left Possum Trot and Matt arrived soon afterward to go over plans for the farm during our short absence. And these had to be figured out carefully, since they depend largely on whether or not it rains. Then there's the Feeder Calf Sale when our fat calves go to market — and which we'll miss attending for the first time in several years.

With all this, despite our early start, it was after 7 o'clock when we pointed the car's nose northward up the highway. Mike and Tiger rode along as far as the Oakville Kennels where they left us sadly but where we know we'll pick them up in two weeks healthy and with their coats shiny and, for once, free of burs. Then we crossed the Jefferson Barracks bridge and headed for Highway 40 to the north and east. This great transcontinental highway is still a two-lane road across Illinois, beset with the constant roar of big diesel-powered trailer trucks, and little pleasure to drive at any time. But it will one day doubtless be a four-lane "freeway" or perhaps a turnpike with crossings eliminated. But it gets faster after it crosses the Indiana line and by the time we were ready to stop for the night, we'd reeled off 460 miles and were in central Ohio.

FIRST DESTINATION on our journey was Louis Bromfield's "Malabar Farm" just outside the little town of Lucas, O. This was a visit long delayed, but when we turned down the winding Pleasant Valley road in mid-morning, it was easy to see why Louis was charmed by this landscape when he came back to his boyhood home some 15 years ago. It is a land of rolling hills and valleys, and woodlands interspersed with comfortable farms, many of them watered by the lakes of the Muskingum Conservancy District which protects the Muskingum valley against floods and provides a wonderful recreation area for the many industrial cities of this region. The land has a more groomed and settled look than our rougher Ozark country, somewhat as though man had tamed it more thoroughly. But by the same token, the soils are deeper and on the whole lend themselves better to agricultural production.

As we drove along, we missed the turn-off to the Big House at Malabar and in a quarter-mile or so came upon one of the most interesting developments of this amazing farm. Tucked into a steep, wooded hillside to our left was a great old house of white-painted brick that dates back to Revolutionary War times. And beside it was the small building which Bromfield very accurately describes in his newest book, "From My Experience," as "the roadside market to end all roadside markets."

BEFORE I DESCRIBE THIS MARKET, it might be well to tell how it came into being, since this is typical of the way many things have happened at Malabar Farm. Some years ago, two young English farmers came to work at the farm. One is David Rimmer, trained at the North Wales College of Horticulture, and the other Patrick Nutt from the great Kew Gardens. In addition to taking over such extra-curricular tasks as landscaping, these boys worked at soil research, hybridization and test planting of crops. Through their efforts a vegetable garden began to grow on soils so fertile that no dusts or sprays are needed to keep the plants free of insects and disease.

First purpose of the vegetable garden was to supply quality foods for the families on the farm and for the Big House where, in addition to the Bromfields and the inevitable guests, there are always a half-dozen young fellows at the table who are working at Malabar. But soon there were surplus vegetables which visitors were allowed to buy and finally the volume of these grew to the point where there was nothing to do but establish a market. And this has been done in a remarkable way. Just beside the big brick house in the hill a huge spring pours from the sandstone rock. Already Louis had harnessed it for many uses; it supplies the house and feeds a fish pond, as well as a small shallow pond where watercress is raised. Then it spills over for livestock water for cattle and runs down through the pastures where Yorkshire pigs are kept on rotation in a pig-raising system which is exceedingly profitable.

NOW A SMALL STONE HOUSE was built beside the brick house and the water from the spring runs through it. And here the vegetables are kept on display—a truly remarkable variety and of a quality which is altogether unknown in city markets. There are Bermuda onions so big they look like pumpkins, squash of a dozen varieties, tomatoes of every kind and size. There are cucumbers and sweet corn, big white radishes, beets, chard, potatoes of remarkable size and uniformity, watercress and lettuce and a half-dozen others.

We introduced ourselves to David Rimmer, an extremely attractive and intelligent young fellow, and asked our way to the Big House, for it was getting close to noon. And a few moments later we were making up the gap of a half-dozen years with Louis Bromfield—a successful enough writer, but perhaps the most remarkable farmer in America.

The Little Professor of Piney Woods

By Mary Kimbrough

WITH not much more than a dream in his pocket, Laurence Clifton Jones went south a half-century ago and stopped in his wanderings to rest and to read on an old log in the shade of a cedar tree on a "throwed-away" Mississippi farm.

Today, that dream has become a nationally-known high school and junior college, Piney Woods Country Life School, with a 1600-acre campus, 28 buildings, 500 students, 46 teachers and an endowment of nearly $1,000,000 which poured into the Piney Woods post office last year after Jones had appeared on the television program, "This Is Your Life," and Master of Ceremonies Ralph Edwards had made a plea for listeners' dollars.

The 70-year-old, quiet-spoken Negro, known around Mississippi as "the Little Professor of Piney Woods," told the story of his dream and his school in an interview this week in St. Louis, where he came to deliver the commencement address for City Hospital and Homer G. Phillips Hospital Schools of Nursing. It was something of a homecoming for Jones, who was born in St. Joseph and once considered the principalship of Sumner High School here.

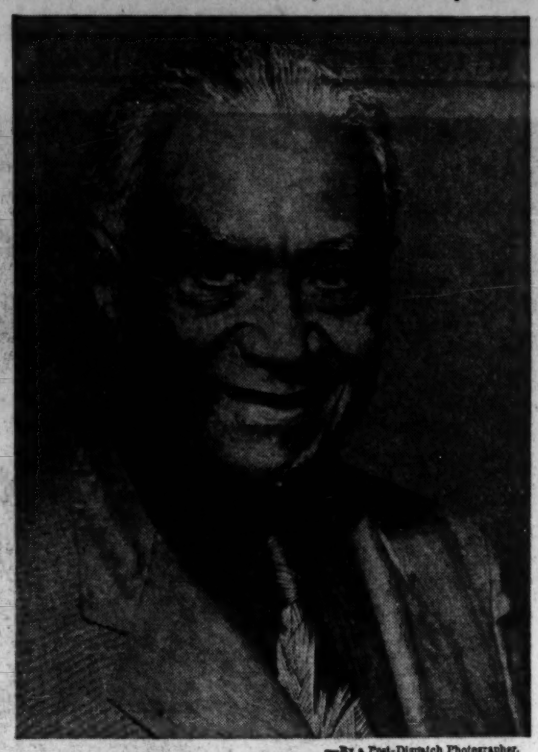

"But I couldn't do it," he said. "Something kept pushing me on. I only knew I had to go south. I didn't know why I was going or what I would do when I got there, but I knew the Lord was sending me."

And so in 1907, with a bachelor of philosophy degree from the University of Iowa—he later received an honorary doctor of philosophy degree from Cornell College—he deliberately turned his back on lucrative job offers above the Mason-Dixon line and walked into a land of hurt and heartache for members of his race. And that was how he arrived at the log in the shade of the cedar tree on the Mississippi farm.

"The natives around there called it a 'throwed-away' farm," he said. "But I was intrigued with the beauty of the cedar tree, the spring nearby, and an old log cabin which had been taken over by wild sheep."

He went there day after day, sat in the shade and read and wondered why he was there. He thought about the dream and the destiny that awaited him in a land of too much illiteracy and ignorance and too little hope. One sunny afternoon he found the answer in a Negro boy who came by to sit and talk.

"I offered him a book to read, but he couldn't. So I told him, 'If you'll come back every day, I'll teach you to read.' He did come back and then one day he brought a couple of pals with him and we read and talked together. Pretty soooon there were 25 or 30 of the young people from surrounding farms, to whom life was just drudgery and schooling unheard of. They would sit there with me in the shade of the old tree and I would tell them about life in the North, read the Bible to them, and we even had spelling bees.

—By a Post-Dispatch Photographer.

LAURENCE CLIFTON JONES, FOUNDER OF PINEY WOODS COUNTRY LIFE SCHOOL . . . HE VISITED ST. LOUIS THIS WEEK AS COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER FOR CITY HOSPITAL AND HOMER G. PHILLIPS SCHOOLS OF NURSING.

"I saw then why I was there, to bring learning to these young people."

But that meant a school building and money for books and teachers. How could a school be founded on a hollow log in the shade of a cedar tree when the entire faculty had only a dream—and $1.65 in his pocket?

JONES came up with the answer. He took his total cash assets to nearby Braxton, Miss., opened a bank account and won the support of the bank president. Then he went to visit "Uncle Ed" Taylor, owner of the abandoned farm, who despite his reputation as a hard-hearted business man, was so impressed with the young teacher's sincerity that he gave him not only the tree and the log cabin but the surrounding 40 acres and $50 in cash.

Piney Woods school was in business.

Jones and his young pupils evicted the wild sheep and cleaned and white-washed the log cabin and on rainy days the school would move indoors. He enlisted the aid of their parents, who helped him prepare the land; of a nearby sawmill operator who offered him lumber; of his friends back in Iowa and Missouri who sent dollars. White men as well as those of his own race gave him encouragement.

Little by little, Piney Woods grew. New faculty members were added, many of them retired teachers who wanted a part in the happy experiment. New buildings were constructed, including the first library in Mississippi to which Negroes were welcomed.

A modest tuition is charged those who can pay; others are just as welcome. All work their way through, even making the bricks and cutting the lumber for the construction of new buildings. The curriculum is designed to teach industrial and vocational arts, in addition to academic subjects, and the emphasis is on moral and religious training as an antidote for fear and superstition.

Jones insists that each student learn two trades, so that if he fails at one, he has a chance to succeed in another. They milk cows, learn modern and scientific farm methods, raise and can fruits and vegetables. They study animal husbandry, nutrition, homemaking arts.

The simplicity of life at Piney Woods hasn't been changed by the windfall of television dollars. There's still work to do, and there's a waiting list of students waiting for an opportunity to do it. The endowment fund will mean that others can learn, even though they haven't money for their tuition.

"Before that, I had always been able to raise $75,000 or $80,000 a year to keep us going," Jones said. "But we didn't expect any manna from heaven."

Heaven in this case was Hollywood, where Jones innocently traveled for a speaking engagement, not knowing he had been lured to the West Coast for the television show. Edwards became interested after receiving a letter—written without Jones's knowledge—from his secretary. Thereafter, every afternoon for two weeks, precisely at 5:30 when Jones was at the dairy barn, program staff members conferred by telephone with the three women in the school office, gathering up details of the little professor's life and background and making sure he would be kept in the dark.

"I was, too," he laughed. "I thought we were on our way to dinner when we stopped in this theater. I couldn't see anything on stage because of all the equipment, so I thought it must be a rehearsal for something."

BUT in a few moments the secret was out and Jones and Piney Woods were known around the country. Eddie Cantor, en route from Los Angeles to Palm Springs, recognized him on the train and talked all during the ride.

"I was on my way home," Jones said. "I had planned to stay for the Rose Bowl game, but when my secretary called and said 40 sacks of mail had come one day and 30 the next, I thought I'd better get back and see about it. I had thought maybe we'd get $700 from the appeal."

The contributions of more than $900,000 overwhelmed the schoolmaster, but he wasn't really surprised to find out how good-hearted people are.

"If I could have had any more faith in humanity than I've always had, this would have given me that extra faith," he said. "It opened my eyes even more to the inherent kindness and good will of people everywhere."

Even before the sudden Piney Woods prosperity, Jones never allowed himself to become discouraged. The first years were a heartbreaking struggle but somehow enough money always came to see them through another year.

His wife, whom he married five years after establishing the school, helped a great deal, and when she died in 1928 he took over her share of the work. Their two sons, now grown, have turned to law rather than to their father's school.

A devout Episcopalian, he once told a reporter how he had kept going in those early years.

"I just kept on praying as if everything depended on God," he said, "and kept on working as if everything depended on me. You can't get discouraged if you do that."

HERE is a help for getting longer wear out of shoes, especially the youngsters'. A new liquid you simply swab on is designed to protect the leather, keep it from sopping up water. Once it's applied, shoes can be sloshed through puddles and get thoroughly wet yet won't dry out stiff and hard. The preparation, which is based on silicones, leaves no visible film. Shoes look and feel the same as usual, can be polished to a high shine. They are easier to clean, too—mud can be washed right off under a faucet.

Answer to Question 1.

CERTAINLY women do not possess any special "intuition" that men do not possess for knowing women. But, since they look at other women from a different angle and with different motives—as to what they can imitate or how they can compete—they do see things in women to which men are blind. The same is true of men. They see other things in men to which women are completely oblivious.

Answer to Question 2.

True, according to experiments by two Ann Arbor psychologists. They studied rats whose parents were poised and had common sense and good health. These rats could endure a lot of noise. Then they mated neurotic rats with normal ones. A good many of the offspring were so neurotic that they would throw conniption fits even at the noise of jangling keys. The rat is more like human beings in its reactions than almost any other animal.

Answer to Question 3.

Not even special students in civics, according to a survey made by a psychologist. He asked 250 representative citizens to list the difficulties and qualities of a good citizen. He compared their answers to answers to the same questions given by 350 high school students who had a course in civics. The two sets of answers were so unlike that either the successful citizens didn't know what makes a good citizen, or else the students knew better than the adults.

PAT McGINNIS, president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, is on the job an average of over 10 hours a day, much of the time riding its trains to check details of their operation. He is often accompanied by his wife, who is credited with the "1955 look" now being applied to its new rolling stock—black, white and vivid Chinese vermillion.

Recently, relates Clarence Dean, McGinnis was standing in one of the New Haven yards when one of the newly-painted box cars rolled by. A nearby workman, unaware of President Pat's identity, growled, "Pipe those colors! Looks like a circus train." Then McGinnis boomed, "It has to—when I have clowns like you working for me."

Love in Lovely Venice

IN "SUMMERTIME," at LOEW'S STATE THEATER, Venice blooms as gorgeously as an exotic flower. The canal city has often been used for movie backgrounds, of course, but nothing ever so lovely as this has emerged. Director

David Lean's camera lingers affectionately on buildings, statues, gardens, bridges, squares and the bustling life on the canals in one long splash of Technicolor beauty. He captures, in his closeups of people and in his crowds a sense of romantic languor and joie de vivre. One river scene against a red ball of sun settling in the dusk is incredibly and hauntingly beautiful.

Against this background there must be a love story of course, but it is a poignant one—an adaptation of Arthur Laurents's play, "The Time of the Cuckoo." Katharine Hepburn is an American secretary, spinsterish, astringent, lean, reedy and cheery, who has saved for years for a trip to Europe. Behind her rattling conversation and busy tourist movie camera, there emerges a lonely woman, longing for love and terribly afraid of it. She meets Rossano Brazzi, handsome shopkeeper, who happens to be married and the father of several children. He both thaws her emotionally and persuades her to stifle her conscience for a while to take love where she can find it before she gives him up and leaves Venice. Miss Hepburn gives a first-rate performance of a woman caught between her morality and yearning, and Brazzi is gravely handsome and persuasive. But Lean has thrown out the third act of the play, and the ending, dramatically, is rather abrupt and a let-down. You feel the conflict between the gather-ye-rosebuds-while-ye-may school of thought and the stern strictures of convention has never been satisfactorily fought out—just abandoned.

The Shrike Becomes a Love Bird

When Jose Ferrer passed through here recently, he defended in advance any criticisms that might be made of his film production, now at the ST. LOUIS of "THE SHRIKE," the Pulitzer Prize play by Joseph Kramm about an intelligent and sensitive man, a stage director who had tried to commit suicide, and is kept prisoner in a mental ward of a city hospital to the point where he almost breaks down before he gets out by sacrificing his own integrity and becomes an abject prisoner of his possessive and domineering wife.

Sure, they had changed it to an "upbeat" ending, admitted Mr. Ferrer. As director, star of the original play and of the movie, and half owner of the film, he felt the original was too harrowing for mass movie audiences to swallow. If it had closely followed the play, Mr. Ferrer explained, it would have been appropriate only for release in "art" houses, and he wasn't interested in "art" house showing, as it wouldn't further his career. Some people had accused him of making it into a soap opera, he said, because of numerous flashbacks showing the previous life of the married couple, with the implication the deterioration of the marriage was the fault of the husband just as much as of the wife. The wife, played by June Allyson, usually the epitome of the sugary spouse, was somewhat unpleasant, but not nearly the appalling creature of the stage. And anyway, said Jose, the new treatment was actually "more realistic," including the happy ending where the couple, outside the hospital, decide to try over again.

I quote this for what it may be worth. But to my mind, this watering down of the play has taken away, in the movie, the qualities that made it so gripping on the stage. It has lost its grimness, its unrelenting intensity, its quiet and genuinely disturbing tinge of horror, the harshness of its attack of blind devotion to rigid standard psychiatric procedure which by implication charged smugness, petty tyranny, lack of understanding, even stupidity. It is not a soap opera, or just another movie, but it has lost its punch.

War Hero Plays Himself

Audie Murphy is, so far as I know, the first person ever to play himself in a movie picturization of his autobiography —it's "TO HELL AND BACK," now on the FOX screen. And he is also the only mature actor around who could convincingly play himself as a 17-year-old boy without benefit of makeup; even though now 31, Audie retains the countenance of a bashful choir-boy.

The huge CinemaScope screen is, of course, replete with battle and red explosions and carnage. This is a film about war and death. The stereophonic sound system crashes, roars and crackles all about you with the whoomp of German 88's, the chatter of machine-guns, the abrupt, angry barks of M-1's—that is, if your nerve ends have survived the first shattering impact of the martial music as the Third Division, Murphy's own, passes in review across the screen in massive blocks of men.

From behind all this clamor, however, there emerges a quietly effective picture of the amazing youth who was too undersized for the marines and navy at the age of 17, but who squeezed into the army and three years later was a veteran of seven campaigns, the possessor of 24 decorations, the most decorated American soldier of World War II, officially credited with killing or capturing 240 Germans. Of a Texas farm boy who took a full-time job at the age of 12 to support his mother and five brothers and sisters. Of a boy who won the Medal of Honor, two Silver Stars, the Distinguished Service Cross and three Purple Hearts. Who stood his ground single-handed against six German tanks and two companies of German infantry in the Colmar pocket in France, called down artillery fire on both himself and the tanks, then mounted a burning tank destroyer and used its machine gun to mow down the two attacking companies.

It is to Lt. Murphy's lasting credit that, although it is of course necessary to center the story on his own exploits, he puts the emphasis whenever possible on a sincere tribute to his own comrades and officers, that he stresses some of the unpopular (with war novelists who usually were rear-echelon commandos) virtues of guts, devotion to duty and comradeship, and gives us some gently sentimental and honestly moving sequences. Perhaps in the eyes of a devotee of Norman Mailer and Irwin Shaw the characters he told about in his autobiography and shown here are naively viewed, over-simplified, two-dimensional; he didn't see them all, or any of them, as vicious, moronic, sordid, whining, scheming, sadistic, or stupid. He just seems to have loved his fellow soldiers. Perhaps that isn't intellectual—but I have an idea Murphy comes closer to the truth than did some of the literary gentlemen who would consider it professional suicide to portray a decent soldier in a war novel.

The South American Way

"GREEN MAGIC," opening at the SHADY OAK tonight, is an interesting and well-photographed travelogue about a 7800 mile trek across South America by an Italian movie expedition in two jeeps, headed by Leonardo Bonzi. The commentary, in English, written by James Agee, is literate and never over-dramatic, and the musical accompaniment is extremely effective.

We see such sights, in Ferraniacolor, as the magnificent waterfalls of the Iguassu River at the Argentina-Brazil-Paraguay border, the vast grass savannahs of the Matto Grosso, Negroes in the frenzied Macumba dance rites, the life of a lonely jungle rubber-hunter, gauchos on the range, the Aymara Indians at a wedding celebration beside their beautiful Lake Titicaca, 12,600 feet above sea level in the Andes. There are two gruesome episodes—an unnecessarily prolonged look at the agonies of a heifer being eaten alive by the ferocious piranha fish, and a mussurana snake, after a combat with its deadly enemy, the jaracara snake, swallowing its opponent alive.

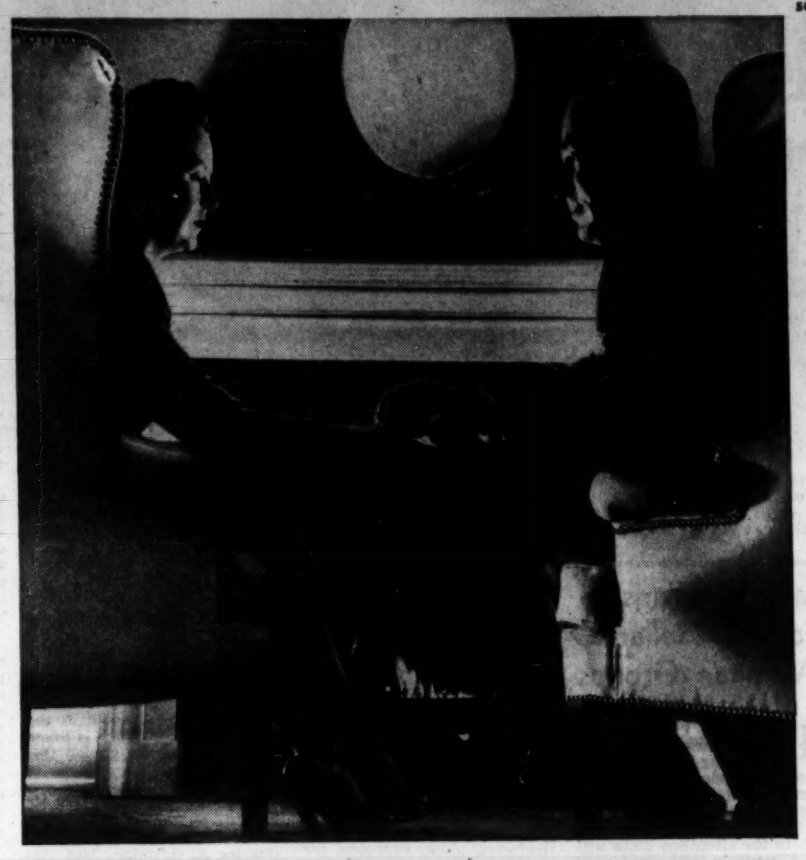

'Gift From the Sea'

The Pattern of Good Relationships

It Is Like a Dance, Gay and Swift and Free, Says Author—One Must Accept Ebb and Flow

By Anne Morrow Lindbergh

This is the sixth installment of one of the most discussed books of our time, Anne Morrow Lindbergh's "Gift From the Sea," the current No. 1 best-seller among non-fiction books.

"THE ONLY REAL SECURITY IS NOT IN OWNING OR POSSESSING, NOT IN DEMANDING OR EXPECTING, NOT IN HOPING EVEN. SECURITY IN A RELATIONSHIP LIES NEITHER IN LOOKING BACK TO WHAT IT WAS IN NOSTALGIA, NOR FORWARD TO WHAT IS MIGHT BE IN DREAD OR ANTICIPATION, BUT LIVING IN THE PRESENT RELATIONSHIP AND ACCEPTING IT AS IT IS NOW."

WOMAN must come of age by herself. This is the essence of "coming of age"—to learn how to stand alone. She must learn not to depend on another, nor to feel she must prove her strength by competing with another. In the past, she has swung between these two opposite poles of dependence and competition, of Victorianism and Feminism. Both extremes throw her off balance; neither is the center, the true center of being a whole woman. She must find her true center alone. She must become whole. She must, it seems to me, as a prelude to any "two solitudes" relationship, follow the advice of the poet to become "world to oneself for another's sake."

In fact, I wonder if both man and woman must not accomplish this heroic feat. Must not man also become world to himself? Must he not also expand the neglected sides of his personality; the art of inward looking that he has seldom had time for in his active outward-going life; the personal relationships which he has not had as much chance to enjoy; the so-called feminine qualities, aesthetic, emotional, cultural and spiritual, which he has been too rushed to develop. Perhaps both men and women in America may hunger, in our material, outward, active, masculine culture, for the supposedly feminine qualities of heart, mind and spirit—qualities which are actually neither masculine nor feminine, but simply human qualities that have been neglected. It is growth along these lines that will make us whole, and will enable the individual to become world to himself.

And this greater wholeness in each person, this being "world to oneself," does this not mean greater self-sufficiency and therefore, inevitably, greater separation between man and woman? With growth, it is true, comes differentiation and separation, in the sense that the unity of the tree-trunk differentiates as it grows and spreads into limbs, branches and leaves. But the tree is still one, and its different and separate parts contribute to one another. The two separate worlds or the two solitudes will surely have more to give each other than when each was a meager half. "A complete sharing between two people is an impossibility," writes the German poet, Rilke, "and whenever it seems, nevertheless, to exist, it is a narrowing, a mutual agreement which robs either one member or both of his fullest freedom and development. But, once the realization is accepted that, even between the closest human beings, infinite distances continue to exist, a wonderful living side by side can grow up, if they succeed in loving the distance between them which makes it possible for each to see the other whole and against a wide sky!"

This is a beautiful image, but who who can achieve it in actual life? Where has one seen such a marriage except in a poet's correspondence? It is true that Rilke's two solitudes or MacMurray's fully personal relationships are as yet somewhat theoretical concepts. But theory precedes exploration; we must use any signposts that exist to help us through the wilderness. For we are, actually pioneers trying to find a new path through the maze of tradition, convention and dogma. Our efforts are part of the struggle to mature the conception of relationships between men and women—in fact all relationships. In such a light, every advance in understanding has value. Every step, even a tentative one, counts. And though we may seldom come upon a perfect argonauta life cycle, we have all had glimpses of them, even in our own lives for brief periods. And these brief experiences give us insight into what the new relation might be.

ON this island I have had such a glimpse into the life of the argonauta. After my week alone I have had a week of living with my sister. I will take from it one day. I shall examine it, set it before me as I have set the shells on my desk. I shall turn it around like a shell, testing and analyzing its good points. Not that my life will ever become like this day —a perfect one plucked out of a holiday week; there are no perfect lives. The relation of two sisters is not that of a man and a woman. But it can illustrate the essence of relationships. The light shed by any good relationship illuminates all relationships. And one perfect day can give clues for a more perfect life—the mythical life, maybe, of the argonauta.

We wake in the same small room from the deep sleep of good children, to the soft sound of wind through the casuarina trees and the gentle sleep-breathing rhythm of waves on the shore. We run bare-legged to the beach, which lies smooth, flat, and glistening with fresh wet shells after the night's tides. The morning swim has the nature of a blessing to me, a baptism, a rebirth to the beauty and wonder of the world. We run back tingling to hot coffee on our small back porch. Two kitchen chairs and a child's table between us fill the stoop on which we sit. With legs in the sun we laugh and plan our day.

We wash the dishes lightly to no system, for there are not enough to matter. We work easily and instinctively together, not bumping into each other as we go back and forth about our tasks. We talk as we sweep, as we dry, as we put away, discussing a person or a poem or a memory. And since our communication seems more important to us than our chores, the chores are done without thinking.

And then to work, behind closed doors neither of us would want to invade. What release to write so that one forgets oneself, forgets one's companion, forgets where one is or what one is going to do next—to be drenched in work as one is drenched in sleep or in the sea. Pencils and pads and curling blue sheets alive with letters heap up on the desk. And then, pricked by hunger, we rise at last in a daze, for a late lunch. Reeling a little from our intense absorption, we come back with relief to the small chores of getting lunch, as if they were lifelines to reality—as if we had indeed almost drowned in the sea of intellectual work and welcomed the firm ground of physical action under our feet.

AFTER an hour or so of practical jobs and errands we are ready to leave them again. Out onto the beach for the afternoon where we are s ept clean of duties, of the particular, of the practical. We walk up the beach in silence, but in harmony, as the sandpipers ahead of us move like a corps of ballet dancers keeping time to some interior rhythm inaudible to us. Intimacy is blown away. Emotions are carried out to sea. We are even free of thoughts, at least of their articulation; clean and bare as whitened driftwood; empty as shells ready to be filled up again with the impersonal sea and sky and wind. A long afternoon soaking up the outer world.

And when we are heavy and relaxed as the seaweed under our feet, we return at dusk to the warmth and intimacy of our cottage. We sip sherry at leisure in front of a fire. We start supper and we talk. Evening is the time for conversation. Morning is for mental work, I feel, the habit of school-days persisting in me. Afternoon is for physical tasks, the out-of-door jobs. But evening is for sharing, for communication. Is it the uninterrupted dark expanse of the night after the bright segmented day, that frees us to each other? Or does the infinite space and infinite darkness dwarf and chill us, turning us to seek small human sparks?

Communication—but not for too long. Because good communication is stimulating as black coffee, and just as hard to sleep after. Before we sleep we go out again into the night. We walk up the beach under the stars. And when we are tired of walking we lie flat on the sand under a bowl of stars. We feel stretched, expanded to take in their compass. They pour into us until we are filled with stars, up to the brim.

This is what one thirsts for, I realize, after the smallness of the day, of work, of details, of intimacy—even of communication, one thirsts for the magnitude and universality of a night full of stars, pouring into one like a fresh tide.

And then at last, from the immensity of interstellar space, we swing down to a particular beach. We walk back to the lights of the cottage glowing from the dark mist of trees. Small, safe, warm and welcoming, we recognize our pin-point human matchlight against the mammoth chaos of the dark. Back again to our good child's sleep.

What a wonderful day, I think, turning it around in my hand to its starting point again. What has made it so perfect? Is there not some clue here in the pattern of this day? To begin with, it is a pattern of freedom. Its setting has not been cramped in space or time. An island, curiously enough, gives a limitless feeling of both. Nor has the day been limited in kinds of activity. It has a nautral balance of physical, intellectual and social life. It has an easy unforced rhythm. Work is not deformed by pressure. Relationship is not strangled by claims. Intimacy is tempered by lightness of touch. We have moved through our day like dancers, not needing to touch more than lightly because we were instinctively moving to the same rhythm.

A good relationship has a pattern like a dance and is built on some of the same rules. The partners do not need to hold on tightly, because they move confidently in the same pattern, intricate but gay and swift and free, like a country dance of Mozart's. To touch heavily would be to arrest the pattern and freeze the movement, to check the endlessly changing beauty of its unfolding. There is no place here for the possessive clutch, the clinging arm, the heavy hand; only the barest touch in passing. Now arm in arm, now face to face, now back to back—it does not matter which. Because they know they are partners moving to the same rhythm, creating a pattern together, and being invisibly nourished by it.

The joy of such a pattern is not only the joy of creation or the joy of participation, it is also the joy of living in the moment. Lightness of touch and living in the moment are intertwined. One cannot dance well unless one is completely in time with the music, not leaning back to the last step or pressing forward to the next one, but poised directly on the present step as it comes. Perfect poise on the beat is what gives good dancing its sense of ease, of timelessness, of the eternal. It is what Blake was speaking of when he wrote:

He who bends to himself a joy
Doth the winged life destroy;
But he who kisses the joy as it flies
Lives in Eternity's sunrise.

The dancers who are perfectly in time never destroy "the winged life" in each other or in themselves.

But how does one learn this technique of the dance? Why is it so difficult? What makes us hesitate and stumble? It is fear, I think, that makes one cling nostalgically to the last moment or clutch greedily toward the next. Fear destroys "the winged life." But how to exorcise it? It can only be exorcised by its opposite, love. When the heart is flooded with love there is no room in it for fear, for doubt, for hesitation. And it is this lack of fear that makes for the dance. When each partner loves so completely that he has forgotten to ask himself whether or not he is loved in return; when he only knows that he loves and is moving to its music—then, and then only, are two people able to dance perfectly in tune to the same rhythm.

BUT is this all to the relationship of the argonauta—this private pattern of two dancers perfectly in time? Should they not also be in tune with a larger rhythm, a natural swinging of the pendulum between sharing and solitude; between the intimate and the abstract; between the particular and universal, the near and the far? And is it not the swinging of the pendulum between these opposite poles that makes a relationship nourishing? Yeats once said that the supreme experience of life was "to share profound thought and then to touch." But it takes both.

First touch, intimate touch of the personal and particular (the chores in the kitchen, the talk by the fire) then the loss of intimacy in the great stream of the impersonal and abstract (the silent beach, the bowl of stars overhead). Both partners are lost in a common sea of the universal which absorbs and yet frees, which separates and yet unites. Is this not what the more mature relationship, the meeting of two solitudes, is meant to be? The double-sunrise stage was only intimate and personal. The oyster bed was caught in the particular and the functional. But the argonauta, should they not be able to swing from the intimate and the particular and the functional out into the abstract and the universal, and then back to the personal again?

And in this d m a g e of the pendulum swinging in easy rhythm between opposite poles, is there not a clue to the problem of relationships as a whole? Is there not here even a hint of an understanding and an acceptance of the winged life of relationships, of their eternal ebb and flow, of their inevitable intermittency? "The life of the s p i r i t," said Saint-Exupery, "the veritable life, is intermittent and only the life of the mind is constant. . . . The spirit . . . alternates between total vision and absolute blindness. Here is a man, for example, who loves his farm—but there are moments which he sees in it only a collection of unrelated objects. Here is a man who loves his wife—but there are moments when he sees in love n o t h i n g but burdens, hindrances, constraints. Here is a man who loves music—but there are moments when it cannot reach him."

The "veritable life" of our emotions and our relationships also is intermittent. When you love someone you do not love them all the time, in exactly the same way, from moment to moment. It is an impossibility. It is even a lie to pretend to. And yet this is exactly what most of us demand. We have so little faith in the ebb and flow of life, of love, of relationships. We leap at the flow of the tide and resist in terror its ebb. We are afraid it will never return. We insist on permanency, on duration, on continuity; when the only continuity possible, in life as in love, is in growth, in fluidity—in freedom, in the sense that the dancers are free, barely touching as they pass, but partners in the same pattern. The only real security is not in owning or possessing, not in demanding or expecting, not in hoping, even security in a relationship lies neither in looking back at what it was in nostalgia, nor forward to what it might be in d r e a d or anticipation, but living in the present relationship and accepting it as it is now. For relationships, too, must be like islands. One must accept them for what they are here and now, within their limits—islands, surrounded and interrupted by the sea, continually visited and abandoned by the tides. One must accept the security of the winged life, of ebb and flow, of intermittency.

INTERMITTENCY—an impossible lesson for human beings to learn. How can one learn to live t h r o u g h the ebb-tides of one's existence? How can one learn to take the trough of the wave? It is easier to understand here on the beach, where the breathlessly still ebb-tides reveal another life below the level which mortals usually reach. In this crystalline moment of suspense, one has a sudden revelation of the secret kingdom at the bottom of the sea. Here in the shallow flats one finds, wading through warm ripples, great horse-conchs pivoting on a leg; white sand dollars, marble medallions engraved in the mud; and myriads of bright-colored cochina-clams, glistening in the foam, their shells opening and shutting like butterflies' wings. So beautiful is the still hour of the sea's withdrawal, as beautiful as the sea's return when the encroaching waves pound up the beach, pressing to reach those dark rumpled chains of seaweed which mark the last high tide.

Perhaps this is the most important thing for me to take back from beach-living: simply the memory that each cycle of the tide is valid; each cycle of the wave is valid; each cycle of a relationship is valid. And my shells? I can sweep them all into my pocket. They are only there to remind me that the sea recedes and returns eternally.

Contract Bridge

By Ely Culbertson

NO one can hope to engage in logical slam-bidding without knowing the arithmetic that applies to this field.

It is quite all right to take a 50-50 gamble for a small slam, because the profit, if the bid succeeds, is roughly equal to the loss if it fails. But when it comes to grand-slam ventures, the formula is very different. Now, if the player jettisons a small slam and tries unsuccessfully for the big bonus, he gives up from about 800 to about 1700 points (depending on vulnerability and the slam's denomination) when all he could have gained was 500 to 750 points. Very obviously, he needs a lot of extra insurance for this sort of venture, and in fact he should go out for the grand slam only when he has at least a two-to-one chance of making it.

Let's consider a deal in which the grand-slam urge was extremely expensive.

South, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.
North-South 90 on score.

	♠QJ1052 ♥AKJ9 ♦AJ10 ♣10
♠6 ♥8643 ♦KQ95 ♣Q642	NORTH WEST EAST SOUTH	♠3 ♥Q1072 ♦743 ♣J9853
	♠AK9874 ♥5 ♦862 ♣AK7

The bidding:

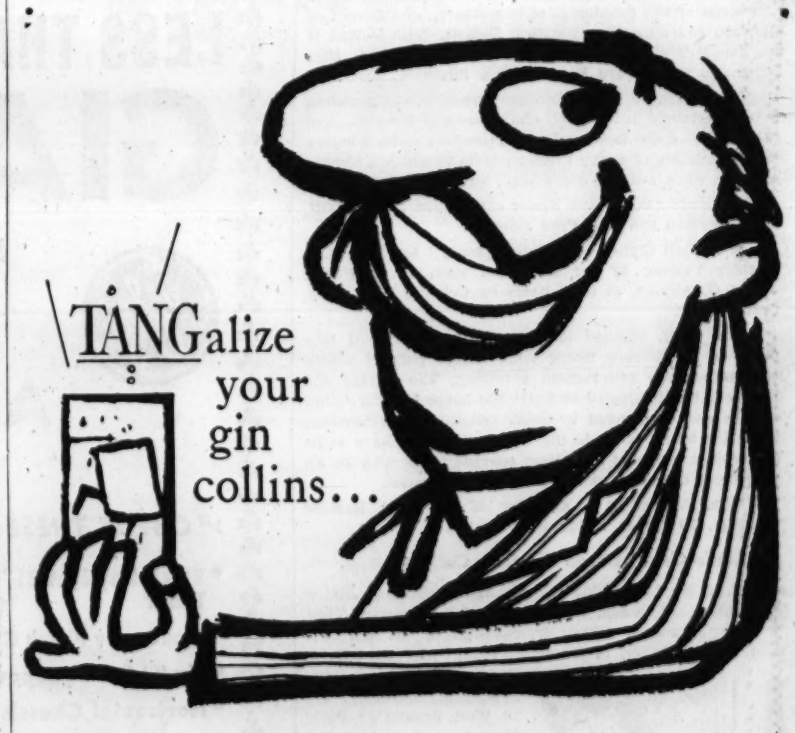

South	West	North	East
1♠	Pass	6♠	Pass
7♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

Luck in the heart suit would have brought home the contract, but that luck was not present and South went down one.

Discussing the bidding, South said that since he had a much stronger opening bid than North could expect, he (South) had every right to carry the small-slam contract further.

Superficially, this was a sound argument; actually, it was not. North was not guaranteeing the success of a six-spade contract—he was merely saying, as he had the right to say, that in his opinion South would have a fair chance for six spades. At the part-score North was afraid than any bid short of six spades might be dropped—and, to repeat, he had the right to speculate for a small slam.

Miss Jean Alexander To Make Debut at Tea

By Margaret Allen Ruhl

THE Georgian colonial home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Z. Alexander at 14 Woodcliffe road, Ladue, will be the scene today of the debut party of their daughter, Miss Jean Harwood Alexander. About 175 guests have been invited to meet the debutante between 4 and 6 o'clock, among them her aunt, Mrs. Richard Wagner of Birmingham, Mich., who arrived Wednesday.

Mrs. Alexander and her daughter are to receive at the living room mantel, on which stand heavy brass candelabra filled with ivy green candles, each candle seeming to emerge from candle vases filled with pale pink carnations and ivy.

Miss Alexander will wear pale pink batiste, the entire dress fashioned of tiny pleated ruffles in horizontal rows. A crushed batiste girdle holding the flared skirt and pink slippers complete her costume with which she will carry pink carnations and ivy. Her mother's gown is pale gray-blue faille, a sheath with a yoke of matching lace. Her flowers, blush pink orchids, are to be worn as a corsage.

A family point venice lace cloth covers the tea table in the dining room and a silver and crystal epergne in the center holds yellow carnations and white grapes. On the attractive open terrace which is surrounded by ivy and myrtle and planted with white chrysanthemums, stands the punch table, skirted with yellow organdy and festooned with greenery and flowers.

The debutantes serving will be Miss Barbara Burton, Miss Barbara Schlueter, Miss Talbot Leland, Miss Molly Goodson, Miss Sarah Lund, Miss Susanne Woods, Miss Nora Rand, Miss Marie Garesche, Miss Carolyn Haffner and Miss Terry McIlvaney.

Tomorrow Mrs. Wagner will give a luncheon for her niece at the University Club and Monday Miss Alexander will return to Bennett Junior College, Millbrook, N.Y., for her second year. She is a John Burroughs School graduate. Two weeks hence she will fly home to be a maid of honor at the Veiled Prophet ball.

Miss Boehmer to Be Honored at Dinner.

SEVENTY-FIVE debutantes and their escorts will be guests at the St. Louis Country Club's barbecue party tomorrow night in honor of Miss Myrtle Lambert Boehmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gustave H. Boehmer Jr. Hosts and hostesses for the affair will be her uncles and aunts, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bond Lambert Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Donaldson L. Lambert.

Miss Boehmer, who is to appear as a maid of honor in the Veiled Prophet's court at the ball Oct. 4, made her debut earlier in the season at an outdoor dance at her parents' home, 620 South Warson road, Ladue.

Parties Today in Honor of Debutantes.

MRS. ELMER G. KIEFER, 29 Clermont lane, Ladue, was hostess today at a luncheon at the Woman's Club in honor of two debutantes of this season, Miss Anna Lea Ellerman and Miss Joan Margaret DeWitt. Miss DeWitt is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William O. DeWitt; Miss Ellerman's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Edgar W. Ellerman.

The guests, 16 of the honored guests' contemporaries, were entertained in the small dining room of the club. Red roses centered the table and each place was marked with a favor consisting of a tiny French poodle to which a corsage of roses, some red and some pink, was attached.

At another table Mrs. Kiefer entertained Mrs. DeWitt, Mrs. Ellerman and Mrs. Fred Joseph.

A cocktail supper will be given tonight for Miss Mary Koehler Vollmer by her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. James G. Alfring, at their home on Colonial Hills drive, Creve Coeur.

The party, planned to begin at 7 o'clock, will take place on the terrace where large flower pots of yellow chrysanthemums will furnish a setting. The terrace and lawn will be illuminated by hurricane lamps holding yellow candles and surrounded by small yellow chrysanthemums, while the buffet table, in the dining room will have as its centerpiece a crystal and silver epergne filled with an arrangement of yellow and white chrysanthemums.

Miss Vollmer is a daughter of the Karl Koehler Vollmers, 20 Upper Ladue road, Ladue.

St. Louis Girls Attend Eastern Colleges.

THREE St. Louis girls are enrolled at Bennett Junior College, Millbrook, N.Y., for the fall semester. They are: Miss Jean Alexander, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Z. Rosen, 2 Overhills drive, Ladue. Miss Alexander and Miss Rand are seniors and Miss Green, a freshman.

At Wellesley (Mass.) College this year will be Miss Susan Dubinsky, Miss Norma Schwarz Mendle and Miss Katherine Elizabeth Meyerand. Miss Dubinsky is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold D. Dubinsky, 1145 Hillside drive, Richmond Heights; Miss Mendle's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Maurice E. Mendle, 748 Cella road, Ladue, and Miss Meyerand is the daughter of the Russell G. My Day

Western Music by Thai Band

By Eleanor Roosevelt

BANGKOK, Thailand.

AT the second session of the World Federation of United Nations Associations meetings here we had a long discussion on the admission to membership of an East German association. No country can have more than one membership, so if the East German group were admitted to full membership that would be a tacit recognition that there are two German nations and up till now politically, that has never been accepted.

It seemed to me that our discussion has no point and yet the executive committee had voted to admit the West German association to full membership and the East German association to associate membership. The theory was that East Germany is a territory. But who are we to decide this?

The only solution that I can see is to be completely realistic and say that these questions can be settled only by the government itself, and therefore we must postpone all action on such questions till they are settled by those who can settle them.

THE PURPOSE of all associations for the United Nations is two-fold—first, to acquaint as many of our people in our various countries as we can with the value of the United Nations to get them to know its work and that of the specialized agencies and, secondly, to encourage as many people as possible to help in this work wherever it is feasible.

The value of the federation and of the annual meeting is for us to get as much information from one another as we can as to how each of us achieves these two purposes. It is valuable, too, for delegates from so many countries to meet together and become acquainted.

Mme. Pibulsonggram, wife of the Prime Minister, gave a delightful buffet supper for all the delegates last Thursday and invited also many of the diplomatic corps.

IT WAS A GAY and festive sight and two musical groups played alternately. One band gave us Western music. When the Thai orchestra played it was fascinating to me to see the various instruments, not so very different from the Balinese. Still, I was told that these are Burmese. The singing seemed to me very different from any I had ever heard. They said it told the story of a man seeking his wife, and it was certainly plaintive in parts.

We had about an hour to sight-see in the noon recess and found a temple open where there was the largest reclining golden Buddha I have ever seen.

Martha Carr's OPINION

REG U S PAT OFF

Dear Martha:

I AM 17 and very much in love. I know what you're thinking, that I'm too young, but I know it's the real thing. The only trouble is that this boy has been in trouble with the police and my parents say he isn't the one for me. What can I do to convince them that we are in love and that his love for me has made him wake up?

SO IN LOVE.

You won't like to hear this, but for your sake I hope you can't convince them. It's his place to do so, anyway. It isn't right to keep on blaming someone for a mistake if he tries to live it down. But the burden of proof must be on this boy. Let him show he is sincere in his desire to straighten up and keep out of trouble. However, the shadow of his mistake will hang over him for a long time to come—maybe always—and your parents naturally don't want you to have to walk in that shadow too. Better listen to them.

Dear Martha:

MAYBE I'M OLD-FASHIONED, but it seems to me that boys of today prefer girls who cheapen themselves by sitting in the show with every Tom, Dick and Harry, wearing so much make-up you can hardly distinguish their features, and using vile language. Please tell me I am wrong, but that is the impression I get from every boy I meet. R.C.

I don't think you're old-fashioned, but neither do I think you've met the right boys—and don't say there aren't plenty of them around. You'd be surprised at the number of letters I get from boys asking where they can meet girls who know how to act and aren't coarse or crude. Maybe some of the boys would like to speak up on the subject. I'll be glad to listen.

Dear Martha:

I AM A WIDOW planning to be married very soon. Is it proper for my future husband to give me an engagement ring? MRS. NORTHSIDE.

Certainly. Those who are being married a second time seldom make a formal engagement announcement, but an engagement ring is proper.

IN ANSWER TO Ruth: If your parents say it's all right to give this boy a birthday present, I think a religious medal would be an appropriate choice and certainly one that he will cherish a long time.

IN ANSWER TO Elaine: It is proper to send a gift to the shower for the bride even though you can't attend.

Send today for Martha Carr's free leaflets especially for teen-agers. "E for Etiquette" and "Popularity for Girls." Please inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

Rough Going

By Ruth Millett

MOTHERS all over the country are heaving a big sigh of relief. Their children are back in school.

If that makes them sound heartless and like selfish women who just don't want their children around—stop and think what having the children out of school for three months means to mothers in the cities.

RUTH MILLETT

It means that until their children are old enough to take summer jobs, that they are completely at loose ends.

ALL RECREATION HAS TO BE PLANNED FOR. What is there for, say, a boy of 9 to do during three long months if he lives in a city apartment or in a house with a small yard?

He can't be allowed to roam around on his own. It isn't safe any more simply to turn a child loose. He can't wander off to the old swimming hole. He has to be taken to a swimming pool by Mama.

Unless he is fortunate enough to live within walking distance of a supervised playground there's no place for him to let off steam, unless his mother sees that he is taken somewhere.

WITH PARENTS FRIGHTENED BY STORIES of juvenile delinquency even neighborhood gangs are suspect. And so for three months each year mothers of school-age children rack their brains and wear themselves out trying to keep their children entertained and supervised.

The time has gone when summer vacation meant that children were turned loose to grow and develop by being simply let alone.

Now Mama has to take over where the school leaves off. And however hard she tries to keep the children busy and happy she is never long without hearing the complaint, "What can I do now?"

Beauty After 40

By Edyth Thornton McLeod

"WHAT is the best way to decide on a basic color scheme? I have pinky skin, brown hair and hazel eyes. Of course my hair has some gray in it. —M.B."

Choose your most becoming color, perhaps brown for you. Make that the background of your wardrobe; classic, basic dresses, shoes, hats and gloves, brown coat or a tweed with brown predominating.

You can accessorize with green, pink, pale blue, beige and, for real fashion, wear black accessories with brown. Always keep in mind your way of life. If you are "social," a party goer and giver, you will need more dressy clothes. If you are an outdoor, casual type, put your money in handsome suits, cashmere coats, sweaters and tweeds.

"What kind of clothes should a mature woman wear on picnics and other outdoor affairs? I won't wear slacks, pedal pushers or shorts! Maybe I am old-fashioned but I see myself coming—and going!—Homemaker."

Not old-fashioned, just wise. Wear the attractive culotte skirts, divided and useful for outdoor and casual wear. They are attractive and feminine. With culottes I like a sweater and matching cardigan.

Black just doesn't look at all bride-like. And Beauty After Forty wishes you well!

Frank Sinatra, while in New York, saw a car trailing him all over the city just before he returned here. He stopped his car, says Frankie, went back to the driver of the other automobile and asked what the X Y Z he was up to. Turned out to be the process server in 20th-Fox's suit against him for $1,000,000. Only at was Sunday—and you can't serve papers on Sunday. But the server was making sure Frankie wouldn't leave town.

"Now I am looking for a good musical for TV, something like a Max Liebman 'Spectacular.'" Maureen was offered "Cavalcade" by Twentieth's TV division, but turned it down. Linda Darnell will do it. No. 1 on Maureen's agenda right now is the lawsuit with ex-mate Will Price over daughter Bronwyn.

Boys, Too, Seek Dates With Money

By Elinor Williams

GOLD-DIGGERS!

This usually refers to girls who get a date-gleam in their eyes not because they like a boy, but because they like his car or because he has orchid-money in his billfold.

But there are masculine gold-diggers, too, and they seem worse, somehow, than feminine ones. They're boys who obviously prefer Miss Money-Bags with the brightest, biggest car, the largest home, the most money to spend. Here's a letter from a girl who has met one of these money-mad boys—a boy who doesn't realize that everybody recognizes his little game:—

"I wish there were some way to get crazy ideas out of boys' heads," she writes. "They say that girls like boys with nice cars and lots of money. This is also common among boys. They prefer girls with money, even if they are older and not very nice.

"I am 19 and I recently fell in love with a young man about 26. We were getting along fine until another girl started to invite him out. She has a very nice car—which I never dream of having—and money to spend.

"He goes around with her now. He used just any excuse to leave me because he wanted to date her, although she is not very nice and has a bad name in town. So you see girls aren't the only ones who are gold-diggers."

The Little Woman

More Ice Cream Addicts

By Clarissa Start

WE'VE had quite a few comments on a recent column concerning the case of the ice cream addicts, those sad victims who are going down the peach, pistachio, pecan ripple road to the alteration department. Most frequent comment was, "That sounds just like us." But one reader, who signs herself "Ice Cream Anonymous" sounded a warning to social ice cream eaters to give it up before it is too later.

Clarissa Start.

Her downfall, she writes, came about when a doctor advised her husband to substitute ice cream for his customary bedtime snack of chili and fried oysters. The husband never quite succumbed but the little woman, perhaps weakened by daytime hours spent corralling one child in diapers, one in training pants, soon found herself hopelessly enmeshed in the habit. But let her give her own touching testimonial:

"Boy, what a night, what a hangover," she writes of her most recent bout with butterscotch sauce. "I can still see gobs of gook in front of my eyes. Sunday morning my two comforts in my old age aroused me at their usual disgusting hour and as I stumbled into the kitchen to boil their eggs, I noticed there was still a little of IT left and so I indulged in an overdue chaser."

THIS VICTIM, you see, has crossed over from craving it at night to craving it in the morning to ease the pain.

An even sadder case cornered us to relate a vacation experience he'd had. He was visiting relatives in Kansas and you know how it is in Kansas. Instead of getting it over the counter, his relatives go in for the home made variety. (Or "Heimgemacht" if you grew up in South St. Louis.)

The last day of his vacation, they whooped it up by making a giant freezer of banana ice cream. His eyes glaze and he drools as he relives this part of the story. Four dishes for dessert. Bedtime and a little left in the freezer. About a quart, he estimates. He polished it off.

IT WAS SHORTLY before dawn when the men from Mars arrived.

"In flying saucers," he explains, "in a formation similar to ducks going South. They landed on a wall where they sat like pigeons." (We will not comment on this bird analogy but readers of "Lost Week End" will recall that the first d.t. symptoms take the form of small furry and feathered animals.)

"One by one they flew to the ground and their saucers turned into tanks," he continued. "It seems that we had the impression they were going to take the children away so my wife began smuggling our daughter out of town, wrapped in a blanket so they'd think she was sick. We figured they wouldn't bother with a sick child. I was hiding our son when one of the men caught us. He spoke perfect English and when I asked him about it, he said he'd been educated in Canada."

On this rather inconclusive note, our friend's dream ended. He returned to St. Louis the next day but he's had a somewhat uneasy feeling ever since. He doesn't expect the situation to be improved any when the ducks begin flying south for the winter.

"But that's not my problem," he says. "My problem is where can I get some more home made banana ice cream? I'd like to go back and see what happens next."

A good solution for killing mildew on paint is made by adding six ounces of trisodium phosphate to 10 gallons of water and then pouring in one-half pint of household ammonia. After this has been scrubbed over the surface, flush with plenty of clean water.

New Social Season

The Spirit of Geneva

By Betty Beale

WASHINGTON.

IT'S time to take stock of the 1955-56 social season here, and if you ask me it's going to be a bull market.

Betty Beale

One reason you can bet on a general rise of activity in the glamor department is prosperity. Democrats say it's phoney, but whether real or phoney, money's flowing easily, and when money's really flowing it flows into entertainment and the makings thereof—clothes, music and all the trimmings.

Another and most interesting cause for more capering is the Spirit of Geneva. If the Russians are going to keep up the smiling cuteness they rocked the world with this past summer, they and the satellite missions here will have to put out the welcome mat for all to see. They've also got to do it differently than in the past.

"IF THEY'RE READY to take the pig out of the parlor and create a better atmosphere, we'll try to help them," said a State Department spokesman. Since they are acting more amenable, he said, they can now expect higher VIPs of the United States at their parties than ever before. With the VIPs, of course, will go a more fashionable selection of Capital residents.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles has never set foot in the Soviet Embassy, and for good reason, but the coming year might see a change. Then there are those 28 Senators and Congressmen who visited Russia this summer and may want to keep the Iron Curtain lifted.

I CALLED THE SOVIET EMBASSY to see what effect they thought the Spirit of Geneva would have on their social functions. In Stalin's time they answered the phone rudely, grunted in the negative and hung up on you. A year ago they were unsmiling, business-like and non-committal. This time the embassy diplomat I talked to was the acme of politeness and hospitality. Wow, what a change!

He said that the Vice President and Secretary of State had always been invited to their big October Revolution party on November 7, but had never come. "And it isn't for me to judge," he said delicately, "whether they will come this time or not." But he added, "We do think more Americans will come and we will be very happy to see them."

Doctor's Notebook

The Most Dangerous Week

By Glen R. Shepherd, M.D.

THE most dangerous time in anybody's life is the first week after birth. In that time, two or three out of every 100 babies die. In no other period of life do so many die. About 75,000 died last year in their first week of life.

If the first week is dangerous, the first day or two is the most dangerous. Then it is that the newborn baby must make all kinds of adjustments to independent living — especially breathing—on its own.

From one-third to one-half of these babies who die actually suffocate. Something goes wrong with their breathing ability or with the transfer of life-sustaining oxygen from the air into the infant's blood stream. What happens?

That is the question that medical research is trying to answer. It is actually two questions: (1) Why does a normal baby start breathing in the first place, and (2) What goes wrong with respiration in the babies who die?

DR. HERBERT C. MILLER, professor of pediatrics of the University of Kansas School of Medicine, is doing pioneer work on these questions. His research group of physicians and nurses are studying and charting the breathing rates and rhythms of newborn babies in greater detail than has ever been done before. They are trying to find answers to several questions. Three important ones are: (1) How to predict which babies will have serious breathing troubles after birth, (2) How to save these babies, and (3) What is the cause of hyaline membrane of the lung?

This membrane coats the lung air-sacs in many newborn babies who die. It prevents air getting into the blood stream, a sort of internal suffocation. It doesn't come from baby breathing in the liquid in which he floats before birth. Dr. Miller's work first cast doubt on this formerly accepted theory now discarded.

Nor does hyaline membrane result from concentrated oxygen as is the case with retrolental fibroplasia, a similar membrane of the eye afflicting prematures kept in oxygen-rich atmospheres.

ANOTHER THING Dr. Miller and his group discovered. The breathing rate after birth gives a clue as to what will happen. Normally a newborn baby breathes 40 times a minute. If it continues at this rate, it will be all right as far as respiratory troubles go. If it is born breathing much faster and then the rate slows down to 40, it will be all right.

But if the newborn baby breathes faster than 40 hour by hour after birth, and especially if its breathing is greatly irregular, it likely will die. Putting it into oxygen won't always save it. At least, many babies with this respiratory trouble have died despite being kept in oxygen-enriched atmospheres.

This discovery helps get physicians off the horns of a dilemma into which the oxygen cause of RLF placed them. For 25 years, physicians have thought that extra oxygen in the air was vital to babies having breathing difficulty. But too much oxygen for too long can cause retrolental fibroplasia, especially in prematures. RLF is a leading cause of blindness.

Moderate mixtures of oxygen, up to 40 per cent, are just as lifesaving as are richer mixtures and don't bring on blinding RLF.

SHE DANCED at his Wedding

By Vida Hurst

CHAPTER SIX.

PETER GRANT'S voice was cheerful. No one listening would suspect that the woman he loved had just married his best friend. Donna told herself the least she could do would be to match it even though it was an act. It was easier for two to pretend than to do so alone.

When Peter asked her to have dinner with him she accepted gratefully. Anything was better than sitting in her apartment brooding. Peter sounded grateful, too, as if he had expected her to refuse. He needn't have worried, Donna though with the sense of humor she had almost lost during the past week.

Her spirits rose as she bathed and dressed. The days were still warm but October nights were cold. With infinite care Donna applied make-up to conceal any indication of her grief. Her blue eyes stared at her reflection critically. She might not dress as well as Enid (certainly Donna's clothes were not as expensive) but they were becoming. The suit she wore matched her straw colored hair. Her mouth touched with a rosy lipstick was sweet and generous.

Neither bitterness nor resentment showed in her face although she had felt both. Why not be honest about it, Donna? It was after the wedding, after she met Peter Grant, that she began to feel better. How fortunate that meeting had been for both.

WHEN Peter arrived he found her waiting. "What a charming room," Peter cried. "I needn't ask if you have furnished it yourself. It's a perfect background for you."

"I worked for an interior decorator for the two years Arthur was away," she reminded him. "For a pittance I might add, but I was permitted to buy things at a discount so when I saw something I wanted I bought it. I didn't expect to be using these things in an apartment, but after Enid arrived I saw no reason to pay storage on them."

DONNA MEADOWS, filled by ARTHUR PRENTISS, in whose business she has invested some money, is heart broken as she attends his wedding to ENID MARCH. At the leaves the church she meets PETER GRANT, who offers to take her to the reception. He is to become Arthur's partner in the business and Donna learns he has been jilted by Enid. They leave the reception early and go dancing. Peter trying to cheer up Donna. Peter takes her home at 4 a.m. asking if he may call her at 7 that night.

He had brought a box of pale pink roses which she was arranging in a crystal bowl. "The flowers are lovely, Peter. I'm going to wear one in my hair. . . ."

He said smiling, "Only a very pretty girl can wear a rose in her hair without calling attention to the contrast."

Donna laughed but she was pleased. She knew by some secret telepathy existing between them that he was referring to Enid who was too artificial to wear any kind of a flower except a jeweled one.

"You mustn't flatter me," Donna warned. "I'm not accustomed to it. Now that I think of it Arthur hasn't whispered sweet nothings in my ear since his return."

"And Enid?" she asked quietly.

"Enid doesn't mean a thing to me."

"I don't understand how you can love someone then just put them out of your mind as if they'd never existed."

"You can do anything if you really want to," he insisted. "It's easier, of course, if you can replace the faithless one as soon as possible."

DONNA thought he was joking. When she realized he was serious her color deepened. "I'm not sure I understand what you mean."

Peter took her hands, holding them tightly as he said, "You understand perfectly. You just don't like to admit that such a thing can happen. You haven't really been in love with Arthur since his return. It was the idea you were clinging to. The fulfillment of your dream."

"Such as what?"

"What's wrong with wanting those things?"

"Nothing wrong, darling," he said gently. "It's what most people want but you can obtain them with more than one person."

Tears filled her eyes as she shook her head. "I don't want them with anyone else."

"You will and the sooner the better. Just as an example you and I could be married this very night and have a happy home and everything that goes with it."

"You haven't a very high opinion of me if you think I could do such a thing."

He lifted her hand to his lips and kissed it. "On the contrary I have such a high opinion of you I am asking you to marry me. Now. As soon as possible."

Her heart began to thud until it shook her whole body. "Peter you can't be serious. We never even met until yesterday."

"My heart has known you always," he said. "It recognized you the moment I saw you. There is the woman I am going to marry, it said."

Her eyes could not meet his. She was shaking visibly as she replied, "You must be crazy, Peter. I mean I appreciate the honor but . . ."

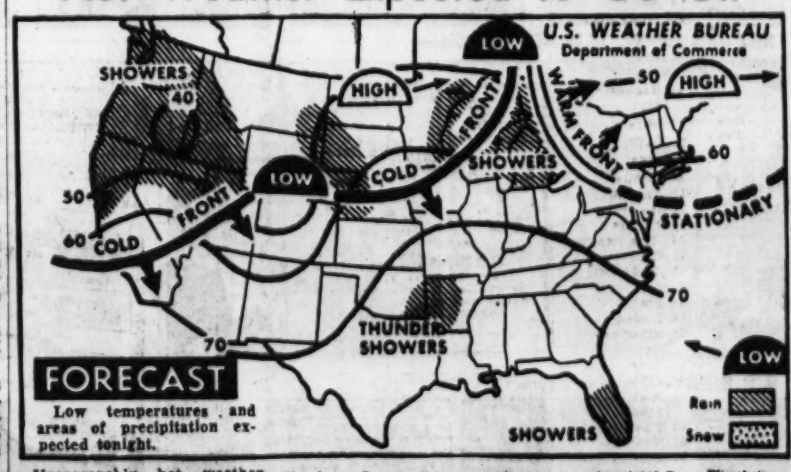

"But you can't do it?"

"I certainly can't."

Peter smiled. "You will. Someday you'll marry me. Meanwhile let's go someplace for dinner. I'm hungry," he said.

Continued Tomorrow.

Hot Weather Expected to Go On

Unseasonably hot weather will continue through tomorrow, Weatherman Harry F. Wahlgren forecast today, admitting that a mid-90s maximum was higher than it ought to be in St. Louis at this time of year.

The maximum in St. Louis yesterday was 93 at 4 p.m., marking the fiftieth day this year inw hich the reading has been 90 or more. St. Louis still has had the fewest 90 or above days since 1951, when only 30 were recorded in the entire year. Low reading this morning was 68 at 7:30 a.m.

Missouri maximums yesterday varied from 90 at Butler, Springfield, West Plains and Malden to 96 at nearby St. Charles. Lows this morning ranged from 54 at Farmington to 74 at Kansas City.

Uncle Ray's Column

By Ramon Coffman

A QUESTION about Uganda is among those which I shall take up today.

Q. Is it true that a king in Uganda has little food except milk?

A. That used to be true, according to reports of visitors. Ninety-three years ago, the British travelers, James Grant and John Speke, reported:

"King Rumanika stood six feet and two inches (tall). He lived on milk, along with beef broth and a little wine."

That so-called king was the ruler of a Negro tribe in Uganda. He was supplied with milk from a special herd of cows. The milkmaids had white faces, thanks to the white clay which covered them.

The members of that tribe are knows as Bunyoras or Unyoros. During the past half century the food customs of the king, or chief, have changed somewhat.

Q. Where is Uganda?

A. In the heart of Africa, north and west of Lake Victoria. Uganda is a British protectorate, and about half of Lake Victoria is inside its borders.

Q. Does Africa have tall mountains?

BUNYORA MILKMAIDS AND COW.

A. Africa has a large amount of plateau country, but it has very few mountain ranges. Africa has nothing to compare with the Andes of South America, the Rockies of North America or the Himalayas of Asia.

Best known among African mountains are the Atlas mountains across from Spain. The highlands of east-central Africa contain Kilimanjaro, a volcanic mountain with two peaks, Mount Kibo, the taller of these peaks, rises to a height of more than three and a half miles.
